CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

The close of the month of August finds conditions not altogether favorable to the lumber market. The building strike in Toronto, which is still unsettled, is having a depressing effect and is certain to cause a perceptible decrease in the consumption of lumber, as the season is now getting too late to commence work on large buildings in the hope of having them completed this year. The country demand does not show much activity, small orders for immediate requirement being the rule. Conservatism is to be noticed through out the course of trade. Under these conditions prices are not likely to advance, but it may also be said that the indications of weakness are becoming fewer. There is an absence of pessimistic sentiment, for manufacturers recognize that they can control the situation by curtailing the production. One authority estimates the reduction in the Ottawa Valley log cut the coming winter at 25 per cent. The Georgian Bay production will also be curtailed. Hardwoods for finishing purposes are meeting with a fair demand, but the implement and furniture factories are not buying as much stock as one year ago. It may be that they have been holding off
