TO REPLACE JAPANESE

Plans for Employing Finlanders in Inaugurated by Detroit Capitalists-British Columbia Fisheries.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 2.-President Creek, of the Malcolm Islands Co-operative Community, announces that he will import 2,000 Finlanders next summer, who will join his company, for which he has a patent from the Government. Many of these Finlanders will replace the Japanese in the woods and on the rivers during the salmon season. They will all work for the community. The executive will pay them a living wage and deal directly with the company employing them as to what they shall be paid above that wage. All moneys earned for their work will be handed to the executive of the community by the employers, and all above the Mving wage will be subsequently divided equally among the wage-earners, less expenses or tax levied on all labor by the executive for community purposes.

Mr. Creek says the big saimon combines are negotiating with him, as well big timber firms, and he expects that in two years many thousands of his countrymen will be laboring in British Columbia, their destiny being to replace the Japanese and fill up the scant white labor market for the woods and rivers of British Columbia. His people, he said, were leaving Finland, owing to Russian oppression. Out of three million some 250,000 had migrated to the States, and there would be 25,000 migrate to the Pacific coast in the near future. They were waiting for him to say "Come."

CURE FOR MARITAL UNREST

Bold Proposition of a Prominent Chiago Woman and Physician.

Chicago, Jan. 2.-Dr. Frances Dickinson, a prominent club woman of Chicago, thinks she has a sure cure for marital unrest, which is worrying a lot of women's club leaders in various cities to the werge of hysterics. Dr. Dickinson says: "When people marry they should have two contracts, one to satisfy the demands which was concluded at Cortland, at of the church and the other a contract just among themselves. In it each should agree to release the other whenever called on to do so. Each of the parties concerned would be keener about holding the other's affections. There would be less carelessness, less taking of things for granted, and less indifference in dress and manner among married folk."

ment was made yesterday of the organization of the Great Lakes Engineering Works by Detroit capitalists. which is expected to exercise a most important bearing on the shipbuilding industry of the great lakes.

The capital of the company will be

$1,500,000. The officers are Antonio C. Pessano, president and general manager; George H. Russell, vice-president, and John R. Russell, secretary and treasurer. The site selected is at a point on the Detroit River, about two miles below the city. The plant will occupy a tract of 85 acres, with a buildings of the company, which are expected to be completed by spring, will be entirely of steel. There will be four shipbuilding berths, 600 feet long, so that the yard will be equipped to build at the same time four of the largest vessels ever planned for the It is expected that the plant when completed will give steady employment to near 1,000 men.

Perhaps the most important feature in connection with the new industry will be the immense floating dry dock, which it is proposed to built at once The dock, in addition to being the only one of its kind on fresh water, will be sufficiently large to handle ease the largest vessels that may be projected by the most sanguine builder.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Young Widow and Her Mother Unde Arrest-Husband Was Poisoned.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 2.-Mrs. Maude Kiehl and her mother, Mrs. Addie Fenner, were arrested at their home in South Onondaga yesterday by the sheriff of Cortland County on coroner's warrants charging them with the murder of William Kiehl, husband of Mrs. Kiehl. They were taken to Cortland.

This is the outcome of the inquest. which evidence was produced tending to show that William Kiehl died of ar-senical poisoning. This is the second time Mrs. Kiehl. the 18-year-old country girl, has been arrested. Several months ago she was accused of poisoning Adam Kiehl, her brother-in-law, the theory of the prosecution being that she killed him to prevent his marriage to another woman. The examination caused widespread interest, owing to the youth and beauty of the widow. She was freed. When the officials began an investigation into the death of the girl's husband, who expired some time before his brother Adam, under almost similar circumstances. The result came yesterday, when warrants were issued for the arrest of both the girl and stomach."

PULPIT FIGHTS FOR CAR REFORM

A Matter of Vital Interest to New Yorkers.

REV. DR. M'ARTHUR'S VIEWS

People Are Packed Together in a Way No Longer Tolerated for Cattle.

