Nothing But
New Method Suits
And Overcoats
For Young Men

That's all we are showing now in one of our large Display Windows.

Young Men, if they'll take the time, can see for themselves how thoroughly we are prepared to SUIT or OVERCOAT them this fall. The varieties were never better—never larger, and size lines couldn't be more complete.

Here are garments built as thoroughly as any you could have made to measure—cost less though—more than a third and better still, you get the full value of your money.

Styles are correct, fit of every garment perfect, and to see them is to want them.

If you'll take a look you will see single and double breasted Sack Suits, made in plain colors and smart mixtures, in distinct stripe and plaids, in wool and worsted fabrics, all distinctly different patterns than those for men.

And there are Overcoats of roughish Cheviot and Vicunas, in black, plaid, Oxford and novel colorings—long, loose garments which will be worn a great deal this winter. The new full back Overcoat is there—one built from a Hants-burn mixed Cheviot—it's the newest of all.

Suits $7.50 to $15.00

Overcoats $7.50 to $17.50

DRESDEN

Nov. 7.—George Cunningham, of New York, is visiting his parents here.

Mrs. Russell Aikin, of Washington, is the guest of her father and brothers, North Dresden. Mrs. Aikin will remain several weeks, after which she leaves for Windsor, where she and Mr. Aikin will reside in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth have returned from a visit to relatives in Florence.

W. Draper has purchased the house he occupies, recently owned by Mrs. O. Wells.

Mr. Lawson, manager for the new Dresden branch of A. I. McColl & Co.'s drug stores, arrived yesterday to take charge. The store is being handsomely fitted up and will be opened up for business very shortly.

BLENHEIM

Nov. 6.—The home of Mrs. McGreggor, Talbot street west, was the scene of a very pretty event last evening when her youngest daughter, Maggie, was married to J. Mercer Denholm, son of Mr. Andrew Denholm, editor of the Blenheim News. The Rev. George Gilmour performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The young couple are two of Blenheim's most popular young people and we wish them much joy and happiness in their new life.

Dr. Samson, of Windsor, was in town yesterday on professional business.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McPherson returned to Dresden last evening. Carrier boys are not authorized to collect subscriptions. Our collector calls in each town once a month; if a subscriber wishes to pay his account before the collector calls, he must remit direct to The Planet Office, Chatham, as we will not be responsible for monies paid to carriers.

WALLACEBURG

Nov. 7.—Rev. A. C. Baker and Miss Lucy have left for their new home in Sarnia. Previous to their departure, the young people of the Baptist church presented them with a handsome reception chair, showing the esteem in which they were held.

The first number of the Lyceum Course appears at the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Miss Leah Taylor has returned from a visit to Detroit and other places.

The first sugar was put in barrels at the factory yesterday. The crowd who witnessed the same say it was very interesting.

Miss Forbes, of Chatham, is the guest of her uncle, Mr. A. Fisher.

Rev. Mr. Russell, who has been holding evangelistic services for the past few weeks, will hold the farewell meeting to-night. The meetings have been very successful. Mr. Russell is a very interesting and clever speaker. We are pleased to report that Mrs. R. Yule, who was ill with pneumonia, is improving.

TILBURY

Nov. 7.—Mrs. Peter St. Denis, of Tilbury West, died on Wednesday, and was buried yesterday in the St. Francis cemetery.

Mrs. James Waddell, of the Middle Road, left yesterday for Woodstock, having received word of the death of her brother there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wilson, Mrs. (Dr.) Ferguson, and Miss McKenzie were in Detroit on Wednesday evening to hear Richard Mansfield, as Brutus in Julius Caesar.

Geo. Lemire, late of D. L. Chauvin's store, Comber, has accepted a position in the Big Store.

Misses Gertrude and Minnie Stevenson entertained a number of their friends last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn, of Windsor, are the guests of the Misses Stewart, Carlyle avenue, this morning.

J. A. Tremblay, T. Mailloux and A. Anphonse, are on a hunting trip to Temiscaming.

Mrs. W. R. Davidson, of Quinn, left here this week on a visit with her son in Pontiac, Mich.

