DR. Pusey and his Judges.—The Liverpool Times—a radical dissenting paper—thus speaks of this extraordinary case:

The secret conclave which has suspended Dr. Pusey, on a charge of preaching doctrines opposed to those of the English Church, has acted in such a manner as to excite considerable sympathy in his favour, even amongst those who are most opposed to his opinions. To condemn a man without listening to his defence is contrary to the practice of any tribunal ever heard of, except the Holy Inquisition, and is especially opposed to the humane and considerate principles of the English law. Dr. Pusey may or may not have been guilty of setting forth heterodox doctrines, but even if he has, that affords no justification of the course adopted against him. Indeed, the greater his heresy, the easier it would have been to convict him of it, and therefore the less excuse there was for condemning him unheard. By the course adopted, the sentence is deprived of all effect. His own friends are already discrediting it as the condemnation of a man punished by his enemies in his absence; his opponents are unable to show the grounds on which he has been suspended, and the public in general look on the whole proceeding as opposed to every principle of justice and common

The disturbances of the peasantry in Wales continued, and seem to have become more extensive and alarming. The Government had despatched Mr. Hall, as a commissioner to the listurbed counties, to investigate the cause of the complaints and report what measures were necessary to remove any real evils.

The violence of hostile feeling created by the dissension in the Church of Scotland, is shown by the following paragraph,

Mackenzie, Lochcarron, proceeded to Lochbroom to declare the church vacant, in terms of the order from the General Assembly and Presbytery. The bell-rope was cut, and the principal door, which had been left open for the last twelvemonth, was found nailed up. An entrance, however, was effected, and on the Rev. gentleman ascending the pulpit, he found there the carcase of a dog in a state of putrefaction! The horror and disgust inspired by such a desecration we need not attempt to describe.

COOKE.—At the meeting of this body; Secession of Dr. Cooke.—At the meeting of this body; whose sittings closed yesterday, some important propositions were carried, in opposition to Dr. Cooke; and in fact, it was very apparent that the feeling of the body was decidedly against his policy. During the latter part of the proceedings, it was generally noticed that he absented himself. Yesterday, not long before the final adjournment, the moderator announced that he had received a communication of some importance, which he wished to submit to the members privately. A short addournment took place, and the members retired, when the adjournment took place, and the members retired, when the Moderator read to them a letter from Dr. Cooke, declaring his secession from the jurisdiction of the Assembly; but retaining

Cape or Good Hore.—Lord Stanley has cut the Gordian knot with regard to the Boors of Port Natal. It will be received that a number of the more hardy of the Dutch settlers at Cape Colony, dignated at the effects of slave genancipation, and taking offence at other matters, evacuated the incitations of portions and text of this country and proceeded to Port Natal, where they attempted to establish a sproceed by the other of the public peace which they excite. We look at the language held at them, and have felt it our duty to ded recommend the majestary to remove from the commission and taking offence at other matters, evacuated the incitations of Dargot of the pation, and taking offence at other matters, evacuated the proceeded to Port Natal, where they attempted to establish a sproceeded to Port Natal, where they attempted to establish a stream of the two countries, and that the maintenance of that must lead to the dismembers of the process of the hew acquisition. It is, in fact, the Koran which England carries in her hand to make all her conquests:—

"1. That in the eye of the law there shall be no distinction of disqualification whatever, founded upon colour, origin, language, or creed, but that the protection of the law, in letter and in substance, shall be extended to all alike.

"2. That no aggression upon the natives residing beyond the limits of the colony shall be sanctioned under any plea whatever by any private person, or any body of men, unless whatever by any private person, or any body of men, unless acting under the immediate authority and orders of the government.
