ed. This little fort, which was very strongly situated and protected by extra strong wire entanglements, had long been a source of trouble.

"After a special bombardment by a French motor, and while the bombardment of the surrounding trenches was at its height, a part of the Border Regiment, at the exact moment prescribed, leaped from its trenches as one man, and like a pack of hounds pouring out of cover, raced across and took the work most brilliantly.

the work most brilliantly.
"The artillery bombardment increased in intensity until 11 a.m., when the range was lengthened. The infantry then advanced and an infantry attack was carried out with great dash along the whole line. "West of Saghir Dere three lines of trenches were captured with little opposition. The trenches were full of dead Turks. Many had been buried by the bombardment. One hundred prisoners were taken.

"East of the ravine the Royal Scots made a fine attack, capturing two lines of trenches which had been assigned at their objective, but the remainder of the brigade on their right met with severe opposition and was unable to get forward.

"At 11.30 o'clock th Royal Fusilier led its brigade in the second phase of the attack to the west of the ravine. The brigade advanced with great steadiness and resolution thru the trenches already captured and on across the open, taking two more lines of trenches, and reached the objective allotted to it; the Lancashires Fusiliers inclining half to the right and forming a line to connect with our new positions east of the ravine.

Ghurkas Take Knoll. "The northermost objective had now been obtained, but the Ghurkas, pressing under the cliffs, captured an important knoll still further forward—actually due west of Krithia. This they fortified and held during the night, making our total gain on the left precisely 1,000 yards.

"During the afternoon the trenches, a small portion of which remained uncaptured on the right, were attacked, but the enemy held on stubbornly, supported by machine guns and artillery and the attacks did not succeed.

Turks Fail in Attacks. "During the night the enemy made counter-attack on the furthest trenches gained, but was repulsed with heavy loss. A party of Turks who penetrated from the flank between the two lines of captured trenches was subjected to machine-gun fire at day break and suffered very heavily and survivors surrendered.

"Except for a small portion of trenches already mentioned which still trenches already mentioned which still is held by the enemy, all and more than was hoped for from the operations has been gained. On the extreme left the line has been pushed forward to a specially strong point well beyond the limit of the advance originally contemplated.

"All engaged did well, but certainly the chief factor in the success was the splendid attack carried out by the Twenty-ninth division, whose conduct on this, as on previous occasions, was beyond praise."

WINNIPEG. June 30.—Before the royal commission on the parliament buildings inquiry today, Mr. Wilson, senior counsel for the Liberals, read Rodmond Roblin to Hon. R. Rogers under date April 30.

This message was as follows:

"Winnipeg, April 30 (confidential).
Close friends say it is very desirable that Geoffrey E. MacDonald, son of one of the commissioners, now with Strathcona's Horse, given a commission, say lieutenant. Made No Personal Profit Out of Transaction, Told Hon. Mr. Hudson.

WINNIPEG. June 30.—Hon. Mr. Hudson testified before the royal commission on the Fullerton charges today that Sir Rodmond Roblin was very angry over the amount of money that had been spent on the parliament buildings.

Sir Rodmond told Mr. Hudson that when the cabinet resigned they gave three cheers. "He told me how surpetitions and deposits were paid by local people in the constituencies. The balance was raised on a note signed by John Stovel and guaranteed by J. H. Ashdown, Hon. Edward Brown, Hon. Thomas Johnson and Mr. Hudson. It was for seven or eight thousand dollars and one thousand had been paid on the note from funds on The balance was still unpaid

Mr. Hudson said he could not say that on the resignation of the Government he thought any member made any personal profit from the parliament buildings contract. "I had no interview at any time with any one acting on behalf of the late government. I had soveral interviews with F. H. Phippen." said Mr. Hudson. "He said he wanted to talk over the matter and asked if we were promade any personal profit from the parliament buildings contract. "I had no interview at any time with any one acting on behalf of the late government. I had soveral interviews with F. H. Phippen." said Mr. Hudson. "He said he wanted to talk over the matter and asked if we were proceeding in a vindictive spirit. I said it was a bad mess and had to be cleared up. He asked if I did not think it would be satisfactory if Kelly made a return to the government of a sum of money. I don't think he mentioned the amount, but apparently it was to cover the overcharge on caissons. He said he understood the Liberals were not anxious to get into power, but I did not think the public would stand for the Roblin government. I told him I did not think Kelly could hope to escape jail."

the beautifying qualities of mercolized wax. Nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm, at such small expense. The principal reason for its wonderful metrit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding complexion defects, it removes them. It actually takes off the aged, faded, sallow, freckled or biotchy surface skin, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercolized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercolized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.

Richmond street from Bay to Yonge street was brightly illuminated last night, the occasion being the inaugura-tion of a new lighting system strongly approved by H. H. Couzens, general manager of the Toronto Hydro-Electric system. The new lights differ very materially from the cluster lights in that they are placed somewhat higher and consist of a single light, while the circumference of the light is considerably widened. "We are naturally delighted with the appearance of the new lights which are in operation for the first time in the city on Richmond street from Bay to Yonge tonight," said H. H. Couzens to The World last night. "In my opinion they embody the most modern and desirable light on the modern and desirable light on the market today and are known as the
