

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

HIGH-CLASS GOODS FOR WOMEN'S WEAR

Imported Cloths From London and Paris Unequaled in Quality.

SELECTION UNLIMITED

Suitable Garments for Every Occasion and of Latest Designs.

Paris and London, those homes of all that is best and most attractive in the realms of creative art, in these things that pertain to the toilet of the well dressed woman are brought very close to Toronto thru the Maison Terapani. Just now on the shelves of the tailor establishment, which turns out in finished perfection suits in the latest models and gowns which display the highest qualities of the designer and modiste.

The stock of this firm is imported direct from Paris and the metropolitan city of the empire, and the staff of workers have been trained in the artistic establishments of Belgium and France. Just now on the shelves of the showrooms are piled samples of suitings in silk, poplins and cords, which in superiority of texture are simply unrivaled. These are all in the latest shades as well as a number in more exclusive coloring, which command by their rarity and richness or other distinctive features. Belgian blue, batiste gray, taupe, sage, hearse, sand, chocolate, navy and many of the others of the transient or standard shades are to be secured from among this choice collection. For traveling and heavier suits there are attractive checks in black and white, light tweeds, cream, serge, plain or striped—all chic and smart to a degree. Buttons and the accessories that mean so much to style and finish are displayed in the highest variety.

For afternoon and evening wear the selection is unlimited. The opening of boxes reveals rare lace, gossamer-like chiffons and embroideries in silver, crystals and gold, which suggest the looms of the orient and the highest products of the arts and crafts of Europe. Dainty unimpaired pearls in flesh shade, white, cream, pearl gray, rose and lavender are all here in fascinating variety. Laces illustrative and suggestive of the most distinctive are a feature of the stock.

Black Venetians with great roses and foliage outlined in golden thread, the embroidered in handsome conventional designs are rare and impelling in their magnificence.

Stock, style and workmanship in all departments are guaranteed of the best, and the public are tendered a cordial invitation to visit the highest of the Maison Terapani, No. 2 East Bloor street, Toronto.

ORDINATIONS AT ST. KITTS.

Special to The Toronto World.
ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 30.—H. E. Willis, J. L. Williams, W. H. Gregory and E. F. Maunsell were ordained to deacons' offices at St. Kitts Church, St. Catharines, by Bishop Clark of Niagara diocese this morning in St. George's Church, Archdeacon Perry, 'Thomas' Church, this city, delivered the sermon.

Secrets of London Complexion Doctors

Famous London specialists who cater to titled ladies and others of social prominence, employ a remarkable method of complexion rejuvenation. One undergoing this treatment visits the beauty doctor late in the afternoon, has something dabbed over her face, then, heavily veiled, departs in her motor car. This is repeated daily for a week or so, when a complexion of snowy purity and exquisite delicacy is in evidence. The secret of this method is—ordinary mercurized wax. Anyone can apply the wax without assistance of a specialist. An ounce of it costs very little at any druggists (obtainable here as well as abroad). It is used like cold cream, before retiring, and washed off mornings. Its success is due to a peculiar absorbent property which gradually removes worn-out particles of cuticle, revealing the younger, healthier skin beneath.

A wonderful wrinkle-chaser, also in vogue among Englishwomen, is prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxatile in 1 pt. witch hazel. Used as a wash lotion, this completely and quickly effaces even the deepest lines.

Water Gardens and Water Plants

No branch of gardening affords more opportunities for the solving of fascinating problems in plant culture than that branch which deals with the planning and constructing of water gardens.

There is none to deny that a cool, quiet stretch of dimpling water, low-lying beneath the sweeping shadows of a giant tree rimmed round with ferns, green-veining and lily-garnished, offers to the weary mind a consolation unequalled the wide world over.

But how much more satisfying when such a retreat is one's own or perhaps the partial or entire work of one's own hands.

Last year we spoke of water gardens quite early in spring, so that our gardeners might be able to commence their work in this line early. This year, however, many of our wildflower gardeners have asked me to talk on this subject in early June, so that they might bring in as many wildlings as opportunity may afford; so this coming week and perhaps a day or two more will be devoted to aquatics.

