

Who Can Provide Export Counselling, Market Entry Support and Export Financing?

How?

Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA)

CIDA is the federal government's institution promoting sustainable development around the world. Some programs recognize and assist the positive role that private sector investment can have on sustainable development.

The Industrial Cooperation Program (CIDA Inc.) acts as a bridge between commercial and developmental interests in developing countries. CIDA Inc can help reduce your risks by sharing the costs associated with:

- providing training
- participation of women
- building a clean environment

CIDA Inc. also offers:

- key success factors from other projects
- tips on doing business in the destination country
- links to useful contacts in Canada and abroad

Central and Eastern Europe Program (CEE) is similar to CIDA Inc, with focus on helping increase Canadian trade and investment links with the 27 countries of Central and Eastern Europe.
