QUARTERLY REPORT OF BRIDGETOWN SCHOOLS

In making out the questions and marking the papers we have aimed a making them a fair test of the work covered.

As is usually the case, there are no doubt some pupils who are disappointed with their results. In most cases however, the low marks are due to lack of study, and interest in the work. A few did not take the examinations, either on account of sickness or only having attended a few weeks. I wish to re mind parents that co-operation with the teacher has a lot to do with making your children successful in school. See that your children have study hours at home High school pupils should study at least two hours each evening Don't talk disparagingly of the teacher before your children and expect them to get along at school. A great deal of trouble in school management i Major W. Purdy, Fish Warden, of caused by unreasonable parents. The training of your children is an impor-Deep Brook, called at the home of tant business. Keep in touch with it. Come visit the school.

Yours, etc.,
