

TRINITY'S CONVOCATION.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE OF VISITORS AND AN INTERESTING PROCEEDING.

Conferring of Degrees and Eudem Jure Dignitates and Honors Cause—The Speeches of the Chancellor and the Provost.

The Michaelmas convocation of the university of Trinity college was held in the convocation hall yesterday afternoon. The room was crowded, many being unable to obtain seats. The gallery was occupied by the students of the college, representatives from Toronto universities and the matriculants of Trinity school of medicine, who sang college songs, made puns and otherwise created amusement. Among those present were the Bishops of Toronto and Algoma, the Dean of Montreal, Archdeacon McMurray, Bedford, Jones and Boddy, Provost Boddy, Drs Scadding, Davies and Macnab, Rural Deans Beck and Fletcher, Canon Brent, Curran, Morgan, Tremayne, Revs J Langtry, J D Cayley, A J Broughall, A H Baldwin, W S Ramsford, G J Taylor, H Harrison, R H Starr, J Carr, C H Brocklebank, J Fisher, W Logan, Sep Jones, C H Short, A J Fuller, Doulouin, T W Patterson, W Grant, J H McCollum, E Murray, F H Mason, J P Lewis, H G Baldwin, G O'Brien, J J O'Brien, Dr McCarroll, A W McNab, Messrs Goldwin Smith, Lewis Moffatt, J G Hedges, Jas and Elmes Henderson, H W Murray, S J Vankouchev, J A Wormald, Professor Strachan, Kirkland, Fulton, Wilson and Hutson, Drs Gault, Carley, Grasset, Cornerton, Robertson, Stead and Tackley.

The candidates for degrees were presented to the chancellor, Hon. G. W. Allan, by Archdeacon Boddy. They were admitted in the following order: B. A.—John Arthur Sanner, John Carter, Archibald Lappman, Thomas Owen Townley, John Cheyne Davidson, Robert Bertram Beaumont, Robert Norman Hudspeth, Charles Robert Galt, John H James Godfrey (conferred on Nov. 8, 1882), Archibald Sandwith Campbell (conferred on July 7, 1882), Edward Kirwan Conesle Martin (conferred on July 8, 1882), George Edwin Haslam, an ex-graduand (Dublin).

M. A.—George Harman, Rev. Alfred Fletcher, Albert John Wedd MacMichael, Rev. James Scott Howard, Rev. Bernard C. Starr, ex-graduand.
M. B.—Alexander Cameron, Walter Henry Day.
M. D. and A. M.—W. T. Stuart, A Sheard, L. Teikley, Edward Sutton Wilson, James Wilnot Landy Turner, Arthur Dalton Smith, Reginald William Bell.

C. M.—William Hector Macdonald.
M. D.—William Mallon Brett, Archibald Charles Gavillers, Philip John Strathay, Frederick David Canfield.
B. C. L.—Charles Edwin Seymour Radcliffe.
B. D.—Rev. Reginald H. Starr, Rev. Gabriel Johnston.

D. D.—Rev. Charles Henry Mockridge.
Professors of the faculty of Trinity medical school admitted in the following order: John Fulton, M. D.; Hugh Robertson, M. D.; James Algernon Temple, M. D.; Charles William Coverton, M. D.; Frederick Le-Maitre Grasset, M. D.; C. M.; William Baye Geitue, M. D.

Matriculants in arts—C. B. Beck, E. C. Cayley, W. T. Rogers, C. W. Church, C. C. Bell, O. McInnes, G. H. Jones, H. C. Stoddard, J. E. Snowden, F. C. Macdonald, Robert Harris, W. B. Magurn, G. M. Ritchie. Matriculants in law—J. A. McCullough, Carson.

The candidates for honorary degrees were presented by the public orator Professor Boys, who delivered a Latin oration on the many good qualities of each as presented him to the chancellor. They were: The very reverend the dean of Montreal, admitted to the degree of D. D., jure dignitate; the right reverend the bishop of Algoma to D. C. L., honoris causa; the right reverend the lord bishop of Toronto to D. C. L., honoris causa.

M. T. O. Townley B. A. then read the English prize essays on the scholars of the various years were presented and received their prizes.
At the request of the chancellor, the lord bishop of Algoma, and the dean of Montreal made brief addresses. The lord bishop thanked the university for the honor they had conferred upon him, but he felt it not so much an honor to himself as to his diocese. He spoke of the missionary work of the church and hoped before long to welcome some of those faces in the gallery, to assist in the work in Algoma. He could not promise them wealth and an easy life, but they would find plenty of exercise for their intellect, soul and heart. The university has invited him to lecture on the missionary work of the church. This he will be most happy to do, when he could not say, perhaps not this season.

The dean of Montreal, who is a graduate of the university of the laudatory and feeling terms of the late Provost Whitaker of Trinity college, and referred to the work done by the church of England.
The chancellor spoke of the worthy graduates on whom the honorary degrees had been conferred, and also of the professors of Trinity school of medicine who had been admitted to ad eundem degrees. He was happy that by this recognition it is retained that temperance sermons be preached on December 3, and meetings be held during the week to be addressed by Robert Graham and other advocates of the cause.

