sota had been loaded on the cars of the Great Northern for Seattle, the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company received a wire from Seattle cutting the order short at the amount loaded. As the wire gave no explanation for this sudden stoppage of an order, some speculation arose as to the reason therefor. Its explanation has now arrived. When the steamer Dakota, which had 2,000 tons of Coal Creek coal as fuel, was a short distance beyond Cape Flattery something went wrong with her machinery and she returned to Seattle to enter dock. This necessitated the discharging of her fuel and it was decided to transfer this coal to the Minnesota. Under these circumstances the order for coal was cancelled. No other cause is responsible for the stoppage. This explanation is given on account of the number of erroneous statements which are current here.

Claney is a director, have been prosecuting development work on the Betts and Hesperus for upwards of a year, with gratifying results. A com-pressor plant was installed last fall by T. H. Rea, the manager, and the long tunnel is now in about 600 feet. Messrs. Claney, who stopped off here on a trip to the Portland fair, were much gratified at the progress of work on the Betts and Hesperus and at the size of the ore bodies being developed. Mr. Rea ac-companied them to Phoenix, where they were taken through the Granby mines, and afterwards through the Granby smelter, thus being able to see for themselves what could be done on Boundary's low grade ores. The extent of the mining operations carried on in this camp and the completeness of the smelting works were a complete revelation to the Chicago men, who are showing their faith in the Boundary by making heavy investments.
