Winter Linger on the Lap of Spring
Still winter lingers on the lap of May,
Nor fruits, nor flowers come forth, in costume gay;

The Sol now mounts the zenith's towering height,
Still earth presents so much of fading light,
While other climes less favour'd than our own,

The hardy fisher hid in sheltering bay,
And staid ploughman still their toils delay;
Nor open earth's bosom, from its wintry nap,

Whit other lands rejoice in cloudless skies,
When gentle zephyrs sink again to rise;
And warming suns, spread gladness o'er the strands,

Of neighbouring states, and far less healthful lands:
Here storms come forth in all their furious rage,
And damp the joy of youth and sober age;

The cause of such effects are two well found,
To 'midst the winter's wisdom all profound,
In Him who guides the universe too wide,

And yet proportioned to the work of time,
Can any favoured, or fruit-yielding clime,
Expel in swiftness, from its sun-bet land,

Nor one lone spot upon our planet's face,
Can boast a harder, or more blooming race;
Our suns all active in the calls of life,

Or yet allowing for all erring man,
(With kindly eye or charitable scan)
Can less of vice or murderous crime be found,

In a certain village in Switzerland, some years ago there were heavy complaints among all who possessed trees that no fruit was safe;

Singular Bottle Stories.

Capt. Beecher, editor of the English National Magazine, has compiled within the last ten years, the following curious voyages of bottles thrown into the sea by a fortunate navigator.

men's thoughts. Nor is it the man who can boast most of active vigor and capacity. The greatest of all the warriors that carried the siege of Troy, had strength, and carried the largest bow; but was greater, because self-discipline had taught him how to bend it.—Daniel Webster.

Grow Beautiful.—Persons may out-grow disease and become healthy, by proper attention to the laws of their physical constitution. By moderate and daily exercise, men may become active and strong in limb and muscle. But to grow beautiful, how?