Robert McWilliams, of Blyth, formerly of Tilbury, was in town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Chalmers gave a euchre party on Wednesday evening in honor of their guest, Mr. E. Dore, of Hamilton.

Mr. Taff, who was injured on Monday by a falling scaffold at E. Giroux's new house, is back to his home in Chatham yesterday.

Books for Children

"I saw in The Planet an article in regard to libraries in public schools in which it stated that the teacher was selecting the books," said S. B. Arnold this morning. "I believe in libraries for children, but the objectionable feature is in allowing the teacher to select the books. I don't think that is right. I think the Government should take hold of this matter and prepare a list of books for the use of public school pupils, the selections being made from the standard authors. The great trouble is in choosing proper books for children. For my own children, I have found the greatest difficulty in selecting the books they should read. I haven't the time, and the majority of parents have neither the time nor the ability."

"All parents should be provided with a list of books suitable for children. Let the Government take hold of this matter and make a selection and have a catalogue prepared. The best way to do this would be to have a children's catalogue prepared and let the children study this catalogue in selecting books from the Free Library."

"Any man who hasn't a good opinion of himself is inwardly deformed."

PRETTY POEM

It Appears in New York News in Reference to the Young Son of a Chatham Lady.

The baby son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Macdonald, New York City, is getting quite famous. Already the little fellow has had a poem written about him. The poetry was the work of poet Smith, of the New York News, a fellow worker with Mr. Macdonald. Mr. Smith's and Mr. Macdonald's flats adjoin. The poem is exceptionally bright and pleasing. The Planet clips it from the News of Monday last, as follows:—

THE BABY.

(Dedicated to A. T. Macdonald.)
Sh-h! Tread softly. Close the door gently—So;
It's hard to be so quiet when your heart is all aglow.
Just turn the cover down a bit—
Careful now—like that—
There—I knew you'd think so—He's the sweetest little tyrant
That ever ruled a flat.
How old? Fourteen hours by the angel clock;
Not old; but stronger, brighter baby never wore a frock.
Looks like papa! We think so. Ah,
he's stolen from Paradise,
and on the way
Blue tinted by the skies.
Pshaw! My hand is trembling; eyes are wet;
Yes, child, your daddy's crying, but it isn't from regret;
Some day, my little man, God grant you'll taste the joy
The pride and sacred love that fill a man
Who kisses his first boy. F. A. S.

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

Has it ever been your unhappy lot to be told by your physician that you must go to a hospital and submit to an operation? If so, you remember with what dread and shrinking you awaited the day when you must endure the knife. The present day surgeon appears to be possessed by a mania for operating, especially in cases of hemorrhoids or piles, and while the greater number of the profession do not recommend this "last resort" unless they honestly believe it necessary, the fact remains that much needless operating is done, and the patient put to much expense and suffering for what? To obtain a possible temporary relief; these words are used advisedly, because in nine cases out of ten the affliction returns and the patient is just where he started from. Oftentimes he could be cured much more simply and easily by the use of such a remedy as the Pyramid Pile Cure; this has come to be recognized as the best remedy on the market for the painful disease named, and the druggists now sell more of it than all other pile remedies combined. The writer personally knows people who have been afflicted with the worst form of bleeding and protruding piles and who were permanently cured by the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. In every one of these cases the attending physician has assured the sufferer that only by an operation could he rid himself of the disease; so much for the infallibility of the doctors' remedy, which is sold by all druggists at the low price of fifty cents, in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts affected, and performs its work quickly and painlessly. The Pyramid Drug Co., Montreal, Mich., will mail free to any address a book telling all about piles or hemorrhoids, their cause and cure.

A suggestion is offered that if the reader is afflicted, or knows anyone who is, this book be sent for, as it will be found invaluable.

The Author's Power.

Everybody knows that in a novel a commonplace person may be made interesting by a deliberate, patient exposition of his various traits precisely as we can learn to like very uninteresting persons in real life if circumstances place them day after day at our elbows. Who of us would not grow impatient with the early chapters of "The Newcomes" for instance, or "The Antiquary" if it were not for our faith that Thackeray and Scott know their business and that every one of these commonplace people will contribute something in the end to the total effect? And even where the gradual development of character rather than the mere portrayal of character is the theme of a novelist, as so frequent with George Eliot, how colorless may be the personality at the outset, how narrow the range of thought and experience portrayed. Yet in George Eliot's own words "these commonplace people have a conscience and have felt the sublime promptings to do the painful right." They take on dignity from their moral struggle, whether the struggle ends in victory or defeat. By an infinite number of subtle touches they are made to grow and change before our eyes like living, fascinating things—Atlantic.

