

There is much to be said for the Battalion and Unit publications as records of the passing thoughts and incidents, which, of themselves, are too small to go on Official Records; as an index of the feeling and spirit animating the men at the time, I think they are invaluable. The Canadian Record Office have displayed a wise perspicacity in gathering together complete files of all the Battalion and Unit publications.

Here's to the Hospital News! May its shadow never grow less.
