THE AMATEUR MINSTRELS.

The Event of the Season in the Way of Amusements.

The young men of the city who got up the minstrel entertainment at the Grand last night in aid of the poor of Toronto are to be congratulated on the immense success that it proved to be. The best audience that could be got together in the city was there, while the entertainment itself was highly creditable. Every seat in the house was occupied; boxes, chairs, circles, galleries—from floor to roof. The first part of the program was of the usual order: there were four bones—Eddie Rutherford, Roly Moffat, Arthur Morphy, Geo. Lindsay; four tambos—E. C. Arnoldi, J. McLennan, Harry Wyatt, Geo. Dunstan; with Morley Punshon as interlocutor and a large chorus. All were blackened after the approved fashion; the end men got up regardless of the fantastic; the others in dress suits. The jokes of the end men were some of them of the days of Julius Cæsar, while the rest were more recent—of the days of the old Theatre Royal, of Duprez and Benedict and of "Cool Burgess when he began. But they were none the less appreciated. Eddie Rutherford and Roy Moffatt were as good as the professionals, and when Wall street is slack and banking dull they have a business which will not let them want. The singing of the old plantation songs: Massa's in the cold, cold ground, Kitty Wells, Old Folks at Home, etc., and the ditties that are so mirth provoking, was good in every instance. J. W. Fraser, for his singing of Now I Lay me down to Sleep, gained the best deserved encore of the evening. The "silver tenor" of Geo. Dunstan in the choruses was very effective. The chorus singing, in fact, was the best part of the program. Any number of good original hits were got off at the expense of local celebrities, municipal and police officers, and the police. Morley Punshon delivered an original stump speech that kept everybody laughing. On the whole the performance was well put forward, and shows that there had been long and faithful practice on the part of the members of the company. To E. W. Schuch as musical director much of the drilling of the company is due. Now that the young men have shown that they can do so well it is to be hoped they will repeat the entertainment next year.

They Have a Watchman.

One of the firm of Turner, Valiant & Co., wholesale boot and shoe dealers, whose premises have lately been burglarized several times, said to a World reporter to-day: "I don't see how we get gone through so often. A private watchman patrols our block all night, but he never seems to know anything about the burglaries till he sees it in the morning papers."

"He must be a daisy," suggested the reporter.

"Well, I don't know about that, but it seems strange that burglars should climb on to the roof of the new building to the south of us and break in our windows, without his being aware of the fact that some crooked work was going on. Why the first time we were victimized the burglars broke through the bars of our cellar window, and would likely never have been discovered had not a detective found him trying to dispose of our goods in a second hand store."

Night watchman Mayes had better keep his weather eye open.

University Convocation.

The meeting of convocation of the university of Toronto, to be held in the Canadian Institute lecture-room this evening, ought to be a most important one. The graduates have not yet met as a body to discuss the confederation scheme, and this will of course be the main subject for consideration to-night. From the position of the large body of graduates with regard to the proposed university change, the discussion and conclusions of the meeting will be watched for with deep interest; and it is thus most desirable that there should be as large and representative a gathering of university men as possible. A good representation from the country will be here; and there are enough graduates of Toronto university in town alone to make a large meeting of themselves.

The College of Pharmacy.

Several committees reported at the annual meeting of the Ontario college of pharmacy yesterday. According to the report of the registration committee there were a larger number of applicants than retiring members. O. P. Davidson was appointed lecturer on botany. The finance committee's report showed $515 on hand, and the annual income over and above expenses was $1500.

The council adjourned to choose a site for their new building, which is understood to be opposite the Normal school grounds on Gerrard street, in Pat Hughes' old residence.

A Chicken Thief Collared.

Mrs Kelly, an old woman living on the Vaughan plank road, complained to County constables Fox and Kent that a clean sweep had been made of her hen roost. The constables tracked the footprints of the thief in the snow over some fields on to the plank road again, where they captured him with the plunder, consisting of sixteen chickens, as a log making for the city to effect a sale. The man was lodged in Parkdale police station and the birds were returned to their lawful owner.

Police Court Business.

The case of assault against John Whatmough, preferred by Wm. Tuwaites and wife, was withdrawn on payment of costs. Edward Switzer, 36, charged with stabbing Charles Baker, was discharged, there being no evidence to show that the prisoner had used a knife on Baker, although the latter was cut.

An Unexpected Visit.

The great minds who control the county council paid a visit to the free library last night. They were shown through by the secretary, Mr Davy, and several of the members, it is said, endeavored to purloin some works of fiction, but at a late hour the perpetrators were not discovered.

