CANADA'S DANGERS.

Too Much Partyism and Too Little Patriotism.

Patriotism.

Right Rev. Dr. Mills, Bishop of Ontario, addressed the members of the Empire Club, Toronto recently, on "Our Country, its Dangers and its Needs." "Materially," said the reverend speaker, "there is nothing to be desired. In agriculture, minerals, forest and water resources, Canada is abundantly rich. Her lands will undoubtedly show more riches than the Cobalt has revealed. She has 40 per cent. of the world's water power, while the returns in Ontario alone, from the fisheries are nearly two million dollars."

Held in Trust.

Held In Trust.

Heid in Trust.

"Everything to make a country great had been entrusted to Canadians. These were all given to as in trust; we are stewards of God."

Speaking of the dangers that lie before us in the rapid expansion, the speaker instanced lack of cohesion, the duality of languages, the separate schools, lack of an intense patriotism, the manhood suffrage and the lack of high ideals in the public men as the chief reasons for disintegration.

The one official language in the United States has been a great aid towards holding together the national idea. While manhood suffrage was an ideal system, yet the newcomer had no love for this country beyond what he could get out of it, and most often his vote was looked upon in a financial aspect.

Lack of Ideals.

Again, the lack of high ideals of integrity and responsibility in the public men of the country, tended powerfully towards breaking down those forces that make to the building up of a strong nation, There was too much party politics and too little particitism. What we want is honest men—men who will stand for purity and righteousness in civic affairs. Our Government was not a truly representative Government, as a few politicians get together and nominated the candidate whom the party feel bound to support.

candidate whom the party feel bound to support.

Dean Farthing of Kingston, who was present as a guest, in a three-minute speech, urged the men to sacrifice themselves as did the men of the old empire, in order to bring about and hold our freedom from the thraldom of vice.

"I consider the man who besmirehes my party" said he, "as putting a stain on me, and if I withhold my judgment I am guilty of complicity. I must speak out. We must fight corruption in our own party. Let us have pure men in our parties, and with pure men in our parties, and with this personal responsibility we will do much towards making our public life better."

ARE YOU NERVOUS!

Nervousness and sleeplessness are usually due to the fact that the nerves are not fed on properly nourishing blood; they are starved nerves. Dr. Pierce's Gölden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood, and thereby the nerves are properly nourished and all the organs of the body are true as smeathly as maching. are run as smoothly as machinery which runs in oil. In this way you feel clean, strong and strenuous—you are toned up and invigorated, and you are good for a whole lot of physical or mental work. Best of physical or mental work. Best of all, the strength and increase in vitality and health are lasting. The trouble with most tonics and medicines which have a large booming sale for a short time, is that they are largely composed of alcohol holding the drugs in solution. This alcohol shrinks up the red blood corpuscles, and in the long run greatly injures the system. One may feel exhilarated and better for the time being, yet in the end weakened and with vitality decreased. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol. Every bottle of it bears upon its wrapper The Badge it bears upon its wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in a full list of all its several ingredients. For the druggist to offer you something he claims is "just as good" is to insult your intelligence.

NEW WORK FOR WOMEN.

The Professional House Cleaner and

The Professional House Cleaner and Mover.

The professional house cleaner has for some years past been one of the recognized factors among women workers. She opens the town house in the fall or the country house in the spring; has a corps of scrubwomen and workmen under her supervision. She engages the servants, hangs curtains and generally overlooks the settlement of the establishment, so that everything from garret to cellar is in running order before the family comes home. der before the family comes home. The professional cleaner may not do any of the manual work herself, but she must know how it is done and be ready to direct, and it is a position re-quiring no little ability and tact. It is a position of trust. The same is true of the professional mover. The hostess of a charming little dinner party astonished her guests by stating that she expected to entertain her brother's bride at dinner in a new house within

"You don't mean to say that you expect to pack and move out of this house and unpack and be ready to en-tertain all within four days?" asked an incredulous guest, with a sweeping glance about the handsome dining room that bore no trace of preparations for moving.

"It is 'se nominated in the bond,'" replied the hostess laughingly. "I have engaged a professional mover, who is to take entire charge of the whole transition. She comes in tomorrow morning at the same hour that I leave for a three day rest before meetwe dine in our new home.

"I never even heard of such an innovation," was the guest's exclamation. "Would you really trust your beautiful bric-a-brac and cut glass to a stranger, to say nothing of all your expensive "Not to a stranger; no. The woman whom I have engaged comes well recommended,

"Moving," she continued, "is becom ing a regular profession for capable women, and the one I have reference to has a particularly good reputation

HOUSEHOLD LINENS.

Smart Styles in Tablecloths, Napkins, Sheets, Etc.

No housewife needs to be told that

household linen has its fashions, with everything else. At present white is in great favor, trimmed with very com-plicated and rich lace. For luncheon the tablecloth is out of fashion. A fine Chinese mat is put on the table itself, and before each guest a round or square servicite is laid. These are prettily trimmed or embroidered with colored flowers. For large dinner parwhite linen is in greatest favor. The linen is as righly trimmed as pos-sible with renaissance or Colbert lace. The napkins and table center match the cloth.

