Teas and Coffees.

DELANEY'S Tea and Coffee Store is the leading house for the choicest brands of Teas and Coffees. Owing to his extensive trade he can sell his goods cheaper than other so-called tea dealers can buy for. Sold on their merits and require no promises to be offered as inducements. In view of these facts I would kindly call the attention of the Ladies that presents are a smart dealer to sell their inferior value. So if you want good value buy from the direct importer

CATARRH!
HAY FEVER.
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS.

A New Treatment.
Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a single remedy has been formulated, whereby Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet, explaining this new treatment, is sent free on receipt of stamp, by

BITS OF TINSEL.

A TRAIN stopped at a station on a Texas railroad, where a gang of workmen were digging a trench. A lady passenger, stepping to the station platform, asked one of the laborers what he was digging for. "For a quarter a day, mum," said he.

Lily (Secretary of the cooking class) —"Now, girls, we've learned nine cakes, two kinds of angel food, and seven pies. What next?" Susie (engaged)—"Dick's father says I must learn to bake bread." Indignant chorus—"Bread! Absurd! What are bakers for?"

"My dear," said her lover, "I am fired with an ambition to win your hand. May I consult your father?"
"Yes," she softly murmured. An hour later he was again "fired," but it was not with an ambition to win her hand this time. There was more foot than hand about it.

Oh, my friends, there are some spectacles that a person never forgets!" said a lecturer after a graphic description of a terrible accident that he had witnessed. "I'd like to know where they sell 'em," remarked an old lady in the audience who is always mislay-ing her glasses

Countryman (to bookseller): "My wife wants me to get her a Testament" Bookseller: "Yes, Sir, New Testament, I suppose?" Countryman: "Well, I dunno. If you've one that aint too much used up, I reckon a second-hand one would suit her just as well."
Travellers' Magazine.

A NEW YORK firm are advertising a brand of gin they manufacture as a great cure for all diseases. Of course they publish certificates. One of these says: "After using six bottles, I feel like a different man." We believe it, for we know many a one, on a far less quantity, has looked like a different man."—Gospel Age.

SAID an Irishman to a telegraph clerk: "Do you charge for the address in a message?" "No," replied the operator. "And do you charge a man for signing his name, sir?" "No, sir."
"Well, thin, I just want my brother to know I'm here, an' so will ye please send this:—To John McFlinn, at New York —signed, Patrick McFlinn."

BOBBY was spending the afternoon at his aunt's, and for some moments had been gazing out of the window in a painfully thoughtful sort of way.
"What makes you so serious, Bobby?" asked his aunt.

"Why, ma told me that I must remember not to ask for anything to eat, and I'm trying to remember it."—V. Y.
Sun.

"WHAS' d' yo' git dat load er lumber, Br'er Jimson?" "Down ter de Healin' Ba'm church." "Dasso, Br'er Jimson! Why, has dey toren de buildin' down?" "Oh, no, sah! Hit's dar yet, but I hearn Parson Blowhard say dat de pews was free, so I riz up 'rly dis mornin' an' went down dar an' ripped up a pair of 'em, an' fotched 'em erlong."

Mrs. Waldo of Boston (who is entertaining young Mr. Wabash of Chicago).
"I have a treat for you to-day, Mr.
Wabash, in the way of some broiled bivalves. My husband is very fond of them."

Young Mr. Wabash (trying one):
"They are certainly delicious, Mrs.
Waldo. They taste something like oysters."—Texas Siftings.

A WEALTHY Jew was asked at dinner to take venison. "No," he replied, "I never eat wenshon. I don't think it is as cool as mutton." "I wonder at your saying that," returned the other.
"If venison is not better than mutton, why does venison cost so much?" "Vy?
I tell you vy. In dish world de people always prefer vat is deer to vat is sheep."—New York Weekly Witness.

An old grandma with a small boy boarded a Gratiot avenue car the other day, and the collector rang the register twice. "What's that for?" she asked.
"That's two o'clock," answered the boy.
In a minute or two another passenger got on, and again the register rang.
"Three o'clock," exclaimed the old lady, as she bobbed around on her seat.
"My stars! but how time does fly in a city!"—Free Press.

Miss Gargler: "Hark! Oh, Mr Pilgriff, I'm sure I hear a cuckoo! Do listen. How sweet and melancholy, and just as the evening shades are falling, too. I dote on nature." Parson Pilgriff (who is laying pipe to keep her boarding with him way into October):
"The woods is full of 'em down behind th' red barn. I'll ketch you some afore you go home in th' Fall. (To himself.) Jed didn't ferget ter ile that ole grin' stone fer nothin'. She squeaks good ter-night."—Tid-Bits.
