JIM THORPE OF CARLISLE GREATEST OF ALL ROUND ATHLETES IN STATES

THORPE PHOTO BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION SHERIDAN

New York, Sept. 6.—If there was any doubt about Jim Thorpe's ability after the pentathlon and decathlon events in the recent Olympic games at Stockholm, which he won easily, it was removed in the all-around championship meet held at Celtic park here recently. He not only won seven of the ten events on the programme, but in the other three events he finished second to John Bredeau, a great Princeton athlete, who won the all-around championship four years ago. Thorpe scored up 1470 points for a new world's record, the old figures being Sheridan's, 7,888.

SPILT PARENTS

(Continued from page 9). The elderly matron opposite who I sat perhaps had half a dozen children, and was happy in them all and honored by them all—but I vow she never understood them. When they left her, she may have sorrowed, but her sorrow was nothing that of the modern parent whose only consolation is the child who has been spoiled. This is the tragedy of the twentieth century, in spite of all this understanding of the child, who has been spoiled. Perhaps it is only then that the spoilt child, the child who has been spoiled, is really spoiled. They have lived for their child, their existence has revolved round the child, the child who has been spoiled. NO TIPS IN MY HOUSE," SAYS SCOTCH DUKE

His Grace of Roxburghe Takes Lesson From Lady Sefton

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 24.—The Duke of Roxburghe, who is staying with the King at Abbotside, Lord and Lady Sefton's place is delighted with the success of Lady Sefton's attempt to eradicate one of the worst evils of modern British entertaining—the tips-to-servants nuisance. The practice has grown to such proportions that no great at a really first class house now dare to give less than a "paper" (25) tip after a week-end visit. In every room in Abbotside notices are posted begging the guests not to give tips to the servants for any reason whatsoever. The notices further state that any servant discovered accepting tips from a guest will be instantly discharged. The duke at first thought these notices were not to be taken seriously and he actually tried a tip on one of the groomes. To his surprise and delight the man politely refused it, saying it was by Lady Sefton's desire.

DIARRHOEA, DYSENTERY, SUMMER COMPLAINT AND ALL BOWEL TROUBLES ARE CURABLE BY THE USE OF DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Mr. Shaw Lunn, Falmouth, N.S., writes: "I am dropping you a line to let you know what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for us. Last summer my little girl had diarrhoea so bad she passed blood. A friend told me of the Extract, so I sent and got a bottle of it, and six doses cured her. In December, 1911, my brother came home from the woods very bad with cramps and diarrhoea, and thought he would have to call the doctor. I thought of the bottle of 'Dr. Fowler's' I had in the house, and gave it to him, and in three days he was as well as ever and went back to his work again. I would not be without it in the house if it cost twice as much." See that you get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry when you ask for it. Price - 35 Cents. universal and an making further research for the type of face I believe will best express the ideas of the public. I believe that everybody has an idea on this point, but you do not see it in art, and usually pictures are influenced by the country in which they are painted, or by the nationality of the artist. For a long time I have searched for the type of face of my imagination, but have failed to find one that interprets my ideal. I do not think it will succeed, but I am going to strive after what I feel is impossible. Mr. Forbes' picture is seven feet six inches by six feet. It was started in 1909, and was suspended owing to the fact that the artist was commissioned to go to Cornell University, where he remained for nearly two years. He numbers among the famous men who have sat to him, the Earl of Dufferin, Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the Hon. Edmund Blake, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the late President Harrison of the United States, and Professor Schurman, of Cornell University. His painting of Gladstone in the National Liberal Club is "not to be surpassed" according to one critic. FIGHT FOR REVENUE OF LONDON STREETS

(Continued from page 9). Their money is carried in tiny chain-purses of a fine gold mesh; the softest of silken collars which grate their necks are held together by brooches decorated with a pearl or twisted in a loop; a wrist-watch on one arm is balanced by a bangle or a cross-finger bracelet on the other arm; and quite recently a waistcoat was seen set off by "lockets" hanging round the wearer's neck. Then there are the new gold-knobbed sticks, chased and embossed, completing the outfit, and carried with a certain delicate style that forces attention. A gold ring on the first finger of one hand, and another on the third finger of the other hand, each conspicuous with a sparkling diamond, are also features of the modern apparatus of male display. It is the essence of style to vary one's combination of jewelry according to one's dress. A special kind of silk open-work sock, gone with the tops collar. A pearl and diamond tie-pin must be balanced by a short leather watch chain, hanging down out of the left-hand waistcoat pocket, and finished with a gold bob. Perhaps the male evening dress of the future will include the tux. Certainly these ultra-smart men should not neglect the possibilities of the shoe-sock. And there is a new feminine fashion which might be recommended to them—the wearing of the single earring. The hair is brought deeply down almost over one ear, and a very long, barbaric pendant adorns the temple. The new Adams ought not to allow himself to be beaten by women in this matter. Let him quickly adopt the single earring. He has a perfect right to do so. For women have copied him disgracefully. They walk about in long bulky cigarette cases that might almost house a dozen cigars, while men draw from the silken pocket of their evening dress the slender of cases, holding, perhaps, three scented, and gold-tipped cigarettes, on which their initials are lightly stamped. Women have begun to carry sticks, so men might as well take to the tall parasol, which has become so fashionable of late.