For curtains, hung beneath heavy silk or wool, India muslin is used. Cov-ered with flounces, it serves as a kind of blind. The flounces are edged with fine silvered ribbon, an effect that is valenciennes lace. This band, being made of very fine linen and not being washed as often as the sheet itself, is fastened to the sheet by beading, through which pretty ribbon is passed, in a dainty bow. Pillow cases are made to match.

TOILET NOTES.

If large blackheads have already formed on the face, they should be pressed out with a little instrument made for the purpose. The affected spot should then be touched with a solution of listerine or boric acid. The use of a complexion brush, hot water and soap will keep blackheads from forming, however. For an oily complexion the following lotion will prove helpful: One and a half ounces of cucumber juice, one and a half ounces of witch hazel, three-fourths of an ounce of rosewater, half an ounce of boroglyceride, one-fourth of an ounce of oxide of zinc, half an ounce of essence of rose. Apply this once or twice a day with a small sponge or piece of soft linen.

If the hair has a faded appearance and is lighter at the ends, it is proba-ble that the shampoo preparation has been too strong. Too much borax or ammonia will fade the hair, as well as strong alkall soap. Use pure castile soap melted for the purpose, or, if preferred, an egg shampoo may be used. Twenty-four hours before the shampoo saturate the scalp with clive oil. This will act as a food for growth and will give the hair a healthy luster.

An excellent tooth powder may be made thus: Four ounces of prepared chalk, three ounces of orris root, one ounce of pulverized sugar, one ounce vdered castile soap. Flavor

The Sealing Wax Fad.

Do you know that sealing wax is again fashionable? Some say it's because wax is to be used in sealing mail bags instead of using locks and keys; others insist that it's just a freak of Dame Fashion.

At any rate, not only is it to be used, but the latest fad is to use different colors for different occasions.

A Popcorn Party For Children.
A correspondent in Mother's Maga zine tells of a popcorn party recently given for children and described it so delightfully that it seems almost a crime that every little boy and girl cannot enjoy the pleasure of such a good time.

"A kitchen party," it said in the notes of invitation, and "bring an apron with you."

and was decorated, in keeping with the festive occasion, with colored tissue paper ornaments and festoons of popcorn. Strings of colored popcorn fes-tooned the chandelier over the dining room table, and the candlelights had pink crepe paper shades ornamented with strings of popcorn, all of the same length, that hung down from the top of the shade all around two inches below, as a fringe of beads or crystals would do.

Pretty little souvenirs and decorations on the table were made of pop-corn that the hostess had prepared as small baskets, with ribbon wound wire handles, decorated with a ribbon bow or autumn leaf. A little ship stood as a centerpiece on a glass mirror, with a shore of popcorn. The boat shape, made of stiff paper, was entirely covered with white popcorn. It had white sails, and the mainmast was also coated with kernels of the popped corn. The boat was filled with a cargo of nuts and the little baskets with bon-

Jolly souvenirs for each place had been made of orange skins, the skins being divided halfway in four sections, when the pulp was neatly removed whole. Flaky popcorn was dropped in, then the sections pressed together with sugar sirup. A crown of popcorn adorned the top. Circles were cut out and popped corn set in for eyes, havsmoothest part turned out, with a dab of black paint for the pupil of the eyes, another for the nose, and the slit for the grinning mouth was filled in with gleaming teeth. A double frill of yellow and black tissue paper was glued in place under each.

The little guests came in time to help prepare some of the supper refresh-ments in the popcorn line. The boys were given the hardest part of the work—shelling the corn—while the girls, two at a time, could pop the corn on the ample space the range afforded. As fast as this was ready the hostess As fast as this was ready the hostess prepared it in an appetizing form, as molasses popcorn balls, assorted popcorn bars and popcorn potatoes. As these are a decided novelty for children, the process of their making should be explained. Beat up the white of an egg stiffly with a tablewhite of an egg stiffly with a table-spoon of cold water and the same quantity of powdered sugar. "My father's house is full of fakes," said a twelve-year-old playing in a neighbor's house. When asked what he meant, he recited one article after another, all cheap imitations of expensive things.

A little girl who had turned fourteen said to a friend: "Mamma says I must not pretend; that to pretend is to lie. But she pretends as much as I do. She pretends that she has a stained glass window in her bathroom when it's really only colored paper pasted on the glass. Of course mamma's a woman, and I'm not. I suppose I'll have to wait until I grow up before I can pretend."

When the remarks of these two youngsters were repeated to the par-ents, they were amazed that the points had fastened themselves on their children's minds. But it is here nevertheless that the pernicious habit of allowing shams and imitations in thousand of our American homes is creating its worst havoc-upon the children at the most formative periods of their lives, says the Ladies' Home Journal. And yet we expect a child to ring true in his thoughts and character when on every hand he is surrounded in his parhome with things that are shams and imitations.
