Member for Delta Continued the Debate—His Criticism of Minister's Statement

A TRIBUTE TO MR. NADEN

J. H. Hawthornthwaite Introduces Bill Amending Settlers' Rights Act

(From Tuesday's Daily)

The debate upon the budget was re-sumed at the sitting of the legislature yesterday by John Oliver. The mem-ber for Delta devoted a full quarter of the time which he utilized to an tack upon the attorney-general. took exception to that gentleman's remarks at Vancouver on the preceding Saturday evening, and he waxed very indignant over his pleading in a private case while the house was in session and while he was enjoying a stipend from the province.

He took exception to the means by which, he claimed, the surplus for the last fiscal year had been rolled up. He said that it was by the alienation to peculators of the crown lands, the imber lands and the resources of British Columbia generally.

If Mr. Oliver had waxed warm when the denounced the lack of modesty of the attorney-general, his tone took on a pathetic note when he referred to the shortcomings of the government with regard to the votes for constituencies. The average vote to those which were represented by Liberals in the house amounted to but $8,000, he said, while that to Conservative ridings was far more. Delta had a vote of but $1,100. When the Hon. Richard McBride interpolated a remark anent a bridge (New Westminster bridge) which had been built across the Fraser for the benefit of the constituency of Belta, and which had cost $1,000,000, Mr. Oliand which had cost $1,000,000, Mr. Oilver's laugh was almost sardonic, and he perpetrated what was almost a pun.
"Yes," he said, and if you cross that bridge with a sucking pig, you have to pay a toll upon it. I call that extremely pleayunish."

Mr. Oliver's criticism throughout was along very much the same line. He along very much the same line. He continually acclaimed the hon, minister of finance as the ablest of the lieutenant-governor's advisers. He averred that in that gentleman's word the opposition had confidence.

that in that gentleman's word the opposition had confidence.

A pleasing incident marked the sitting and proved that for once virtue is not alone its own reward. As the hon, member for Greenwood, G. R. Naden, was writing quietly at his desk and the legislature rapidly committed various bills, the sergeant-at-arms entered bearing a vase containing some beautiful carnations. These he proceeded to deposit upon the desk of that hon, gentleman. For an instant the significance of the act was a mystery, but as the memory of Mr. Naden's spirited battle in the cause of female suffrage dawned again in the minds of the members, the incident was halled with cheers and handclapping from the ranks of both government and opposition, a tribute which the member for Greenwood bore blushingly.

No Legislation This Session In answer to a question of Mr. Hawthornthwaite, Hon. Mr. McBride said: I take this opportunity for exsaid: I take this opportunity for ex-plaining to the house that it is not the intention of the government to bring down any legislation during the present session in regard to the Vanisland settlers rights, which that the government does not intend to make any provision going beyod the terms which have already been agreed upon by this parliament. I may further state for the information of my hon. friend that this mat-ter was only decided upon two or three days ago. This is the first op-portunity that I have since had for making this communication to the Night Sessions Start

On motion of Hon. Mr. McBride night sessions begin at 8 p. m., and to count as distinct sittings were ordered for the balance of the ses-sion.

Order of the House

an order of this house be granted for a return of all correspondence, tenders or other documents of any kind in connection with the construction or operation of the ferry across the Fraser river at Quesnel.

He complete the attention of the house to the cost at which this had been done. It had been by the allenation of large tracts of crown land, timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of speculators largely.

He complained that, whereas, $2,400 had been voted last session for a ferry at this point, some $4,800 had been expended by the government on the work, although a tender for $1,800 accompanied by a certified cheque for $1,800 had been forwarded to the government by a responsible party prior to the beginning of operations under the direct control of government officials.

The order was granted.

In resuming the debate on the motion "that the Speaker do now leave the chair" for the purpose of going lators largely.

One of the strongest arguments of the herocurces arguments of the herocurces arguments of the province were not sufficient to meet the requirements. The statements of the finance minister in this regard had gone far to show that this argument was incorrectly based if the conditions which had prevailed for the last year or so were normal. But they were not normal. He would show that by the alienation of the timber wealth of the province and by the sale of Crown lands, an abnormal condition of affairs had been that the speaker do now leave the chair" for the purpose of going

Hon. Mr. McBride—And the hon. gentleman was a party to the arrangements, which provided for these tolls. (Hear-hear).

Mr. Oliver—But it was not the intention when we made those arrangements that they should remain in for all eternity. (Great laughter).

