Sorrow and shame thy portion once, and long !

Thine only right, thy right to suffer wrong In lowly place. Stanffer Wistmite said

Not of thyself didst thou thy kingdom gain Not thine the hand that broke thy heavy chain.

Thy Lord came down;

For thine uplifting stooped to pain and loss With pierced hand He gave thee, from His cross.

Thy blood-bought crown.

What canst thou render, since He now no more

Judean highway walks, nor rests by shore Of Galilee?

Thy heart's desire He knows; He gives reply:

"In want and woe, my weary children cry Ever to me."

"If but a cup of water in My name

Thou givest them, I count it all the same As Mine own good."

Thou, serving these in high or lowly ways. Shalt win, like Mary, from His lips the praise,

"She hath done what she could."
