

IRELAND'S DAY.

The Irishmen of Chicago are going earnestly to work to make September 30, Ireland's Day at the World's Fair, a memorable day in the annals the Irish race in America.

A good beginning was made and some splendid work was done at a largely attended meeting of the united Irish societies. An executive committee of sixty was appointed, and instructions were given to invite the Irish Members of Parliament, Mayors of Irish cities, prominent Irishmen, and Irish-Americans in the United States, and all civil and military organizations.

Father Henneberry of St. Pius's Church made an eloquent speech. He said that the Irish race would be on parade before the world on September 30 and that there should be no division and no absenteeism. The occasion should be made an honor to the Irish people and to the principles for which they were contending. The Irish day, Father Henneberry said, must not be second to the German day or any other day. Irishmen should step in the front rank, and it was their sacred duty at this momentous period of their history to make a great demonstration before the world and prove by their numbers and personnel how unjust it was that a nation composed of such men should be deprived of the rights of self-government.

The sentiments voiced by Father Henneberry were vociferously applauded and taken up by the entire meeting. In subsequent speeches it was proposed to make Ireland's Day the occasion of a grand Home Rule demonstration, and when Professor McGusken paid an and said that Providence was prolonging the life of the great statesman to open an Irish Parliament, everybody rose to his feet and cheered for several minutes.

There was another outburst of enthusiasm when Father Green, supporting Father Henneberry's plea for union, said that on Ireland's Day there would be no room for religious differences.

Father Byrnes predicted that there would be over three hundred thousand of the Irish race at Jackson Park on September 30. He said that he and his associate priests would stir up the Irish people of Indiana, and he was confident that the Irish priests all over the United States would advertise the day from their pulpits.

After the singing of "God Save Ireland" in Gaelic the meeting adjourned.

"Happiness in Hell."

Our Roman correspondent telegraphs that Professor Mivart's three articles in The Nineteenth Century upon "Happiness in Hell" have been condemned by the Holy Office of Inquisition, and accordingly placed upon the Index Expurgatorius.—London Tablet.

Something Unusual.

as a medicine, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And, because of that, there's something unusual in the way of selling it. Where every other medicine of its kind only promises, this is guaranteed. If it ever fails to benefit or cure you have your money back.

It's the only guaranteed remedy for every disease caused by a disordered liver or impure blood. Dyspepsia, Biliousness, the most stubborn Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages, are all cured by it.

It purifies and enriches the blood, rouses every organ into healthful action, and restores strength and vigor. In building up both flesh and strength of pale, puny, Scrofulous children, or to invigorate and brace up the system after "Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases, nothing can equal the "Discovery."

Catarrh is positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy.

During the last year France was, as usual, the largest contributor to the work of the propagation of the faith, the amount being 3,913,560 francs. North America comes next with 440,446 francs.

RHEUMATISM IN THE KNEES.

SIR,—About two years ago I took rheumatism in the knees, which became so bad that I could hardly go up or downstairs without help. All medicines failed until I was induced to try B.B.B. By the time I had taken the second bottle I was greatly relieved, and the third bottle completely removed the pain and stiffness. AMOS BECKSTED, Morrisburg, Ont.

Cottolene

A SHORTENING.

Down the street through the busy way
A lady passed on marketing day.
Who, pausing at a grocery store,
Stepped quickly in at the open door.
With bated breath and anxious mien
She queried: "have you COTTOLENE?"

The grocer, leaving off his work,
Interrogated every clerk;
But none up to that time had seen
An article called "COTTOLENE."

"What is it?" said he to the dame,
"That answers to this curious name.
What is it made of? What's its use?
My ignorance you'll please excuse."

"You're not the merchant for my dimes,
I see you're quite behind the times.
For COTTOLENE, I'd have you know,
Is now the thing that's all the go,
An article of high regard;
A healthful substitute for lard.
Its composition pure and clean;
For cooking give me COTTOLENE."

As from his store the lady fled,
The grocer gently scratched his head—
On his next order, first was seen,
"One dozen cases COTTOLENE."

FROM PRESIDENT TO POPE.

A Volume of Executive Documents Presented to Leo XIII.

ROME, Aug. 13.—The Pope has received the following letter through Cardinal Gibbons:—

EXECUTIVE MANSION.

WASHINGTON, June 9, 1893.

To His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons:—

Your Eminence—Please permit me to transmit through you to His Holiness Leo XIII my sincere congratulations on the occasion of the golden jubilee of his episcopate.

The pleasure attending this expression of my felicitations is much enhanced by the remembrance that His Holiness has always manifested a lively interest in the prosperity of the United States and great admiration for our political institutions.

I am glad to believe that these sentiments are the natural outgrowth of the Holy Father's solicitude for the welfare and happiness of the masses of humanity and his especial sympathy for every effort made to dignify simple manhood and to promote the moral and social elevation of those who toil.

The kindness with which His Holiness lately accepted a copy of the Constitution of the United States leads me to suggest that if it does not seem presumptuous, it would please me exceedingly to place in his hands a book containing the official papers and documents written by me during my previous term of office.

Yours, very sincerely,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

DEATH OF CANON FRITH.

We regret to record the death of Canon Frith, of the diocese of Shrewsbury, who, retired some time from active ministry, died on Monday last. According to the Daily Chronicle the Canon had an extraordinary career. Shortly after his ordination as a Catholic priest he caught a malignant fever, as the result of his ministrations amongst the poor at Manchester, but struggled through the attack, thanks to a good constitution. He was then removed to Liverpool, where cholera was then raging. Daily were he and his fellow-priests called upon to bring the consolations of religion to the sick and dying, and they literally carried their lives in their hands. Father Frith was so exhausted by his labors that, if asked to sit down in an infected house, he would not do so, lest he should be unable to get up again. The only relaxation he gave himself was to undo his boots and pour out the mingled puddle and blood in which his feet were often soaked in consequence of his prolonged exertions. It may be added that all the priests of St. Patrick's, Liverpool, except the man "from Sheffield" perished from the scourge. When the Catholic hierarchy was established in 1851 there were "No Popery" riots in various parts of the country, and upon several occasions Canon Frith was in danger of his life. Once he was chased by a mob of Liverpool Orangemen, and took refuge in a chimney, from which he emerged smiling, though in a sadly begrimed condition, when the storm had passed. Another time, when Protestant passion raged high, a march upon his church was organized. The Canon was giving the Benediction when the approach of the rioters was heard. The church doors were hastily locked and barred but the mob broke in with axes and sledge hammers. The worshippers fled, and were badly assaulted, and the Canon found refuge upon the roof. Here he would, in all probability, have been murdered, had not the military, with fixed bayonets, opportunely arrived upon the scene. In the meantime his house had been set on fire. Later on, when he became parish priest of Stockport, his presbytery was often the rendezvous in the evening, when the Assizes were on at Manchester, of leading barristers. Father Frith was to them what Father Prout was to Sir Walter Scott, and the money table rang with many a happy gist. R. I. P.—London Tablet.