New York, Jan. 1. - Rev. Dr. R. S. McArthur [brother-in-law to Mr. David McKerricher, of London, Ont.], in a prelude to his sermon Sunday night at Calvary Baptist Church, spoke strongly in favor of reform in the street car service. He said:

"All persons interested in street car reform rejoice that so many influential advocates of this reform are coming to the front. Influential newspapers have long given it their powerful support. Now the mayor, the Citizen's Union and the pulpit, as well as many prominent citizens not officially connected with public organizations, are giving it their hearty indorsement.

ne conditions, both on the elevated and the surface cars, have long been simply intolerable. Not only during the rush hours, but to a considerable degree during all the hours of the day, passengers have been jammed together in these cars without the slightest regard for comfort or decency.

TREATED WORSE THAN CATTLE. "They have been packed together as cattle once were in live stock cars before the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals interfered, and stopped the practice. More attention has been paid to cattle than to men and "Notwithstanding the recent public agitation, the crowding continues to a hours of the day. Tired shop-girls are straphangers in these crowded cars, and women of all classes and conditions are subjected to insults and outrages because of the disgracefully crowded condition of the cars.

'It is humiliating and reproachful to the intelligence of the first city in the western world that such a condition of things should exist. Its continuance will greatly contribute to the argument favor of placing all public utilities under the control of city authorities. The patience of the public of the City of New York, in this respect, has long ceased to be a virtue. We submitted to the use of horse-cars long after electric cars were in use in most cities of the

"I am not disposed to be unduly critical of the car lords who manage or mismanage our public conveyances. All thoughtful citizens will at once admit that the problems which confront them are difficult of solution. The fact that the city is so long and narrow, and that residences are so largely at one end of t and business places at the other, adds to the difficulty of the problem. But there ought to be brains enough possessed by the management to solve all these problems.

MUST APPEAL TO LEGISLATURE. "The matter must now be carried to move, without doubt public opinion all Albany. State legislation must be sought over the state will make itself so vigand secured. The attitude of several organizations lack aggressive vigor toward the car lords, and in favor of the straphangers. We must secure better conditions and also, by legislation, a perfect guarantee of continued betterment.

"A number of aprovements ought at once to be made "First, motormen ought to be protected by vestibules during this cold winter weather. It is astonishing that the management of our railways should need exhortation on this point. Second, passengers ought never to be allowed to stand on the platforms of surface cars. Often coarse, vulgar n.en stand there while women have to crowd between them. This is not infrequently the case, even when there is standing room inside and occasionally when there is sitting room inside. This vulgar and often brutal practice is utterly forbidden in Great Britain and in most civilized countries. It ought to be absolutely forbidden in New York and

A BLACK EYE FOR TEDDY

President and Gen. Wood Have "Single Stick" Combat.

Both Are Now Liberally Adorned With old woman acted as pilot for all the Court Plaster.

Cleveland, Jan. 1 .- A wild rumor that President Roosevelt had all but lost an eye in a tending bout with Gen. Leonard Wood startled official Washington, says the Plaindealer's special dispatch.

Then it was stated that the President's eye was seriously injured and still in danger. Correspondents flocked down upon the official mansion as bees settle upon a convenient branch in swarming time. The rumor was officially denied.

But the President and Gen. Leonard Wood, when he was located, each presented something of the appearance of German students after a series of corps duels. They might have been mistaken for victims of an intoxicated barber and a dull razor, which amounts Some people say they cannot digest ally distributed, set out the shaggy eyebrows of the one and the tootnsome smile of the other in a fashion

And while tickets of adeffect is that of a spongy mass of mission to these amateur events are family, it has been learned that the professional athletes have not always escaped with all the laurels. Lately as a variation Gen. Wood and the President have taken up the good old sport of single sticks. These weapons are of hickory, the length of a cane, and equipped with basket handles. The strokes are those of the broadsword and directed with full arm swings at the side and top of the opponent's head. A mask with circular pad breaks part of the force of the blow, and is supposed to protect the face. The exercise is not usually recommended to invalids. Even the mannish and athletic girl has shown no disposition to adopt it, and to people with weak hearts and thin crowns it is said to be decidedly distasteful. But Wood and the President have been at it for hours at a stretch. Evidently some masks must have failed to protect, or have been beaten in before powerful blows. But it is officially announced in all seriousness that President and Wood are still the best of friends. And that if the raw beef holds out their faces will resume their normal appearance after a while.