Everyone interested in plants will be forced to acknowledge that the grand results obtained in many water gardens by the introduction of rare and beautiful plants have awakened a new interest among amateurs and professionals, and yet, we must deny that these rare and costly specimens are essential to the success of an ordinary little lily-pool. Certain it is that no aquatic can surpass the stately beauty of the ancient Lotus of the Nile, but just now also that aquatic can rival in gorgeous splendor the ordinary everyday Iris, truly known as the "poor man's orchid."

How impossible it is for the poor man to possess specimens of the lotus need not be discussed here; but there is anyone in this lovely Canada of ours who cannot get hold of a glowing clump of Irises, either from swamps or from a kindly neighbor. If there is such a one, please let him apply to this department. Because a clump of Irises is as necessary to a water garden as is water.

No Japanese water garden would exist without its "Rainbow of the Gods," and as everyone knows, the Japanese are the water gardeners of the world.

Then just think of the ever-popular marsh marigold, whose yellow cups are awake so early to catch the waxing sun. And has anyone ever heard of the old-fashioned forget-me-not in this column? An aquatic of the first rank.

And do not try to tell me that wildflower lovers, either city or country bred, do not know just where to go to get splendid roots of the lustrous green arrowweed, whose spikes of waxen bells are so fitting in a cool pool of ferns and rushes.

Ferns and rushes. This brings us to the bullrushes. Enough said.

Five or six "Jack-in-the-Pulpits" must be obtained, else how could one ever trust to the developing morals of the water garden without this wise little preacher, so aloof under his curving canopy of purple and green; some "lizards" tails" to trail awesomely over the rough stones; a water-hyacinth or two to show swampland shifting shadows; a frisky tuft or two of "cats' tails"; some of the sloppy, silvery family of "ladies' slippers"; and above all things else, to keep the peace, a stout couple of "golden club."

(To Be Continued.)

MRS. DOUGLAS YOUNG HAS GONE TO ENGLAND

Will Nurse Her Husband, Who Has Been Wounded While in Action.

Special to The Toronto World.
KINGSTON, Ont., May 29.—Word was received by Jeremy Y. Taylor, manager of the Bank of British North America, this morning to the effect that Major Donald Douglas Young of the Royal Canadian Dragoons had been wounded in action. His wife sailed from New York for England on Saturday morning. It is understood.

RED CROSS SERMONS.

BILLVILLE, May 30.—In all the city churches today sermons appropriate to Red Cross work were delivered, and collections taken up for the work.

Notes of Women's World

At the closing meeting for the season of the College Heights and Rosedale Patriotic League, the treasurer announced that $1223 had been received since organization; also sent to headquarters 5570 garments, 19,577 articles of use in surgical work, 978 knitted articles, 2406 garments sent to the Belgians, and 1278 garments distributed for relief in the Earlscourt district. Sewing will continue at the Deaconess' Home, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. All workers welcome.

A shower held by the Women's Auxiliary, at a meeting of the Kingston Old Boys, realized 27 sheets, 35 pillow slips, 116 towels, 55 1/2 handkerchiefs, 20 bed-jackets, 5 pairs bed-socks, 1 pair hand-made socks, and 108 first-aid bandages. More to follow.

The pupils of St. Matthew's Anglican Sunday School, Riverdale, are giving up their annual picnic and contributing money to the Belgian fund. Primary division are not included and will have usual outing.

Sir William Oser Chapter, L.O.E., desire to thank all who helped to make their St. Lawrence Market dinner a success by contributions, and the Consumers' Deal Co. for appliances. A cheque for $300—proceeds—has been sent to University Base and Shorncliffe Hospitals.

The regular weekly sewing meeting of Chamberlain Chapter, L.O.E., will be held today at 18 East King street, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Rosary Hall Sewing Circle will meet at Rosary Hall this afternoon at 2 o'clock. A collection will be made for the lecture of Father Pirot of Namur, Belgium, to be given at Loreto Abbey.

To finish a consignment of hospital shirts, the Montefiore Patriotic League will meet tomorrow from 10.30 a.m. to 2 p.m., at 233 McCaul street.

A "talent tea" will be given in aid of the Red Cross by the High Park girls, on Wednesday at 134 Westminster avenue.

The Harbor Alumnae "June tea" takes place Wednesday afternoon in the Mission tea room, West King street. It is hoped a large number of the Harbor Old Girls will be present.