IN SPIKE TAIL COATS.

The School Board Doing Business on a White-Choker Basis.

E. P. Roden ambled into the school board room last night togged out in a spike-tail ulster, white kids and silk hat. Mr. Roden is evidently anxious to mark his climb to office by a departure—by crowding as much formality as possible into the trustees' optics. In addition to his own copper-fastened costume last evening, he brought out Secretary Wilkinson and Inspector Hughes in evening dress. When the board reached business Mr. Boxall asked the chairman to take the newspapers publishing correspondence animadverting on the members of the board in and do for them. Mr. Roden, in the language of Mr. Toots, remarked that it was "of no consequence."

Mr. McDonald announced that at the next meeting he will ask the board to order plans for a new school in St. Matthew's.

The school management committee's report, giving twelve young ladies appointments as occasional teachers, was adopted.

The sites and buildings report advising the offer of $800 for a quit claim from school section No. 10 for share in Riverside school property also passed.

The board stopped on the printing and supplies report. It seems this committee took in three tenders for the $200 worth of printing needed yearly. Chas. Roddy's tender was $17 ahead of either of the others. But the committee thought Mr. Roddy had managed the work so well for a year or two past that they would give him the call. There was a lively kick at this, but by a vote of 11 to 9 the whole business was sent back to the printing and supplies committee.

On the proposal of Geo. McMurrich a motion was carried demanding that the school law be amended so as to make the ballot of use in trustee elections, and make the date of the said elections concurrent with the municipal.

Mr. Bell's motion calling for a report as to whether they are obliged to use the new readers was carried after speaking by the mover, McMurrich, Pyne and Kidd.

The inspector's January report showed a registered attendance of 13,993. The average is 12,367.

A Constable Shot.

Last night Constable John Armstrong arrested a man named Little, a horse thief, and was taking him to Agnes street station, when the ruffian turned and shot him in the left arm near the shoulder. Little had previously offered to go quietly and the constable was therefore completely off his guard. Immediately after firing the shot the thief made off, and at latest reports had not been recaptured. Dr. Pollard attended the wounded officer, who was removed to his home near the station. While the wound is a bad one no serious results are anticipated.

A Horse in the Air.

At 1.30 this morning a runaway horse and cutter came dashing down Bathurst street at frightful speed. The raised blocks and the car tracks at Queen street and the speed of the horse were such that the animal was thrown fifteen feet in the air, so that the cutter hung down from behind. The horse landed on its side ten feet from where it left the ground, and Cabman Hamilton and a policeman who came up thought the beast was dead, but some minutes afterwards they got it up and into a stable. No owner has yet claimed therig.

Future of the English-speaking Race.

From a letter by Hon. W. E. Gladstone.

Mr. Barham Zincke, no incompetent calculator, reckons that the English-speaking peoples of the world 100 years hence will probably count 1000 millions. Some French author, whose name I unfortunately forget, in a recent estimate places them somewhat lower—at what precise figure I do not recollect, but it is like 600 or 800 millions. A century back I suppose they were not much, if at all, beyond fifteen millions; I also suppose we may now take them at 100.

These calculations are not so visionary as they may seem to some. They rest upon a rather wide induction, while the best they can attend to is rough approximation. But, as I recollect, it was either Imlay, or one of those with whom the name of that creature is associated, that computed a century back, the probable population of the American union at this date, and placed it very nearly at the point where it now stands.

What a prospect is that of very many hundreds of millions of people, certainly among the most manful and energetic to the world, occupying one great continent, I may almost say two, and other islands and territories not easy to be counted, with these islands at their head, the most historic in the world; in contact, by a vast commerce, with all mankind, and perhaps still united in kindly political association with some more hundreds of millions fitted for no mean destiny. United almost absolutely in blood and language, and very largely in religion, laws and institutions.

If anticipations such as these are to be realized in any considerable degree, the prospect is at once majestic, inspiring and consolatory. The subject is full of meaning, and of power—of so much meaning that the pupil of the eye requires time to set in such a flood of light. I shall not attempt after thus sketching it to expound it. It would be as absurd as if a boxkeeper at a theatre, when letting in a party, should attempt to expound the piece.

There are Exceptions, of Course.

From the Chicago News.

"What I don't like habout this blawsted Hamerica is that heverybody is in such a bloody 'urry. Why don't they take their time to do things and not rush so, ye know! Now, at 'ome we—— Blawst that young scamp of a messenger boy! W'y doesn't 'e come back? 'E's been gone now long enough to do 'alf a dozen errands, ye know."

