A FEW WORDS ABOUT

UUB-ELVES. We have been beamed by some for urgarg upen the Ottown Members the daty of pressing for in mediate action in preparing for the er chion of the Public Buildings in for the er clion of the Public Buildings in the City.—Trose who so blame at either do not understand us. or they do not understand the arcrests of the country. Every one who will candidly seview the Seat of Government question, from the announcement of the Queen's decision to the present time, will admit that it is not without reason we adm nish to vigilance. The Government, and the Government. Press, now declare that the Queen's decision, so soon as it was given, became law. That we have always urged. Begarding it in that light,—and it was the duty of the Administration sespecting it? Was it not to set upon, and errry out the law? Had they done so, the Public Buildings might at this moment have been in a state of considerable forwardness,—the great expense and inconvenience of another removal to Quebec might have been sared,—and the country might have been sared,—and the law, they neglested to administer the law and by their conduct left it as it were for the er ction of the Public Buildings in the City. Trose who so blame a citter do Parti men. But while they knew it to be the law, they neglected to administer the law, they neglected to her mother at home says: "The Yankee girls are lake the old borses at home—high in bone on the set they add here of the duck's feet, and the color of the duck's feet, and they are lake the adverse vote; but it is regardly true that when they again took office at was upon the same principle of deep, and treating it as an open question. The dameels of Buffalo sie out to see (of which from 250 to 300 die not required to leave the shade of the material pour law, if Englishmen would only abandon of the liver moon. fid ace in their sincerity and good faith. We openly and h nestly opposed this policy of the Government from the first. We torown its disastrous coneq on er, not only to the Ottown but to the country at large. And the result has fully just fied our anticipations. The country's bosour has been tarnished, its levelty impeached, and its credit damaged; and we are all, individually and collectively, cers v. But the m terial evidence as an min ing, and nothing less will astisfy the country, and cause the question to be regarded both b re and abroad as finally aetaled and disposed of. Ust I we have this, we wil not crase to urge its necessity upon the G ver ment, and to call upon our me to do ikewise; and not be satisfied with va que pr mises for the future, and delay for the present. Our course regarding this mat ter is not factious, and never has been. We have consured the Government when we thought their conduct deserved it. And when we are cossined by their actions (not word:) that they are determined to do what

LEAD MINING IN CANADA. We are happy to find that it is Sir Wilwhich make b en discovered in the Township of Rumsay, and elsewhere, are so rich and extensive that they may be mined to advantage. The opinion does not, of course jurify the being that the operations which have been projected will prove immensely probletable—the right sein may not be struck, or the enterprise may not be carried on and to bear, and the induceprobable—'he right sein may not be struck, or the enterprise may not be carried on economically. It is dicates, however, that in Mr. Logan's opinion, the metal exists in sufficient quantities to repay the labour of taking it from the earth when found. There is one potot in favour of lead mining in Canina, and that is the small quantity of fuel which is a quired to smelt it. As the crude ore does not contain more than four fifths of pure met il, the c st of transport would be proportionally diminished by smelting at the mi c. As the mat er is now attracting gen eral attention, a few words on the method of stracting lead my not be altogether and the stracting lead my not be altogether and the stracting lead my not be altogether and the stracting lead my not be altogether. pure met ils, the c st of transport would be proportional y diminished by smelting at the of extracting lead my act be altogether an-interesting. The lead is extracted from galera, which is a combination of sulphur with the metal, in two ways; either by means o' smeling with ir n, or by rousting, to as to partial, oridize the ore, and tuen benting strongly, when the me al separates. In the first case, the sron simply takes away the sul-pur, and sets the lead at liberty; in the second, a portion of the ore is exided and convert dine oxide and sulpha so I lead, and these, when heated strongly, re-act on the u aterid galeua, and produce metallic lead and sulphu ous acid, which latter passes off

The simplest plan is to employ a reverbera-tory furnace, as in this the coasting and am iting are both affected, and it is better sdapted for the use of wood as fuel.
