A PROVINCIAL DABOR CONGRESS. The Trades and Labor Council to Call On

The Trades and Labor gavel, always as mportant factor in the Council's meetings important factor in the Council's meetings, was vigerously wielded last night by President Whitten. The attendance was large. Certificates of appointments as delegates to the Council were received as follows: Typographical Union, Charles Miller, David Hastings and John Armstrong; Builders' Laborars' Union, Robert Lamb (in place of Thomas Webb); K. of L., 5742, Bros. Magiun, Manz and Weod; K. of L., 6679, Bro. Jaffray (in place of Bro. Starkey). The Municipal and Organization Committees did not air their views on any question. The Legislation Committee in their report recommended that they be authorized to make arrangements for a Provincial Labor Congress, to be held at such time as the Council might determine on. They were pleased to note that the assisted immigration system was doemed to an early death. The London Free Press, which received $10,694 of the $423,860 expended for immigration purposes in 1885, and which was reputed the organ of Hon. John Carling, Dominion Minister of Immigration, in its lasse of April 6, had endorsed the position as long maintained by the Council. The Committee commended Mr. McCarthy's Act to extend polling hours on election days to 8 p. m., and condemned the speech of Mr. James Beaty, jr., in the House of Commons during the debate on April 12 on the question of assisted immigration. Mr. Beaty had "unjustifiably taunted" the Council. The Committee recommended the creation of a Standing Arbitration Committee, to whom should be referred all matters specially affecting organized labor in the city. Any boycott or strike entered on without their concurrence should not be recognized by the Council.

Editor World : It is hardly worth while calling attention to the bad taste of "Kee-waydin's" remarks with respect to the bald eagle as the national emblem of the United States, and quoting Ben. Franklin as to the bird being of had moral character, steals fish, etc. If need be of a bird or beast as an emblem, an eagle, to my mind, is as good as any. "Keewaydin" might tell what he knows about the lion as a national emblem, and if it is not a cowardly man-eater and child-stealer.

child-stealer.

No doubt the persistent Yankee will feel bad at the remarks of such as "Keewaydin." He will get along, however; but it often happens that the other man's vanity has to take a sudden tumble.

I purchased a package of CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER of Messrs. Park & Tilford, in New York, and have made a careful analysis of the same. I find it to consist of Pure Cream of Tartar, mingled with such other ingredients as render it an effective and desirable Baking Powder, and that it does not contain any Alum, Terra Alba, or any adulteration whatever. It is in my estimation among the most wholesome compositions for a Baking Powder of which I have any knowledge.

REMINISCENCES OF THE NORTHWEST REBELLIONS FOR SALE AT 36 KING ST. EAST, TORON TO

There are hats and hats. There are the airy headpieces of our summer lazzaroni, which bear the aspect of having "braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze." There is a pleasing variety in this class of hats in architecture. material and adjustment. Some have brims and no crowns, some have crowns and no brims, which others have a modicum of each. Then some are worn on three hairs with the jaunty nicety of a dragoon's foraging cap when he goes to visit the cook at No. 10 Golden Terrace; some are pushed back from the forehead to give the great thoughts of the wearer free play, and others are pulled firmly down over the eyes, as if to shut out the sight of earth's pomps and vanities, in which the philosophic wanderer does not want to share.

Then there is "the hat my father wore," which is generally a most picturesque specimen of headgear, with breezy air of Celtic sauciness about it suggestive of the "Blarney Stone." Again, we have the hat in which the collection is taken up, which generally belongs to a prominent member of the church, and is lined on the inside of the crown with a strong adhesive of fluid to insure proper protection from cold to the head of the worthy deacon. This fluid might have other uses, but we have never studied the subject thoroughly and consequently can't give any pointers. Volumes might be written about hats, but time is lacking. We can only add our advice to the
