

SIR CHARLES TUPPER GIVES HIS REASONS

For Believing That Sir Wilfrid Laurier Will Be Defeated in the Elections--Some History of the Great Conservative Party--Canada's Prosperity.

Sir Charles Tupper has given to the public the following open letter to Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 4, 1900
To the Right Honorable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G.C.M.G., Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir Wilfrid,—In your recent speech at Sorel, I find the following reference to myself: "My old friend Sir Charles Tupper, who, after many defeats, has with drawn from the struggle, has come out of his retreat to predict our defeat. He has done this regularly since 1896."

I do not know what you mean by my "many defeats," as I was elected in my native county of Cumberland fourteen times and twice in Cape Breton, being defeated only once there owing to my having devoted practically all my efforts to the defeat of my party which carried the county, in 1867, 1872, 1876, 1882, 1887 and 1891. I would remind you that the Liberal party has only been successful in the elections of 1874, 1896, 1900 and 1904. It is a matter of history that the Liberal party only obtained power in 1873 by giving six of their opponents seats in the cabinet, and that in 1896 you defeated the Conservative party by denouncing the government for not having disallowed the Manitoba School Act, which took away the rights of the Catholics, and when the government brought in a measure declared necessary by the judicial committee of the privy council to restore those rights, you joined with the Orangemen in defeating that measure by obstructing a large majority of the House of Commons and then securing the support of Quebec by declaring that the act did not go far enough, and that if you obtained power, you would, if necessary, to secure their rights in their entirety, bring in a stronger measure.

In 1900 you maintained yourself in office by tramping under foot all the principles to which your party had been pledged, and resting upon the support of your race and religion.

In 1904 you sustained by fastening upon the country a gigantic debt for the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, which you declared would involve a charge of thirteen million dollars on the public exchequer, whereas it has now been proved that the cost will be nearly two hundred million.

NEGOTIATIONS OF TREATIES

Your statement that you had achieved something in the negotiation of treaties not previously obtained, requires no notice from me, as it has already been emphatically contradicted by the declarations of the colonial secretary, Lord Crewe, in the House of Lords, and by Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons, who was the under secretary in the foreign office when I negotiated the treaty with France in 1893, and is now secretary of state for foreign affairs. He said in the House of Commons that "The plenipotentiaries for the conclusion of the commercial convention between France and Canada, on September 19, 1897, were Sir Francis Bertie, H.M. Ambassador at Paris, and Hon. W. S. Fielding, and Hon. L. P. Brodeur. They were not furnished with full power under the Royal Sign Manual, similar 'mutatis mutandis' to those furnished the late Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, and to Sir Charles Tupper in 1893." Nor must it be forgotten that by boasting of what you accomplished for Canada, you have prevented the adoption of your treaty up to the present time, and that the only treaty in existence today is that negotiated by me in 1893.

THE ALL-RED LINE

You claim great credit for your efforts to secure the All-Red Line, whereas you should apologize for killing that enterprise after I had secured from the British government a subsidy of £76,000 a year for ten years, and made a contract with the Messrs. Allan, of Montreal and Glasgow, which would have given a 20-knot service to Montreal in summer and Halifax in winter, on the 1st of May 1898.

Your claim that you have promoted harmony between different races and religions, is best answered by your speech at Richmond, Nova Scotia, when you were obliged to admit that you found greater harmony between those of different races and religions in the occupation of the whole North part of Canada. I read that admission with much pleasure, as from the first hour of my public life I had made equal rights for all, irrespective of race and creed, a cardinal principle.

Allow me now to tell you on what I base the opinion I expressed when asked what I thought would be the result of the impending general election. The political history of Canada shows that our great prosperity is due to the policy of the Liberal Conservative party, carried on in the very teeth of the most bitter and persistent opposition of the Liberal party.

No intelligent man can be found who can question the fact that our present position has been attained by Confederation, the adoption of a protective policy and the construction of an inter-oceanic railway.

SOME POLITICAL HISTORY

The proposal to complete the federation of British North America by the inclusion of British Columbia on the only terms by which that could be obtained, giving that province railway communication with the rest of Canada, was fiercely denounced by the Liberal party as ruinous. The result of this opposition was a large reduction of the Conservative majority in the election of 1872, and the party thus weakened was defeated in 1873 by the action of six of its supporters, who thus obtained seats in the Liberal cabinet.

The Liberal government then formed dissolved the House, and obtained a large majority. They pursued a free trade policy which brought the country to a deplorable condition. The opposition propounded a protective policy, and carried the country in 1878 by an overwhelming majority. That policy was established in the face of the most determined opposition. The increasing prosperity enabled the government to vigorously prosecute the construction of the railway to the Pacific ocean. In April 1880, Mr. Blake, leader of the Liberal party, moved a resolution in the House of Commons to compel the government to suspend all construction beyond the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains, and implored the House not to ruin Canada for the sake of 15,000 white people in British Columbia. He was supported on that motion by the entire Liberal party, including yourself. In October of that year the government entered into a contract with the Pacific railway syndicate, for the completion of the railway, and it was opened for traffic from ocean to ocean in 1885. That contract was strongly opposed by the Liberal party, although no man can deny that it has resulted in untold benefit to Canada. The company is now operating more than 13,000 miles of railway and has provided a fleet of steamers affording a most rapid communication between Great Britain and Canada. Who then ask, will dare to say that without these great measures which you and your party so bitterly opposed, Canada could have attained the great position it now occupies?

