The shipment consists of 4,024 long tons, or 46,000 bags. This shipment is out of the ordinary and the cargo will be the first of Natal sugar brought to this port.

Usually it is too costly a procedure to bring raw sugar from South Africa. It was said by an official of the company this morning the supply for the local refinery being procured from the British West Indies. It happened that market and freight conditions were such that the present shipment could be brought here to advantage and the consignment resulted.
