

1980

1979

1981

1982

1983

1984

1985

79

Flora MacDonald, Secretary of State for External Affairs, addresses the Security Council during a debate on a resolution for further steps to be taken by the Council regarding the crisis between Iran and the United States.

80

Halfdan T. Mahler, Director-General of the World Health Organization, speaks to a special session of the General Assembly which launches the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, the aim of which is to bring safe water and sanitation to all the world's people by 1990.

81

The UN Conference on New and Renewable Sources of Energy in Nairobi attempts to translate today's concerns about energy problems into concrete plans for the future, making better use of conventional energy sources while also promoting development of new and renewable energy forms.

82

The UN, through its Fund for Population Activities, assists in carrying out a census in the People's Republic of China.

83

The drought ravaging the continent of Africa galvanizes several UN Agencies to provide immediate relief and develop long-term plans to contribute to the region's recovery. This father who lost several members of his family during their journey to a UN relief center in Bati, Ethiopia, now feeds his dying son.

84

Joe Clark, Canada's Secretary of State for External Affairs, addresses the opening session of the General Assembly. The International Day of Peace, proclaimed by the Assembly in 1981, is observed at this opening.

85

Canada takes part in marking the 40th anniversary of the UN, and creates a special logo as part of celebrations by young people across the country.

See poster for photo credits.

Special thanks to the Photo Library/Distribution Unit of the United Nations Department of Public Information for their assistance in gathering these photographs.