Horse Dashes Off in Wall Street and Lad is

Frank Nodwell, a youth employed with Frank Donnelly as driver of one of the parcel post delivery wagons, was seriously injured this morning. While he was driving into Wall street the horse attached to the light wagon took fright and ran away. As the vehicle veered into the street, about opposite St. Paul's church, it crashed into a pole and the youth was hurled forcibly to the pavement. He was picked up unconscious and taken to the Saint John Infirmary where he was attended by Dr. Geo. O. Baxter. This afternoon it could not be learned the extent of his injuries, but it was said fear was entertained that his skull had been fractured.

It is thought that a bolt fell out of the whiffle-tree of the wagon and this caused the horse to run away. The lad is 14 years of age and resides at 154 Prince Edward street.
