

Try this Thirsty Flour

A very thirsty flour. Absorbs a lot of water. Because it contains so much gluten.

Manitoba wheat is wonderfully rich in sturdy gluten.

And, think of it, FIVE ROSES is milled exclusively from the very cream of the Manitoba wheat berries.

So FIVE ROSES must be awfully thirsty, don't you see.

In your mixing bowl it greedily absorbs more water.

So you get more loaves than usual without using more flour. You use less.

Your flour lasts longer, doesn't it?

Less trips to your dealer's.

That's how FIVE ROSES saves money.

Actually saves YOU money.

Use this economical flour.

and hoed it until it was quite ripe. I then measured how much room I would have for my vegetables, and how much room for my flowers. When this was finished I got my flower seeds and began to make little trenches for the seeds.

The first thing I planted was sweet peas, which were planted along the side of my garden. I then planted my mignonette along the end of the garden. I then planted my asters, and next to that Chinese pinks, and next to that Shirley poppies, and next to that came petunias.

After that was done I got my vegetable seeds.

I first planted my asparagus, and next to that was beets. Then I planted my carrots. I put the seeds about half an inch apart. I then planted my lettuce, and next to that I planted my beans; after that I planted flax and sorghum, which was the last.

I was very attentive to my garden, and in four or five days some little heads were peeping out of the ground. It was my lettuce. The next thing I noticed was up in the fresh air. Everything started at once to grow. I was quite busy for a while trying to keep down the weeds. When this was done I had to thin everything that grew, and I then strung up my sweet peas with little branches off trees. The plants soon grew until they were flowering. My poppies were very pretty, as was also my mignonette.

My lettuce is quite thick with seed, and now ready to pull. When my mignonette and poppy seed was ripe I picked it, and also my flaxseed. I hoed my garden once every week. I took great interest in working at my garden, and if I am well I shall have a garden next year. I found many weeds in my garden while hoeing it that I never saw before. I will close, as my letter is get-

ENGLISH HAND-MADE LACE

MADE BY THE COTTAGERS OF BUCKINGHAMSHIRE.

This is the old-fashioned lace made on the cushion, and was first introduced into England by the Flemish Refugees. It is still made by the village women in their quaint old way.

Our Laces were awarded the Gold Medal at the Festival of Empire and Imperial Exhibition, Crystal Palace, LONDON, ENGLAND, for general excellence of workmanship.

BUY some of this hand-made Pillow Lace, it lasts MANY times longer than machine made variety, and imparts an air of distinction to the possessor, at the same time supporting the village lace-makers, bringing them little comforts otherwise unobtainable on an agricultural man's wage. Write for descriptive little treatise, entitled "The Pride of North Bucks," containing 200 striking examples of the lace makers' art, and is sent post free to any part of the world. Lace for every purpose can be obtained, and within reach of the most modest purse.

A LETTER TO THE BEAVERS.

Dear Puck and Beavers,—We are nearly all broken-hearted over all our other sorrows; now Ernest Dunn, the second son, brother of dear Fred that was killed, is on a sick-bed with typhoid fever. He is a M. C. R. fireman in the city of St. Thomas. Gladys loves her brother, so she feels very badly over him. We live out three miles from St. Thomas. Gladys is so pleased; she has received three letters from little Beavers. We have taken "The Farmer's Advocate" for thirty years. We could not do without it. Claude and Gladys can hardly wait till it comes. Gladys will write again soon. Thanking you for your kindness, I remain yours, MRS. E. DUNN.

Junior Beavers' Letter Box.

Dear Puck and Beavers,—I have been wondering where my courage was not to write to you before this. I want some boy to write to me about my own age, that is interested in the farm and has animals for pets. We have a lamb and two Rhode Island Red chickens. We had eight of our own. We sold six roosters and kept the two pullets. We have a guineapig to sell. It sings when you say, "Here, Sammy," for that is his name. We live on a farm of one hundred acres, and there is a creek running through our place. I have two brothers