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY

But that is not all. It will never be forgotten that our position as an important part of the British empire was imperilled by your party. When all your efforts to obstruct the national policy and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway ended in failure, you as leader, joined with Erasmus Wyman, whose avowed policy was to induce Canada to abandon allegiance to Great Britain and become part of the United States, in advocating unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, although you knew that it involved the adoption by Canada of the American tariff against England. The Liberal-Conservative party saved Canada and secured to us the priceless continuation of British institutions in that crisis, which was so grave that the Hon. Edward Blake refused to go in to battle with you, because he would not fight under false pretences and imperil British institutions. You know as well as I, that Republicans and Democrats alike agreed in the desire to possess Canada, as they were well aware of its potentialities. The Hon. William A. Seward, the secretary of state under President Lincoln, penned the following prophetic words: "Having its Atlantic seaports at Halifax and its Pacific depot near Vancouver Island, British America would inevitably draw to it the commerce of Europe, Asia and the United States. Thus, from a mere colonial dependency, it would assume a controlling rank in the world. To her other nations would be tributary, and in vain would the United States attempt to be her rival, for we could never dispute with her the possession of the Asiatic commerce, nor the power which that commerce confers." And the late Mr. Charles Sumner, in the senate of the United States, in 1867, in reference to the purchase of Alaska said: "The present treaty is a visible step in the occupation of the whole North American continent. As such it will be recognized by the world, and accepted by the American people. But that treaty involves something more. By it we dismiss one more monarch from this continent. One by one they have retired: First France, then Spain, then France again, and now Russia, all giving away to that absorbing unity which is declared in the national motto 'E pluribus unum.'" In reference to the Pacific railway of the United States, completed May 10, 1869, the late Mr. Asa Whitney assured his readers in 1846: "You will see that it will change the whole world, allow us to traverse the globe in thirty days, civilize and Christianize mankind, and place us in the centre of the world, compelling Europe on the one side, and Asia and Africa on the other, to pass through us."

When, at the request of the Hon. Mr. Bayard, secretary of state, I visited him at Washington in 1867, he said: "Well, Sir Charles, the Confederation of British North America and the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway have brought us face to face with a nation, and we must now deal with international affairs from that point of view."

No one can read these opinions of the public men of the United States without seeing the vital importance of those great measures from a national standpoint.

Be it on every issue between the two parties, you owed your success in 1896 to a fanatical policy when the interests of your French co-religionists were at stake, and I think you will agree with me that under the circumstances I had reason to expect a fair share of support from Quebec.

The bye-elections in Brockville and Huron proved that in Ontario most disgraceful frauds were resorted to by Liberals in 1896. In the election of 1900 in Ontario I was opposed by two governments with all their patronage and unlimited means, while there was but a small subscription made for the Conservative party by a few friends in Toronto, which only admitted of a slight contribution to aid in meeting the legal expenses. Notwithstanding these disadvantages, however, although you had a majority of twelve in Ontario when the dissolution took place, at the close of the election I had a majority of eighteen, and my defeat was secured by a solid French vote and the influence of the governments of the smaller provinces, all of which were supporting you except Manitoba. Am I not warranted under these circumstances, when your opponents are in power in Ontario, and in Manitoba, British Columbia and New Brunswick in expecting that the great party who have despised all the obstruction of these so-called Liberals, make Canada what it is, will receive from the electorate the support to which they are entitled?

If further evidence is wanted to show that yours is a lost cause, it is to be found in the wasted session by the frantic efforts of your government to conceal the information on public matters to which the House and public are entitled, and to pass an act to entitle the same frauds to be perpetrated in connection with the electoral lists in British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec as were used in your support at the last Dominion election in Manitoba.

Hoping that I have satisfied you that I have sufficient reason for the confidence I feel in the triumph of my able successor, Mr. R. L. Borden, in the coming contest, I remain, Yours faithfully,

CHARLES TUPPER.

"Do you consider your nerve is sufficiently steady to fit you for an airship navigator?" "Well, I've been out in a canoe with a nervous fat girl."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE DEALS.

When the Laurier government took office, the Quebec bridge scheme was passed over to politicians, headed by Simon Napoleon Parent, the chief party man in the district. Mr. Fielding arranged the finances for Mr. Parent on the following basis:

Dominion Government Subsidy	$1,000,000
Quebec Government Subsidy	200,000
Quebec City subsidy	300,000
Subscribed by shareholders	45,000

The politicians were to put up $65,000, and the public $1,500,000 and money lenders were to do the rest.

In 1903 the enterprise was at a standstill, and the government made a new deal. The bridge was to be built on the following plan:

Government to lend	$8,678,000
Dominion subsidy already paid	374,353
Quebec government subsidy	200,000
Quebec City subsidy	300,000

Total public gifts and loans $9,552,353
Shareholders to subscribe 265,000

So that the public was to find $7,552,353, and Parent & Co. were to put up $200,000, and were to own the bridge, and divide the profits.