SOON TO CHOOSE NEW FRENCH PRESIDENT

(Continued from page 9). roses and orange groves have been attacked by swarms of pests that threaten to ruin the harvest. The authorities have sent for specimens of the cardinal beetle from the government's entomological station near Naples, but a far better remedy would have been the protection of insect-eating birds. If the government would pay some attention to this matter the grovers of vines and oranges on the Riviera and in other parts of Italy would not have to complain of the ravages of insects. A Parisian staying at one of the most cosmopolitan resorts on the coast of France made a bet that he could always tell a Parisienne, even when the lady was in a bathing dress. As he always won, his friends asked him the secret of his success. He replied that it was very simple; that he looked at the arms. He went on to explain that since short sleeves came into fashion every Parisienne who had any pretensions to smartness walked with her arms held stiff by her sides, and with the palm of the hand turned outwards. The reason he did not pretend to know, but suggested that the pose was possibly intended to bring out the dimples of the elbow, which the short sleeves leave bare. A small provincial town can boast of the handsomest garden in France. His right to the championship of masculine dressy cannot be contested after an incident which happened at the publication of his marriage banns. All the young women in the little town admired him. When the marriage banns were posted up at the mairie the name of the bride caused a stir, and a flutter among all the hopeful ones for miles around. They had all expected to bold in the heart of the stalwart brigadier. As they did not succeed, their jealousy towards the bride he had chosen was such that it day and a wonderful improvement in renewed strength, greater energy, and vitality will soon become apparent. A Suit For $3,000

Newcastle Leader.—Thos. Foley while away on an auto trip a few weeks ago had his auto smashed and was injured himself by being run down by a street car in Portland, Maine. It appears Mr. Foley and his two companions were crossing over the railway tracks when they were struck by the car which did not sound an alarm. The auto was smashed and Mr. Foley was rendered unconscious for nearly half an hour. He is now able to be around again after his miraculous escape from death. Action has been taken by Mr. Foley against the Portland Railway Company for the sum of $3,000. The case is now in the hands of Congressman M. T. O'Brien of Portland.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE AGAIN

One of the results of the strenuous life of the present day is that many persons find it impossible to get away during the summer months, with the result that at the end of the summer they find themselves run down, enervated, troubled with insomnia and incapable of properly digesting and assimilating their food. For such troubles there is nothing so equal as Bovril. Let Bovril appear in the menu every day and a wonderful improvement in renewed strength, greater energy, and vitality will soon become apparent. Add a little Bovril to your soup and gravies and take occasionally a cup of Bovril bouillon or a Bovril sandwich.

"A LIFE SAVER FOR WEAK MEN"

Give me a man broken down from disipation, hard work, or worry from any cause which has sapped his vitality. Let him follow my advice for three months, and I will make him vigorous in every respect as any man of his age. I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who was never intended by Nature to be strong and sturdy. Even that man I can make better than he is; but the man who has been strong and has lost the strength I can make as good as ever he was. I can give back to any man what he has lost by abuse of the laws of Nature. Dear Sir,—I have been wearing your Belt four weeks, and am thankful to tell you that my Indigestion is cured. JOHN V. B. FOSTER, Wells, N. B., Jan. Dear Sir,—I wish to congratulate you on your success in inventing such a blessing to mankind, as your Electric Belt. I should have written to you about my Belt before. I wore it only three weeks, than all the sorrows in my back and thighs left me and my bowels became regular. Wishing you continued success in your business, I remain, W. G. FRIZZELL, Municipal Home, St. John, N. B. Every man should understand that physical power, large muscles and strength of endurance come from animal electricity. My treatment will pump every part of the body full of that, and perfection will result. It not only restores vigor and increases nerve power, but it cures rheumatism, jaundice in the back and kidneys, indigestion and constipation, and all troubles which result from weakness of any vital organs.
