

Overcoats for Men!

Men, it's an Overcoat it's here. That's the whole argument in a few words. There's every style from knee-length to the long, loose effect, with or without back belt, and every one is made to fit. Some of the materials are the fine Vicunas and Mellons, others are Cheviots and Fancy Scotch Tweeds. The linings are the Mohairs and Worsteds, and the tailoring is the best. Any price from $10 to $25, according to quality.

THE LION'S PEARL

(Salt Lake Herald.)

—Little Johnny had been gazing
thoughtfully at his book of animal pictures, when he suddenly called out
"Say, pa, does it cost much to feed
a lion?"

"How much?"

"Oh, a lot of money."

"A wolf would make a good meal for a lion, wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes, I guess so."

"And a fox would be enough for the wolf, wouldn't it?"

"Yes, yes."

"And a fox could make a meal off a hawk, eh, pa?"

"I suppose so."

"And the hawk would be satisfied with
a sparrow?"

"Of course."

"And a big spider would be a good meal for the sparrow, wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes, yes."

"And a fly would be enough for the spider?"

"Sure."

"And a drop of molasses would be all that the fly would want, wouldn't it?"

"Oh, stop your chatter."

"But wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes."

"Well, pa, couldn't a man keep a lion
more'n a year on a pint of molasses?"

But just at this point it was discovered that it was time for little Johnny
to go to bed.

A SNAKE IN IRELAND.

(London News.)

The discovery of snakes in Ireland
is becoming painfully frequent of late for all good and true believers in the famous legend, pictorially represented in thousands of Irish homes, of St. Patrick banishing the reptiles from Crough Patrick into the Atlantic Ocean. Of course, the four-foot wriggler found in Wicklow is only a miserable reptile compared to the full-bodied,
hissing monsters which are represented
in the high-colored prints portraying
the banishment ceremony. Still the Wicklow snake, albeit he was on for-bidden ground, showed considerable vitality. At all events, it took Mr. J. J.
Horn's big stick to knock the life out of him. It is not every "snake in the grass" that could be got rid of so easily.
But, dead or alive, those Irish snakes that have been turning up of late should have the effect of producing a slump in the sale of prints already referred to, especially when they are being retailed among the Irish peasantry by Jewish hawkers.

A TROUBLESOME PIPE.

(Boston Herald.)

This story is told about ex-Senator
J. S. Clark, of Calais, Me. One day, while awaiting his turn in a barber's
shop in Calais, he was talking with a friend, and was so deeply interested in the conversation that he allowed his pipe to go out several times. Each time he would ask Melvin Noble, a local practical joker, for a match.

About the time he wanted the fifth match Noble said: "I don't begrudge
you the matches, Jed, but I think it would be cheaper for you to put a grate in your pipe and burn coal."
