From Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble

Instantly Relieved and Permanently Cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

New Discovery, But Not a Patent Medicine.

Dr. Redwell relates an interesting account of what he considers a re-markable case of acute stomach trouble and chronic dyspepsia by the use of the new discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

He says: "The patient was a man who had suffered to my knowledge, for years with dyspepsia. Everything he ate seemed to sour and create gases in the stomach. He had pains like rheumatism in the back, shoulder blades and limbs, fullness and distress after eating, poor appetite and loss of flesh; the heart became affected, causing pal-pitation and sleeplessness at night.

"I gave him powerful nerve tonics, and blood remedies, but to no purpose. As an experiment, I finally bought a 50cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a drug store, and gave them to him. Almost immediate relief was given, and after he had used four boxes he was to all appearances fully cured. "There was no more acidity or sour, watery risings, no bloating after meals, the appetite was vigorous and he had gained between 10 and 12 pounds in weight of solid healthy flesh.

"Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are advertised and sold in drug stores, yet I consider them a most valuable addition to any physician's line of remedies, as they are perfectly harm-less and can be given to children or invalids or in any condition of the stom-ach, with perfect safety, being harmless and containing nothing but fruit and vegetable essences, pure pepsin and Golden Seal.

"Without any question they are the safest, most effective cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation and all derangements of the stomach, however factory, care of milk, the proper weighing in of the fluid, etc. The manager of the factory should make a point of calling on any persons whose milk was inferior and talking the matter over quietly with them with a view to having it improved. The point of cleanliness must take precedence over all others, however; clean cows must be used, and in fact everything employed in the manufacture must be kept scrupulously clean. Buyers visiting a factory were careful to patronize those whose conditions were cleanly. The speaker was opposed to returning the whey from the factory to the farmer, as it was directly opposite to his views of cleanliness.

Mr. Goodrich, of Wisconsin, followed with an address on "The Dairy The speaker said he loved the subject of his address. The dairy cow was his best friend and his finan-Why should he not proclaim his means of salvation to (Laughter.) The dairy was the animal that could produce the most and the best milk. He didn't care if a dairy cow was the shape of a camel or a giraffe so long as it produced the most milk. (Laughter.) Neither did the color of the hair the shape of the horns amount to anv-The good dairy cow, he said, must have a broad forehead, a large, full weight, mild, intelligent looking eye, indicating brain power; a strong muscular jaw, indicating a good feeder; depth through the body, indicating large capacity for handling food; well cut up under the neck; wide heart room; strong back; long tail, bone below the hock of leg; wide ribs and high hips; thin on the back of the legs, leaving room for udder. A big udder was not, however, the prime essential; this had fooled more men than anything else. The speaker gave some good advice with regard to the treatment of the dairy cow. Good food, and above all, kind treatment, were the important points. No cow would do well for a man she hates, and kindness went a good deal farther with milch cows than it was given credit for. A com-fortable stable and plenty of water to drink were also important features. Mr. D. Derbyshire, president of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, was introduced, and made a few pleasing remarks. The speaker expressed the pleasure he felt at being able to be present at the convention, and also at having been able to welcome President Ballantyne, of the Western Association, who was present at the last convention of the Eastern Association. He liked the idea of a fraternity between the two associa-The Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, Hon. John Dryden, was the last speaker, and delivered a brief and stirring address. Mr. Dryden said the dairy industry was one which must be conducted by hundreds of people working separately. They could not all work together, yet to excel they must all work the same way. One should not strive to get ahead of the other, but all should work to win the prize and to reach the same goal. attain this end there were three important essentials—first, to organize; second, to instruct; and third, to cooperate. There were four classes concerned in the production and exporta tion of Canadian cheese. These were the farmer or the producer, the manu facturer, the dealer and the transpor tation companes. The farmers should be the first to organize. The manufacturers were mostly young men, and should be thoroughly qualified for their business. To attain this end dairy schools had been established at Guelph, Kingston and Strathroy; the dealers did not need any instruction or organization; they were able to take care of themselves. They were not in the business for fun, but for the dollars that were in it, yet they were anxious to get a good article because they could make more money on it. transportation commanies were accounted the hardest-hearted of all.

INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT CANCER.

Our new book, entitled "Cancer, Its Cause and Cure," contains valuable information about the new, painless method of treating cancer and tumor. Sent by Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., to any address on receipt of two on the importance of cleanliness in the stamps.

These people did not care for the quality; but the quantity was what they were after, how many tons, etc. It was, however, quite possible, the speaker said, to interest them in the welfare of the country, as he had found them upon different occasions he had visited them, ready to respond and reasonable in their demands. Moreover, we certainly needed their assistance. All these people should co-operate to attain the best results posible. Each must do his part, but they would not deny that the man who lives on the farm was the one who held the key to success. They could not do without him, and if he gave them bad material they could not make a success of the industry. The man on the farm might not look much, but he was no fool. (Applause.) He should not be sneered at, nor would he be driven. It was human nature everywhere to resent coercion. And yet the farmer, like everybody else, liked the extra dollar, and if he could be shown how to earn it,he would soon try to do so. What was wanted was fair dealing and honest service. A person's reputation could easily be lost in a day, and it was just the same so far as the country was concerned. Canada had made a reputation for its cheese markets, but she could lose it in a year. The man who sold filled cheese injured not only himself, but his country. He was no patriot. The man who adulterated milk saved a dollar for the time being, but would lose one hundred dollars later on. The speaker appealed, in conclusion, to his audience to act as patriots and to join in improving their reputation for the manufacture of first-class cheese. Their motto, he said, should be, "What we have we'll hold." (Ap-

C. E. Goodhand, of Milverton, was the first speaker of the evening, who gave a practical address on "Factory Management." The speaked dwelt upon the importance of getting the farmers to take an interest in the cheese factory, as if the business was their own. The farmer gets to think that the business belongs to the that the business belongs to the man who owns the factory. This was a mistake. He should be taught that the factory was his as much as the cheesemaker's, and he should take an interest in it until the cheese was consumed, just as much as the fac-tory owner Mr. Goodhand also dwelt