How Glaciers Are Formed.

The joint cause of glaciers is precipitation and cold. A low temperature alone can do nothing without moisture, and this fact quickly disposes of the popular notion that glaciers invariably exist in cold countries. Tibet, for instance, and some parts of North America are destitute of ice springs, though eternal cold may be said to reign supreme in those parts. Imagine for a moment the higher mountains clear of snow and ice and then watch the formation of a glacier. Snow falls and fills up all the valleys and gullies, avalanches descend from the higher parts and a great accumulation gathers in all hollows. By constant repetition of snowfalls (always provided a greater quantity is deposited than can be melted by the sun's rays and by the natural warmth of the earth's crust) great pressure is put upon the lower portions by the superincumbent accumulation, and aided by the infiltration of water and refreezing, a large body of ice is formed, which at once begins to move down the valleys containing it.

Whistler at West Point.

Among the famous men who were for a brief term cadets at West Point were Edgar A. Poe, the poet; Matt H. Carpenter, the eminent lawyer and statesman of Wisconsin, and James McNeill Whistler, the celebrated painter. Whistler remained three years at the academy. The Army and Navy Journal gives the following curious story which he did not pass his examinations.

"The subject given him in chemistry to discuss before the academic board was 'silica,' which constitutes 80 per cent of the solid matter of our earth. Whistler, it was said, in perfect innocence of the subject, but with his characteristically charming manner, described silica as an elastic gas, or a 'saponifiable fat.' The young ladies in the audience smiled approval, but the stern academic board dispensed with Whistler's further valuable services at the Military academy."

Fifth Century Authors.

Herophilus, one of the Alexandrian school, wrote a treatise on the practice of medicine, on ophthalmics, on the eye and on the pulse, which he correctly referred to the movements of the heart. He was aware of the existence of the lacteals and of their anatomical relations to the mesenteric glands. Erasistratus—his colleague and a pupil of Theophrastus and Chrysippus—was aware of the nature of the heart and its connection with the veins and arteries, but he fell into the error that the veins were for the conveyance of air and the arteries for that of blood. Otherwise he anticipated Harvey's great discovery. He knew also that there were two kinds of nerves—those of motion and those of sensation.

The Flag at Half Mast.

The custom of showing the flag at half mast originated from the way at sea of showing the pre-eminence one ship had over the other in time of warfare. The vanquished always had to lower its flag, while the victor's would be raised as high as possible in exultation. To lower a flag is an act of submission or betokens respect to a superior or is a signal of distress. The hoisting of a flag half mast high came to be used, therefore, as a sign of mourning and respect.

Quite Romantic.

Miss Gaygit—Did you say you have lived in New Mexico all your life?
Mrs. Hanson—Yes.
Miss G.—And been married five times?
Mrs. H.—Yes.
Miss G.—Ever divorced?
Mrs. H.—No; husbands all shot.
Miss G. (gushing)—How romantic!

A Genealogical Tree.

Brittman—What do you know about your genealogical tree?
Groucher—Genealogical tree be hanged! The only ancestor I know about is the aboriginal forest, where, according to Darwin, my remote progenitors used to swing by their tails.

Downward Career.

First Fish—What's the matter with Finback? He looks seedy.
Second Fish—Yes; he's drinking like a human being.

There is a rich sound in closing a back door that only a few people have opportunity to enjoy.

Fashionable Cheviot
Overcoats

Never, surely, did factory tailoring tread so closely on the heels of custom work as in these superfine winter coats. You haven't seen ready made garments before that had so entirely the look and manner of being made for the wearer.

Customers are quick to recognize this and not slow to note the quality of cloth we are putting into these coats. Best making, best cloth, best linings in Canada for the money—that's our claim without reservation of any kind.