The miners of Durham have taken the first practical step toward utilizing the recent changes in the English constitution for democratic purposes. They have resolved to run workingmen's candidates for three out of thirteen constituencies in the county, and to pay each a salary of $625. In London there is talk of running nine workingmen and raising a fund of £17,000.

WINTER RACING.

Hawkins and Cash.

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—Five hundred people witnessed a four-round sparring match, Marquis of Queensberry rules, to-night between Johnnie Cash of Montreal and Billy Hawkins, the self-styled cowboy from the Northwest. The rounds were three minutes each and were rather tame. The referee, Joe Kent of Ottawa, declared the match a draw, which is about the only thing that can be done with hippodrome affairs. There was some heavy slugging in the fourth round but no police interference. Hawkins was presented with a handsome silver belt by his Ottawa admirers. A large delegation of Toronto horsemen were present.

Pigeon Match at Woodbine.

An interesting match at pigeons was shot yesterday afternoon at Woodbine park between J. Townson of this city and George Rogers of St. Catharines. The terms were 50 birds each, 21 yards rise, for $100 a side. The result was a tie, each killing 40 as follows:

J. Townson.....	0011001101111011101111111	40
	1111110111110111101111111
G. Rogers.....	1011101111011101111111110	40
	1011100111111111011111111

Another match to settle the question of supremacy will be shot at some future date, $50 apiece being left in the hands of the judge, G. H. Briggs.

A Big Cocking Main.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The greatest cocking main in five years took place near the city to-night. Wall street sports were well represented. Tickets cost $10. The fight was between Long Island and western New York, each side to show 17 birds. The stakes were $250 a battle and $2500 for the odd main. Nine battles were fought, Long Island winning six. Over $8000 changed hands.

Second Day of the Ottawa Meeting.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Three minute class—Louis D. came first, Minnie B. second, Bay Bob third and Young Ham fourth.

Two-mile heats—Little Sioux captured first money, Joe L. second, and Maie End third. Mackie was distanced.

General Notes.

James Hurst of Montreal and J. McGee of Boston are matched to fight six rounds at Boston Monday next for $100.

Yesterday Wm. Robertson of Henderson, N.C., made a wager that he could drink a quart of whisky in 40 minutes. He accomplished the feat in 31 minutes and died two hours afterwards.

An Old Saw Re-set.

Mr. Minks—I don't see why you can't get to work at my wardrobe now, Mrs. Minks. It is in need of some repairs, and you are doing nothing.

Mrs. Minks—I will attend to that when I get ready, Mr. Minks, and not before; so you might as well be quiet.

"But you are sitting there, doing nothing at all. Remember the words of the old philosopher: 'When you are idle, you are empty.'"

"Indeed! Well, that's not so in your case."

"It isn't?"

"No; when you are idle, you are generally fall."

He was Too Funny.

The man who does the funny business for a humorous paper was out calling one night, and said something to the girl which made her laugh.

"Why, Mr. Johnson, how funny you are!" she exclaimed.

"I ought to be, Miss Tompkins," he answered. "I make my living by being funny."

"Well, I don't like it," she continued, suddenly looking dissatisfied.

"No? Why not?" he inquired somewhat surprised.

"Because, Mr. Johnson, I hate to hear people talk shop."

Johnson has since reserved all his funny ideas for his paper.

To Avoid a Kicking.

Lord Malmesbury's Memoirs: On one occasion a friend of Lord Alvanley came for advice under the following circumstances: "Mr —— has threatened to kick me whenever he sees me in society." What am I to do if he comes into the room?" "Sit down," replied his lordship.

Persians Painting the Lily.

From Chambers' Journal.

A method of "painting the lily" is common in Persia; for the narcissus-bouquets of which form the constant ornament in spring of even the poorest homes—is usually "improved" by rings of colored paper, silk or velvet being introduced over the inner ring of the petals. Startling floral novelties are the result, and the European seeing them for the first time is invariably deceived and cheated into admiration of what turns out afterward to be a transparent trick.

BLOODHOUNDS STILL USED.

How the Convicts of the Texas Penitentiary Are Run Down.

Huntsville (Tex.) Letter to Globe-Democrat.

Every gang of convicts in the state, inside and outside the walls, is provided with three or more trained hounds, sometimes bloodhounds, but more ordinarily common deerhounds, for they are hardier and stand the work for which they are trained much better than the blooded stock. It is simply surprising to see how perfectly these brutes are trained and how well they understand their business. The hounds of the Huntsville penitentiary are kept outside the prison walls at what is known as the State Farm.

"And these are the brutes we read so much about?" I remarked to the superintendent.

