

John Wigmoor, aged 22, from the County of Galway, John Meadon, aged 50, from the County of Autrim, Consumption. Betsy Cullen, aged 22, from the County of Tyrone, Dropsy of the Chest. Mary Budden, aged 46, from Quebec. Cholera Morbus. Archd. Mckensie, aged 46, from Scotland. Apoplexy.

We cannot but regret to find that relations and friends of the indigent sick Emigrants who have arrived in this Port during the present season, still persevere in the reprehensible practice of abstaining from sending their sick to the Hospital, and that on the contrary they are permitted to employ themselves in hard labour while suffering from sickness, whereby upon their entering the Hospital, they are found in many instances to have been rendered incurable; and we feel it our duty to represent this circumstance as having (more especially in the present sickly season of the year) greatly enlarged the list of mortality.