Why, if a farmer only takes a suck-ling pig across it, he must pay toll, and this, Mr. Speaker, is a picayunish policy. (A voice, Perhaps he means a Pig-ayunish policy). As his constituency was being punished to the extent of thousands of dollars, owing to the fact that it was represented by a vould be excluded, he had previously would be excluded, he had previously promised the legislature and his constituents in Vancouver that with the enactment of his Natal measure not a single Japanese would be allowed to land. This promise he had never carried out and his action in striking out subsection F in the bill had shown that he had no intention of keeping them out. By that action he had invited disallowance on the part of the federal government. deral government.

The attorney-general had stated in Vancouver Saturday evening that it was not the Japanese themselves who were seeking their liberty and endeavoring to set at naught the measure recently enacted, but it was the agents of the Dominion government. Yet in Victoria the twenty-three-Japanese had been detained, not by the provincial officers but by the Dominion officers.

Mr. Oliver asserted that those who were detained were held by the Dominion officers, according to the reports in the newspapers. ports in the newspapers.

Hon. Mr. Bowser: I do not take the reports of the newspapers for the ac-ons of my officers.

Not Playing Fair

Oliver, in continuing, asserted hat the attorney-general was not playing fair with the province. took its pay and then utilized time he should have given to its ser vice, for his private practice.

Perhaps it was modesty on the part of Hon. Mr. Bowser which had caused im to entrust the case for the province in the appeal then in course of hearing by the full court to Mr. Cas-sidy, of Vancouver. He had found time the week previous to leave the house and appear in a case in which he was junior counsel.

Hon. Mr. McBride: I think that my hon. friend might be fair enough to explain that my colleague was connected with this litigation long before he became a member of the adminis-tration. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Oliver asked how the members of the legislature were to know this and the premier told him to look at position, a tribute which the member for Greenwood bore blushingly.

When Mr. Hawthornthwaite yesterday learned that the government did not intend to bring in a bill extending the terms of the Vancouver Island Settlers' Rights act he introduced a bill to that effect. It provides that the time in which application may be made for permission to benefit under the terms of the act be extended from December, 1904, to December 31, 1909.

The premier's motion providing for night sittings from now until the close of the session was formally passed. A session last evening was contemplated, but was later withdrawn, and the house adjourned until today at 2 o'clock. It is altogether likely that there will be an evening session today.

The Speaker took the chair at 2.30 o'clock.

Prayers by Rev. Robert Connell.

Mr. Tatlow: The statement has been made a great many times and I wish to settle it once and for all. The been made a great many times and I wish to settle it once and for all. The million dollar loan was received and placed to the credit of the province March 1 1904 and on February 29, the day previous, we had overdrafts on current account of $663,000, including an overdraft of $411,000 at the Bank of British Columbia, while we owned the estates and suitors fund trust account $1510,000, making in all nearly $850,000, respecting which we were absolutely behind and leaving us only $150,000 to carry on the business of the country from March 1. (Hear, hear.)

In any event, Mr. Oliver stated, the liabilities were but $814,187, while the amount borrowed was $1,000,000, and in the June following there was to the credit of current account $513,000.

Hon. Mr. Tatlow: Yes. The taxes had come in.

Mr. Oliver asserted that the finance had come in.

Mr. Oliver asserted that the finance minister's inclusion of the $150,000 for the suitors' fund in the above explanation was not correct. The province borrowed this $150,000, which was unnecessary, and paid the Bank of Commerce 3 per cent upon it. The province was paying that 3 per cent to this very day.

was paying that 3 per cent to this very day.

Hon. Mr. Tatlow: Yes, we pay 3 per cent for it and we place it in the Canadian Bank of Commerce and we get 3 per cent interest from them on it. (Applause.)

Mr. Oliver expressed the fear that the finance minister had sat so long next to the first minister that he was acquiring the "quibbling" habit. They were still receiving money and paying it out in connection with this account. Hon. Mr. Tatlow: We had to replace that money because it was a trust fund and we were liable to be called upon for it at any time.

Hon. Mr. Tatlow: Tatlow: We had to replace that money because it was a trust fund and we were liable to be called upon for it at any time.

for it at any time.

Entitled to Credit.

In continuing, Mr. Oliver stated that he believed the hon. the finance minister was entitled to credit for the reduction of the public debt. He wished to direct the attention of the house to the cost at which this had been done. It had been by the allenation of large tracts of crown land, timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the hands of specular timber and other resources, and these had passed into the honds of specular timber and other resources, and these honds are requirements of the different constitution and quite satisfied that he will immediately get his answer.

Mr. Oliver: I have done that already, and I was told that the information required could not be got within a reasonable time.

Hon. Mr. McBride That only $1,100 was voted for his own constitution.

