The oven of the Oxford Chancellor Range is heated by a flue which entirely encircles the oven. A current of super-heated air is constantly circulating through this flue keeping the oven at a steady high temperature.

Oxford Chancellor Range

To protect the floor from over-heating we have two air spaces of a total depth of 7 1/4 inches between this flue and the floor. This prevents your floor catching on fire,

an accident common to cheaply built ranges.

Drop us a post card and we will send you full particulars about the Oxford Chancellor Range and tell you where you can see it.

The Lion's Share.

Patrick Murphy, while passing down Tremont St., was hit on the head by a brick which fell from a building in process of construction. One of the first things he did, after being taken home and put to bed, was to send for a lawyer.

A few days later he received word to call, as his lawyer had settled the case. He called and received five crisp, new $100 bills.

"How much did you get?" he asked. "Two thousand dollars," answered the lawyer.

"Two thousand, and you give me $500? Say, who got hit by that brick, you or me?"

Presidential Facetiousness.

Of the many unconventional spontaneous speeches of President Roosevelt the following is one of the most humorous:

Recently Congressman Alexander, of Buffalo, took about a dozen Daughters of the Revolution to see the President. The ladies were all "dressed up," of course, and they made an imposing procession as they filed into Mr. Roosevelt's room.

The President arose with a chuckle, and said: "My dear Senator Smoot, how do you do? Please present me."

The Daughters giggled, and Congressman Alexander was so flustered that he could not say a word for a minute or two.

The Train Flew.

An old patriarch and his wife from the hills of Indian Territory were riding on a railroad train in the Choctaw Nation for the first time in their lives. They were very much interested in the scenery and the novelty of their experience when the train suddenly ran upon a long trestle. Looking out of the window, the old people saw the ground recede from beneath them, and they held their breath in abject terror. When the train finally reached the dirt roadbed again the old woman looked at her husband with a sigh of relief and said: "Thank the Lord, Silas, we've lit!"

Lost His Certificate, Too.

A certain merchant of Baltimore, who is well-known for his philanthropic spirit, was approached one day by an Irishman, formerly in his employ, who made a touching appeal for assistance. Said he:

"I trust, sor, that ye'll find it convenient to help a poor man whose house an' everything in it was burned down last week, sor."

The merchant, although he gives with a free hand, exercises considerable caution in his philanthropy, so he asked:

"Have you any papers or certificates to show that you have lost everything by fire, as you say?"

The Irishman scratched his head as if bewildered. Finally he replied:

"I did have a certificate to that effect, sor, signed before a notary; but, unfortunately, it was burned up with the rest of my effects!"

Too Much Postage.

The lawyers were discussing the merits and demerits of a well-known member of the New Orleans bar who had been gathered to his fathers, and one of the party recalled the time when he studied in the old man's office.

He had a copying clerk whose inefficiency continually worked the judge up to a point of explosion.

One day a wire basket fell off the top of his desk and scratched his cheek. Not having any court plaster he slapped on three postage stamps and went on with his work.

A little later he had some papers to take to the United States Court, and, forgetting all about the stamps, he put on his hat and went out. As he entered the office the judge raised his head and fixed him with an astonished stare. The clerk stopped and looked frightened and finally asked:

"Anything—er—wrong, sir?" "Yes, sir," thundered the old gentleman. "You are carrying too much postage for second-class matter."

Absent-Minded.

A certain absent-minded professor, who was a deep thinker, and consequently pre-occupied, was reading one evening after dinner when his wife approached, and, touching him on the shoulder, remarked softly, "Mr. and Mrs. Branner are coming over this evening, so just go upstairs and put on your other coat."

The quiet little professor complied without a murmur. An hour later, when the visitors had been in the house some time, the hostess excused herself for a moment and slipped upstairs to see what detained her husband. She found him in bed, calmly sleeping.

"Oh, to be sure, the Branners!" he said, when she awakened him. "I must have forgotten what I came to for when I removed my coat, for I kept on undressing and went straight to bed."

Heart Trouble

The heart itself has no power—no self-control. It is made to beat by a tender nerve so tiny that it is scarcely visible to the naked eye. Yet ten thousand times a day this delicate nerve must assist the heart to expand and contract.

This nerve is only one of the branches of the great sympathetic, or INSIDE, nerve system. Each branch of this system is so closely allied with the others that weakness or irregularity at any point is apt to spread. Heart trouble frequently arises from Stomach trouble through sympathy, and Kidney trouble may also follow. For each of these organs is operated by a branch of these same sympathetic nerves—the INSIDE NERVES.

In Heart, Kidney or Stomach troubles, it is of but little use to attempt to doctor the organ itself—the most permanent relief lies in restoring the INSIDE NERVES. Dr. Shoop regards these nerves to be the real cause of such troubles. The remedy—known by physicians and druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is the result of years of endeavor along this very line. It does not dose the organ to deaden the pain—but it aims to go at once to the nerve—the inside nerve—the power nerve—and builds it up, and strengthens it, and makes it well.

Every heart sufferer may have Dr. Shoop's book on the Heart. It will be sent free, and with it you will receive the "Health Token," an intended passport to good health.

For the free book and the "Health Token" you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 98, Racine, Wis. State which book you want.