WOMAN AS SLEUTH BEATS THE POLICE

Mrs. Goodwin Discovered the Women's Pool Room.

CAPTAIN COTTRELL HAD FAILED

She is a Police Matron-Entered the Place, Where She Lost

New York, Jan. 1 .- Police Capt. Cottrell is accounted one of the cleverest men on the force, but he found himself last week compelled to summon a woman to his aid, and a woman, too, who never before in all her life had done any detective work. This inexperienced woman, in a trice, got the evidence against a pool room, whose proprietors for weeks had baffled the best skill of the captain and his de-

She is Mrs. Isabelle Goodwin, the youngest police mation in the employ of the department. She is the widow of a policeman, and is now at the Mac-Dougal street station.

Capt. Cottrell at present commands the West Twentieth street precinct. A poolroom exclusively for women had been operating for months in his precinct, but so cunning were the persons conducting it and so frequetly did they shift their quarters, that the captain couldn't get the evidence necessary to make an arrest. Then he called in Mrs. Goodwin, and she played detective successfully. At her home, No. 15 East Twelfth street, she told a reporter how she did it while her eldest son. James. now 14, listened and looked very proud of her her. She said:

MRS. GOODWIN'S STORY.

"Last Friday I became acquainted with a woman who was pointed out to me by Capt. Cottrell as a probable frequenter of the pool room. I called myself Mrs. Lawrence, and dressed myself well, but inconspicuously. I suggested ice cream to he while we were eating it that she asked if I ever played the horses. I told her sometimes, but that I was afraid to go to a poolroom for fear of arrest. "She said: 'Oh, you needn't be a bit afraid. I know a woman who takes us to a place that is perfectly safe. Why, she's been running for months. and they say the police have been in about every house in the precinct trying to find her poolroom. She runs it with her two sons to help her. She moves the poolroom every day or so, so as to throw down the police.' "This woman-she was young and well dressed-took me to a place where and the old woman looked me over very sharply. Then she said, 'Oh, she's all right. I'll take her in.' "The other woman led the way, saying to the other woman, 'I've moved up today from Twenty-first street. I got kind of leery. I'm up in Twenty-

the latter place but a few days. IN THE WOMEN'S POOLROOM. "The place in Twenty-fifth street was near Eighth avenue and was beautifully furnished. It was a flat on the ground floor. There were racing cards with the names of the horses running at New Orleans, and the weights, jockeys and odds. About a score of women, all of them fashionably dressed and most of them very respectable looking, were studying the cards and occasionally one of them would hand one of the two men who were present some money as a bet. The women who wanted to get into the room, and without her it was impossible for any one to enter. first race at New Orleans. The odds

"I put a dollar on Sleepy Head in the were 3 to 1. I didn't know one horse from another, but just chose Sleepy Head because of his name. I said to my friend, 'Oh, I see Sleepy Head's in the first race. He's a sleeper, and I know he's to be cut loose today. I know his trainer' "Well, that was enough for those women, and every one of them marched up to the cashier-'Ed,' they called him-and put down bets on Sleepy Head. Well, it was great fun. Sleepy Head never showed in the race, and I guess he's running yet. Then I said I had a headache and that I thought I'd go home. I went over to the Grand Opera House and told Capt. Cottrell all about it. THEN CAME THE POLICE.

"The next day I visited the room again, still under the guidance of the old woman, and this time I bet $1 on Alfred C.. He's running yet, too. I had just got a bet down on Honolulu, in the second race, when Capt. Cottrell and Detectives Foley and Daly jumped through the door, which they forced, and said everyone in the room was a prisoner. The women screamed, but saw it was no use to try to escape. The captain let all the women go, but arrested the two men, one of whom acted as cashier and the other as runner, to obtain information about horses and the betting at New Orleans." "Don't you think mamma's done well to take care of us four children so well since papa's been head?" asked young James Goodwin. "There's three more, almost as big as I am. There's Eugene, he's 13; Willie, 12, and Margaret, 11, And mamma takes awful good care of