On Thursday and Friday evenings of this week song recitals will be given by Mme. Jane Tuttle and Company, in the Y.W.C.A. Hall, McGill street. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Canadian Business Women's Club.

The election of officers at the annual meeting of the Bishop Strachan School Old Girls' Association resulted as follows: President, Mrs. E. A. Lennox; vice-presidents, Mrs. D. Henderson, Mrs. Temple Blackwood; secretary, Mrs. E. A. Lennox; corresponding secretary, Miss Naomi Boulton; treasurer, Miss Dorothy Tyrrell.

The following names were added to the executive: Mrs. E. A. Bale, Mrs. J. B. O'Brien, Miss Ethel Baldwin, Miss Esther Toffies, Miss Agnes MacDermott and Miss Adelaide Cartwright.

ARCHDUKE IN COMMAND.

COPENHAGEN, via London, May 29.—A despatch from Berlin states that Archduke Franz Ferdinand has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Austrian forces operating against Italy. He has been chief of staff of the army engaged against Serbia and is highly popular with the rank and file.

To Give the Hair a Naturally Wavy Effect

Since the virtues of plain liquid eliminate a hair curler became known, English chemists, as well as druggists in Canada and the United States, have been giving a really extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. Its effectiveness and its entire harmlessness—especially as compared with the ruinous curling iron—doubtless have been responsible for its increasing use for the purpose mentioned. As the curliness is in evidence for a considerable time, a few ounces of liquid will last a long while.

One need only apply a little of the liquid with a clean tooth brush before retiring and in the morning the hair will have that beautiful wavy and glossy appearance which bears no marks of artificiality. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. There is no discoloration, no streaky or other unpleasant after-effect.

Panama and Leghorn Hats Cleaned and Remodelled

to the latest style.
NEW YORK HAT WORKS.
566 YONGE STREET, Phone N. 5169

MR. FRED TIDEN

The leading man with the Percy Haswell Stock Company, at the Alexandra Theatre.

THEATRES

Novelities at the Alexandra

Novelty week will be inaugurated at the Alexandra tonight by Miss Percy Haswell and her clever company. This favorite company will present four one-act plays by English, Canadian and American authors. The first act will be "An Interrupted Divorce." The second play entitled "Such Things Have Happened" was written by Lynn Osborn, member of Miss Haswell's company. The third play is called "The Soldiers" and was written by a resident of Toronto, Louise Carter. Tonight will serve to introduce Little Violet Dunn, who is a native of Toronto. In the principal part of the play, "Such Things Have Happened," is from the pen of Allan Sawett.

Ben Welch at Hippodrome

Headlining an excellent bill at the Hippodrome this week is Ben Welch. A feature of the bill will be the first appearance in Toronto of Ethel Downe Jones "The California Girl." Dances by Miss Agnes MacDermott and "Bunny Pulls the Strings" assisted by a capable company will present the amusing sketch played "The Marriage of Maggie." Grace and Burke are two clever eccentric dancers, while Miffie Harrison is a dainty singer and comedienne. Clarke and Cooke, Bailey and Boone, and feature film attractions complete an excellent bill.

St. Elmo at the Grand

Commencing Monday evening the Phillips-Shaw Company will inaugurate a season of summer stock and for the opening will present "The Marriage of Figaro," a dramatization of Augustus Evans Wilson's famous novel, "St. Elmo." Probably the most popular of the many book plays, in making the announcement of the summer stock season the management desires to call attention to the special scale of prices—a scale adopted by the largest stock organizations on the continent.

Loew's Yonge St. Theatre

The veteran Irish character actor, Thos. J. Ryan, will be the headline attraction at Loew's Yonge St. Theatre the coming week, as Haggerty in "Maggie Haggerty's Reception." The Royal Gascolades, wonderful English jugglers and acrobats, The Ogden Quartet, in a straight singing act, a musical and vocal treat; Laylo and Benjamin, clever acrobats and comedians; Frivoli, Italian shadowgraphist; Evans and Wilson, in a clever play with songs, entitled "Who Owns the Baby?" Fred Hillbrand, elongated comedian, and others. As an extra attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only, the management has secured a two-reel comedy featuring the well known comedian, Charlie Chaplin, in "The Tramp."