A case of gross cruelty to animals was witnessed at King and Trinity streets yesterday morning. A man descended from a lorry and with a heavy snake-whip, assisted the driver of a single wagon, laden with live hares, in an unmerciful manner. Why was Mr. Cooper's society allowed to flourish out.
Last evening Wm. Bears and two other boys formed a plot to steal a pair of gloves from the store of Mr. Arnott, 408 Yonge street, but were observed by a gentleman who informed the police. The boys were run down and Bears was captured with the gloves in his possession and locked up at No. 2 police station.
The concert given under the auspices of Robotham campment No. 50, I. O. O. F., at Shaftesbury hall last night was well attended, and was a great success in every way. Mayor McMichael presided at the chair, and Mr. F. Warrington was the conductor. The program was long and very well rendered, embracing the best local talent.

Next Friday evening Prof. Galbraith will deliver the first of a course of lectures on the Theory of the Steam Engine in connection with the School of Practical Science. Commencing on Monday evening, November 27, he will open the Monday lectures, taking for his subject The Chemistry of the Metals and their Industrial Application. Tickets for the two courses $3, for one $2.
George Harcourt, a Toronto, Gray and Bruce railway baggage-man, was charged in the police court yesterday on remand with feloniously wronging Mrs. Capt. Taylor at Queen's wharf about three weeks ago. Mrs. Taylor did not appear owing to illness. It is understood she does not want to prosecute, believing the shooting to be accidental. Attorney Ferguson insisted on a hearing, and the case will come up on Dec. 16.

Mlle. Rhea as a Comedienne.

Her Appearance as Beatrice—A Complete Success and a Large Attendance.

An audience constantly increasing from night to night is the compliment that Toronto pays to Mlle. Rhea, and last night the Grand was crowded, every seat being occupied and besides many camp stools were placed in the aisles. The touches of comedy in Juliet led expectation in the direction of anticipating a pleasing Beatrice; but expectation was far surpassed by the reality. Mlle. Rhea rippled with musical laughter, her repertoire was marvellous; it was the unbridled humor of an innocent nature and underneath all the sheet lightning of wit there was the heat of a true heart, which she exhibited in the defence of her cousin Hero, and her ardent wish that she were a man and her wit instruction to Benedict to kill Claudio. "Kill him dead if you can," was delivered with passionate earnestness. Mlle. Rhea has not only all the intensity of the tragedienne but the great light comedy of the French school. Mr. William Harris as Benedict, showed at his best. All his ratings against women were well delivered, and his acting throughout showed a careful study. Mr. McManus made a capital Dogberry and provoked abundance of merriment. Mr. Cooper was a careful Claudio. Mr. Amory, whom we have heretofore seen in comedy, showed the intense side of his character in the villain Borachio, which was well conceived and equally well executed, and the tender pathos in the delivery of the Friar's lines was cordial and deserved applause. Mr. Reynier heightened the good opinion created by his Romeo in his manly and spirited conception of Don Pedro. Miss Bonner is always a careful actress, and that she did not convey the full idea of the treacherous Conrade was owing to her inherent beauty and grace. Mlle. Rhea was very pleasing in the trifling part of Ursula. We have reserved our last word as a bonne bouche for Miss Lindeman, whose acting as Hero deserves the highest praise. In the accusation scene she showed herself possessed of high histrionic powers and received very hearty applause. The dresses worn by all the characters were very artistic, those of Mlle. Rhea were both artistic and magnificent. To-night Adrienne will be repeated.

THE EXPORT APPLE TRADE.

100,000 Barrels of Canadian and American Apples Shipped This Year.
Mr. James Pape, the fruit broker of St. Lawrence market, yesterday furnished a report with some interesting information regarding the export apple trade. Prices are on the increase in Liverpool, having advanced 1/6 to 2/6 within the past three days. Up to Nov. 14 of this year 197,000 barrels of American and Canadian apples had been sent across the Atlantic. This was nearly double the quantity of fruit over the same period last year. The prices would not be the severity of apples that people generally expect in the Southern States had turned out very large. Montreal, Halifax, New York and Boston are the chief ports of export. Of the 197,000 barrels, 40,000 were sent to Montreal, $2,377 from New York, $8,888 from Boston, and $830 from Halifax. Liverpool, London and Glasgow receive the greater portion of the exports. Some 30 direct to Hamburg and Copenhagen.

HONORING A COMING GROOM.

Presentation and Address to Mr. Lawrence J. Cosgrave.

On Wednesday evening several friends of Mr. Lawrence J. Cosgrave, who is about to obey the scriptural injunction, "It is not well for man to be alone," assembled at the Continental hotel and presented that gentleman with a very handsome marble clock, a pair of elegant brass vases and an address, very prettily illuminated by Mr. Owen. Mr. John O'Hara performed the duties of chairman, and Mr. Morley Punshon read the address as follows:
Mr. L. J. Cosgrave—Dear Sir: The members of the Cosgrave household, with us in the greatest esteem in which you are held by them, and as an acknowledgment of your unvarying kindness on all occasions, take the opportunity of your approaching marriage to present you with the accompanying marble clock and brass vases, hoping that your matrimonial voyage through life will be as prosperous, long and happy one, and that when in the far distant future you look back to the young days passed among us, some pleasant recollections of the friends now gathered around you may help to enliven your hale and hearty old age. Happy to meet, merry to part, and happy to meet again.
Appended to which were the signatures of the Cosgrave household, and the address contains a view of the light-house at Charlotta, the port of Rochester (where the Coral crew on their annual summer trips were hospitably entertained by Mrs. McMahon, a sister of the groom), and a picture of the yacht, admirably drawn, and several other picturesque embellishments. Mr. Cosgrave's health was drunk in an enthusiastic manner and a good address was partaken of.
