

district officers with others, must be held accountable for the organization of the district, reporting to the central organization in Vancouver. Thus every community in the province will be linked up through the sub-district and district committees to the central organization. The practical organization for every electoral district or subdivision thereof consists of a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer (or a Secretary-Treasurer), together with a sufficient number of active workers to form a strong executive committee.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO COMMITTEE MEMBERS.

In selecting members for the committees it must be remembered that the most desirable person is not always the one who has been longest on the "dry" side. Positions in the campaign are not to be given as rewards for past services. What we are after is votes. Therefore, we must have on these committees the men and women who will be able to secure the most votes. It is often found that women can do better work than men, both in canvassing voters and in every other part of the work. The W.C.T.U. and church organizations, as well as the temperance organizations, should be taken full advantage of in order to obtain active workers. Four things should be kept in mind in selecting chairmen and other members of local committees. First: Their ability as leaders. Second: Their influence in the community, especially their influence with the conservative class whose votes must be won if the Prohibition Bill is to be carried. Third: Their knowledge of campaign and election affairs. Fourth: Their willingness to give time to this important work.