"THE FATAL WEDDING."

For the second week of the summer season at the Grand, commencing Monday next, the Phillips-Shaw Company will present "The Fatal Wedding," one of the oldest of melodramas, with real heart interest and a splendid stage story.

VANDERBILT LEFT THIRTY MILLIONS

Will of American Lost on Lusitania Filed for Probate

A GREAT ESTATE

Practically All Goes to His Second Wife and Children

NEW YORK, May 29.—The will of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, the American multi-millionaire, who lost his life in the destruction of the Lusitania, was filed for probate today. To his second wife, Margaret Emerson Vanderbilt, Vanderbilt bequeathed $2,000,000, in accordance with an ante-nuptial agreement made in London on Dec. 15, 1911, and an additional $1,000,000 not mentioned in the marriage contract.

The will was drawn up on Dec. 16, 1913. It bequeaths to Mr. Vanderbilt's children, by his second wife, the income from a trust fund of $5,000,000, the principal of which is to go to the children upon the death of their mother, upon any terms she may designate.

Another trust fund of $5,000,000 was established, the income of which will go to William H. Vanderbilt, the deceased's eldest son. The first wife is not mentioned in the will.

Oakland farm, the show place of A. G. Vanderbilt, at Newport, is left in care of the executors of the will, to be used by W. H. Vanderbilt.

Sagamore Lodge, the great country place owned by Mr. Vanderbilt in the Adirondack Mountains, and the Moose River tract, a piece of ground 2000 acres in extent, as well as Vanderbilt property in England, goes to Mr. Vanderbilt's second wife.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

THE DISCIPLINARIAN

Speaking generally, whatever home training a child receives is the training of his mother. Of course, the father must play a part in the bringing up of his children. He cannot consider himself exempt from this, his most important duty, just because his work keeps him from home most of the time. But it is inevitable that the home-keeping and the intimate training of the little ones fall to the mother's share of the partnership.

The average father knows nothing of the intimate association that exists between the mother and the children in the home. When the children grow up, of course, they see more of father, but during the early years it is upon the mother that the entire responsibility must rest. And when the mother considers that the reputation and future of the child rests largely upon his training during his first seven years, she realizes that it is a tremendous responsibility indeed.

Whether we are at birth endowed with certain intellectual powers, or whether our minds at birth are blank upon which the impressions we receive create our thought and character, the fact remains that the impressions of the first seven years stay with us longest.

dore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

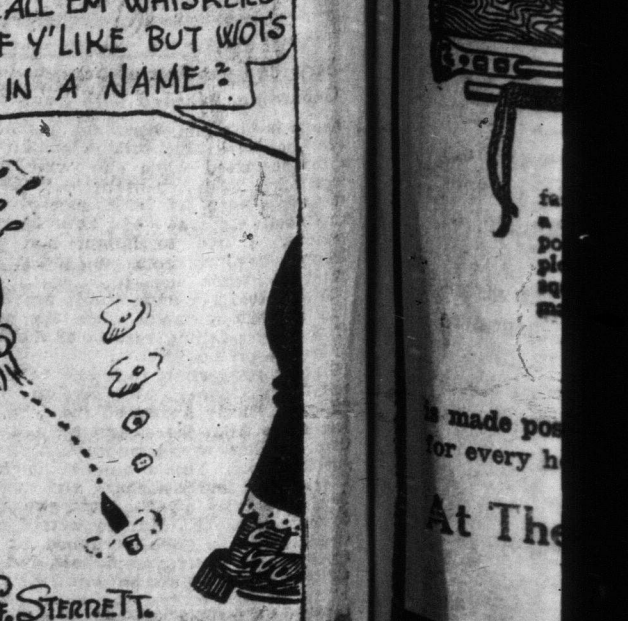

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt's great collection of art works is left to his eldest son, as well as the medal granted to Commodore Vanderbilt at the close of the civil war by congress.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is divided between A. G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Vanderbilt, the children of the deceased by his second wife. The value of the entire estate was not given in the will, but it was estimated to be more than $30,000,000.

Polly and Her Pals

Copyright, 1914, by Randolph Lewis.

By Sterrett

Great Britain Rights Reserved.