"Picayunish" Policy

Mr. Oliver: I have done that already, and I was told that the information required could not be got within a reasonable time.

Hon. Mr. McBride That only $1,100 was voted for his own constitution.

Mr. Oliver: I have done that all the distriction and the will immediately get his answer.

Mr. Oliver

In resuming the debate on the motion "that the Speaker do now leave the chair" for the purpose of going into committee of supply.

Mr. Oliver congratulated the finance minister upon the clearance and lucidity of the financial statement which he had made to the house on Thursday last, (Applause.)

Its clearness had only been equalled by this modesty, a quality in which both his colleagues on the government side would do well to imitate him. He dwelt at some length upon the attorney-general's speech at Vancouver and in proceeding offered the attorney-general some advice—that he should stick more closely to the facts and to be less assertive. For while at Vancouver he had promised that the 206 Hindus on the Mcateagle was passing into the hands of speculators. The above figures proved this.

There had been an increase of 30 Mr. Oliver.—But the hon the premier per cent in the amount of the royalties on the timber manufactured while in the increase in the amount of timber licensed was 422 per cent as compared with this 30 per cent. This meant that the timber was being licensed 14 times as fast as it was being manufactured. Hence the revenue was clearly and the control of the policy of the hon, gentleman.

Hon. Mr. McBride.—But we cut your

Hon. Mr. McBride.—But we cut your majority in two. (Hear, hear, and apas fast as it was being manufactured.

Hence the revenue was clearly an abnormal revenue. Since the close of the last fiscal year the cut of timber had decreased materially. The revenue from royalties had fallen away during the first six months of the present fiscal year to $106,000. The finance minister had practically admitted this since the bis extinction of the present fiscal year to $106,000. The finance minister had practically admitted this since the present fiscal year to $106,000. The finance minister had practically admitted this since the present fiscal year to $106,000. in his estimates for the nine months of the next fiscal year he estimated the revenue from royalties at but $150,000, or $200,000 for 12 months, a falling off 27 per cent Mr. Oliver.-But it cost some one something in dollars and cents. Hon. Mr. McBride—The hon. gentleof 27 per cent. Mr. Oliver.—But I say yes: and

Government's Policy

He perceived that it was the intention of the government to continue the policy of timber preserves, and he policy of timber preserves, and he found that the estimated receipts from license fees during the next financial year was fixed at $909,000; while no less than 7,714,000 acres of timber lands were reported to be at the present time under license, although the government's timber policy had only been in existence for a little over two years, and it was quite evident to him that the government, alarmed at the results the government, alarmed at the results which had so closely followed upon the adoption of their own much-vaunted adoption of their own much-vaunted policy, had been absolutely forced to make these timber reserves. He was, however, quite convinced that the present depression, and particularly as concerned the lumber interests, was merely temporary.

Mr. Hawthornthwaite: Can the house with his reasons for this belief?

Mr. Oliver: Instead of that I would do even more for it.

Mr. Price Ellison: Hew?

Mr. Oliver replied that he would expend a good share of the surplus and the $200,000 which it was proposed to set aside for the purposes of the superannuation fund. The hon, the finance minister had spoken in worst allowed.

the finance minister had spoken in most eulogistic terms of the immense Mr. Oliver: I can cite numerous reasons, and would do so now if time permitted. (Hear, hear.) favored the speculator. Hon. Mr. McBride: I would ask the on, gentleman, what does he wish the house to understand by the term speculator?"

Mr. Oliver: I simply refer to those

He observed that the president of the council shook his head. Were the figures which were furnished by the government incorrect?

Mr. Oliver proceeded to say that the rather depressed condition of affairs in the Northwest Territories did not justify hope of an excellent market being found, either for lumber and for produce in that quarter. This was shown by the fact that the Dominion govern-ment had advanced over $3,000,000 to purchase seed grain for the farmers in that section, while manufacturers were complaining that their drafts for goods sold in those territories were coming back dishonored. It was not pleasant to mention these things, but these were facts. Discusses Estimates.

Taking up the estimates for public Taking up the estimates for public works, he said that if the assurances which had been given him were fulfilled, he had no reason to complain as far as the expenditure in his own constituency was concerned; but nevertheless he could not close his eyes to the fact that, in conformity with the policy of past years, the constituencies which were represented by opposition members were, if not exopposition members were, if not exactly starved, only meted out enough of the public funds to keep work from going all to pieces. On the other hand, not only were the direct grants to the constituencies represented by the sup-porters of the government almost double as much, but indirectly they also obtained a much greater propor-tion of the public money than the for-