"Yes; they are the famous bloodhounds—that is, as much bloodhounds as you will find in Texas. They are simply deer and fox hounds, trained to hunt men."

"Do you keep them shut up all the time?"

"Yes; we do that to make them fierce and to keep them away from the convicts. They would make it lively for the boys if they had their freedom."

"Is there much difficulty in training bloodhounds?"

"We do not consider it difficult, but on the contrary, I believe the guards consider it sport. It will only require a few moments to show how it is done."

A convict or "trusty" was sent down through a large field, with instructions to climb the fence and make a detour through the timber of a couple of miles, coming out in just the opposite direction from where he started, and returning to the farm through a small stream, which he was compelled to wade. It required some twenty minutes for him to make the trip, and when he was seen to emerge from the other side, and it was certain he could get back in safety, the hounds were turned loose. They were shown the trail, and they started over fields, through marshes, over fences and other obstructions with the speed of deer. In the meantime the "trusty" had returned, and was directed to climb a tree some 300 yards distant from where we were standing. He did not require a second bidding, for the yelp of the hounds could already be heard in the distance. Soon they appeared at the edge of the timber and sprang over the fence without stopping. The trail was not lost for an instant. When the small stream was reached they crossed it with a bound, and in a few moments more they were under the tree, yelping at the convict, who sat in the branches looking down at the brutes, and smiling at the fact that this was simply a training run and not a reality.

It will consist of two good sized volumes, and it is expected that the manuscript will be ready for the printer within a month.

One English clergyman has just declared that he leaves a house as soon as he sees a novel in it, believing that no spiritual good can be there effected; while another has committed himself to the statement that the permission given to the Japanese to worship their idols in the Japanese village now exhibiting in London will bring down the curses of heaven upon the city.

In the Moscow district of Russia a case was recently tried which shows that a Ferdinand Ward can flourish in the czar's dominions. About 1860 Ivan Gavriilovitch Rykoff was instrumental in establishing a bank in the town of Skopin. For twenty years he controlled the bank, and when it failed the deposits amounted to about $8 500,000, most of which had been appropriated by Rykoff. He was sentenced to exile to Siberia for life.

A Georgia farmer sold some fine beef not long since to several families. The next morning the several households had steak for breakfast, and the several ladies were asked why they had put so much onion with the beef. Each one denied the charge in toto, and the cooks were hauled up for an investigation. The latter said they "knowed nothing about the ingerns." It was afterward ascertained that the cattle of this farmer had been feeding in a pasture where wild onions grew in great abundance.

He Shook the Country.

Albert Aspin, a man who has been working in Hamilton for some time, came to town on Monday to make inquiries concerning a young man belonging to this town, by whom he suspected he had been robbed of $63 in a city hotel. After pursuing his investigations for some time Aspin became suddenly afflicted with a strong disgust for Canada and things Canadian, which he showed by calling on Mr. Kelk and purchasing a Cunard line ticket for the old country. He left here the same day.

Petitions are in circulation at Quebec to the governor-general, being largely signed, asking that the law on the Scott act be changed as to make a two-thirds vote of the electors of any constituency necessary for the passage of the act, instead of a simple majority, as at present. The temperance people are also getting up petitions in opposition, asking that the law be not altered.

Queer Things in Pawn.

From the Philadelphia Times.

A well-dressed man entered a Market street pawn shop last night and quietly putting his hand to his mouth took out a full set of teeth, bound together with a plate of solid gold. After he had rubbed them on his handkerchief he handed them shyly to the clerk, and said in a stage whisper:

"Five dollars."

The clerk handed the man the money and a ticket, and he slipped quietly out of the door.

"That man's been here three times today," said the clerk. "The first time he left a watch and chain. The second time he left his diamond stud and ring. I've advanced him money on his false teeth before. He's a poker player. He'll be back for the teeth and the other things Monday or Tuesday."

"Do you usually lend money on false teeth?" was asked.

"No not often. Some pawnbrokers do. A couple of medical students used to come here who got hard up about once a month. Once they had pawned all their spare clothing and all their jewelry and books and instruments. A couple of nights after they came here with a long bundle wrapped in a gentlemen's coat. They told me they wanted $10 very badly. I opened the long bundle and found a human skeleton. All the bones were strung on silver wire. Knowing them well, I let them have the money and carried the skeleton upstairs in the storeroom, where it stood in the corner for a month before they came after it. Several times I've had women try to pawn babies. It's a common thing for men to come in here on bitter cold days and take off their overcoats and pawn them. A handsome young woman walked in here this morning and, taking off a sealskin sacque, pawned it for $1."
