

yet unborn, long, long after we are turned to dust."

And then we all sing loudly with full hearts:

O land I love! — thy acres sown
With sweat and blood and shattered bone—
God's grain, that ever doth increase
The goodly harvest of his peace.

THE END