The annual balance sheet of Mr. Parent and his comrades was estimated in parliament to be as follows:

Income—
From 376 cars crossing bridge daily, at $4 per car	$470,000
Outgo—
Interest on the $7,552,353 loaned by government	$300,340
Working expenses of bridge	85,000
Sinking fund	33,381
Total expenses	$116,737

Profit for the politicians annually $153,015

On an investment of $265,000 the Quebec politicians, owing to the bonuses and loans given by the government, were to make $152,000 every year.

The bridge fell down. The government is giving Parent and his friends $353,000 for their $265,000 of stock, and is paying the five million lost by the fall of the bridge, and is to spend $9,000,000 more in building a new bridge.

Vote for Thomas Wilkinson and finish Laurier's funny work.

CREE BIBLE COMPLETED

The Rev. Archdeacon J. A. McKay of Prince Albert Has Finished the Crown of his Life's Work—Work Finished in July.

The September number of "The Bible in the World," the monthly magazine of the Canadian Bible Society, published in the Bible House, 102 Yonge street, Toronto, has a page on the revision of the Cree Bible, a work which was completed by Archdeacon McKay of Saskatchewan, on July 14, 1900, the archbishop's seventieth birthday, at the Bible House in London, England.

The review of the history of the work recalls the fact that as far back as 1859, a committee was formed under the direction of the archbishop of Rupert's Land for the revision of the Bible in "plain Cree," which had originally been published in syllabic characters by the bible society in 1862. In 1900 the editorial sub-committee, accepted the archbishop's suggestion that the proof reading should be entrusted to Dr. J. A. McKay, who had been familiar with the language since childhood. In the autumn of that year Dr. McKay went over to England, and the revision of the whole Bible was definitely taken in hand. When he had to return to Canada in the spring of 1904, the New Testament, with part of the Psalter, was in type. He revisited England for the winter of 1904-5, and completed the Psalter and the early part of the New Testament. The next two winters he was obliged to spend in Canada, but in November 1907 he again reached the Bible House, and the remaining part of the New Testament was completed on July 14 last.

The committee took leave of the archbishop at his meeting on July 27th. The archdeacon expressed his deep gratitude to the society for affording him the opportunity of carrying through a work which was the greatest privilege of his life. He had been permitted to labor in connection with the work among the Cree Indians for over fifty years, and he considered the revision of the Bible which he had now completed, the crown of his life work. The bible in Cree was a blessing, not only to the missions of the Anglican church, but to the missions of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches in the Canadian Northwest. While he had revised or rewritten for the printers the whole of the bible from Genesis to Revelations, with the exception of some chapters from St. Matthew's Gospel he had thankfully acknowledged the help he had received in the revision from other missionaries of the Anglican and Methodist churches. Especially he would mention the valuable assistance that he had received from Rev. Dr. John McBeogall, of the Methodist church, one of the ablest living Cree scholars, who had revised the "Pentateuch." He believed there were no "Christians anywhere" who valued God's word more than the Cree Indians did. Especially in the missions in the far north, where they still followed the hunter's life, moving from place to place in pursuit of game, the Bible was a great blessing to them away in the wilds. The word for "Christian" in the Cree language meant literally "a praying man," and the Christian Indians were a praying people. Daily family worship was a regular practice. Wherever they were, both morning and evening, the voice of prayer and praise ascended from their humble dwellings. A portion of God's word was read, a hymn was sung and a prayer offered. It was the constant practice.

THE TORTURES OF NERVOUSNESS

The Sufferer Feels That Unless Relief Comes Insanity Will Follow.

There is no torture more intolerable than nervousness. A nervous person is in a state of constant irritation by day and sleeplessness by night. The sufferer starts at every noise, is shaky and depressed. Often although in a "completely exhausted" state is unable to sit or lie still. For trouble of this kind absolutely the best thing in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The nerves are jaded and jangled because they are being starved by poor watery blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new rich blood which feeds and soothes the irritated nerves. There is absolutely no doubt about this: thousands can testify of the blood making, nerve restoring qualities of these Pills, among them is Mrs. Thomas Harpell, Wallace Bridge, N.S., who says: "Some years ago I took sick and the doctor announced the trouble nervous prostration. To describe the tortures of it is impossible. God and myself only know what I have endured. The doctor gave me medicine but it did not help me. Then he ordered me away for a change, but I was afraid to go, as I always seemed to fear some impending calamity, and was afraid to spend the night alone, as I used to think each night that I would die before morning. I tried different kinds of medicines but with no better results, and finally decided I would go to my parents to see if the change would benefit me. I went to my doctor but with no better results. My mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got me a box, of course I did not expect a box would help me, but I continued taking them and in about a month began to feel better. From that on there was an improvement in my condition every day, and in the course of about three months I was again enjoying the great blessing of perfect health. I gained about twenty pounds in weight and my friends could hardly believe that I was the same person. I believe I would have been in my grave long ago if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."
