Allies' Pressure Maintained With Gains On Three Fronts—French Now Fighting in Open and Using Cavalry

London, July 5-Pressure of the Entente Allies on the Central Powers continues without abatement and while nowhere has any great amount of tercontinues without abatement and while nowhere has any great amount of territory been recovered, important strategic gains are claimed on the western, eastern and Italian fronts. So far as the western front is concerned, the first phase of the Anglo-French offensive is believed to be nearing the end. Both north and south of the Somme the French and British are engaged in organizing positions captured since Saturday. The French, having taken all the German defensive positions south of the Somme, are now fighting in open country and cavalry, which has been long idle, is being employed for patrol work.

The next objective of the French in this region is the village of Barleux, which is the junction point of three highways leading to the Somme south of Peronne. If this point is gained, the French will be in position to attack the bridgeheads opposite Peronne, which the Germans are strengthening.

North of the river the Anglo-French advance is slower, on account of the fact that the Germans have massed between the river and Hebuterne the bulk of twenty-six divisions, which originally held the front and of the reserves they have since brought up. After the ground gained has been consolidated, it is expected artillery preparation for a second big thrust will be made.

MCGRAW-LOWNEY.

St. Peter's church was the scene of a pretty wedding at six o'clock this morning, when the rector, Rev. Peter Costello united in marriage Miss Florence bride was becomingly gowned in a marquisette lace dress with pearl trimming and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Theresa Lowney, who was daintily attired in blue silk. The bridegroom was supported by James Dever. His gift to the bridesmaid was an amethyst ring and to the groomsman a pearl stick pin. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, George McNeil. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George McNeil, 54 Murray street. The table was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and flags. Many beautiful presents were received, including cut glass and silverware, also a parlor table from W. K. Ganong.

IN SPLENDID PLAY To Play "Audrey" in Famous

Players Adaptation of a Great Novel Pauline Frederick, whose beauty and owerful emotional histrionism have nade her the foremost dramatic actress on the screen today, is the star of the Famous Players - Paramount picture, "Audrey," an adaptation of the celebrated novel by Mary Johnston, which is the feature picture at the Opera House tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. In "Audrey," Miss Frederick abandons the sirenic roles which she has so wonder. enic roles which she has so wonderally presented in "Bena Donna," and theral other moverful dramatic Famous layers productions in which she has a realization of what this wild, carefree girl means to him. Despite his wounds, he rushes to her rescue. There is another lover to be reckoned with—a half-breed Indian, whose methods of wooling are picturesque in their crudity.

"Audrey" differs from Miss Frederick's previous screen characterizations in the great feeling of sympathy which she arouses. This is the dominant note in "Audrey" as we see this poor girl made a mere slavey and later accused of conduct of which she is entirely innocent. The persecution of Audrey, her battles against poverty and the narrow-minded gossips of her little community, develop one of the strongest and most lovable characters that Miss Frederick has played on the screen.

In addition to "Audrey" the programme will include the English Topical Budget and Col. Heeza Liar in a new Paramount-Bray fun cartoon.
