is not offering assistance to the Atlantic provinces and enabling them to establish industries which they could not otherwise establish without access to such a valuable source of electrical power, I do not know what is.

The hon. member for Gloucester (Mr. Robichaud) comes from New Brunswick and he knows that the former government which he supported would not assist the government of New Brunswick by way of loans to help them in the construction of the Beechwood project.

Mr. Robichaud: Give us a chance to pass the bill.

Mr. Browne (St. John's West): This government has assisted the province of New Brunswick.

Mr. Robichaud: Don't let the minister talk out the bill.

Mr. Browne (St. John's West): I should also like to point out—

Mr. Robichaud: Don't talk it out.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. I see it is six o'clock.

Mr. Robichaud: A cabinet minister has talked out the bill.

Mr. Martin (Essex East): Would there be any disposition to carry on for a while in order to pass the bill?

Mr. Nowlan: The same disposition that you showed at noon today.

Mr. Browne (St. John's West): I do not think I should carry on because it would take me a long time to speak about all the things I might mention.

Some hon. Members: Six o'clock.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. I have heard hon. members call it six o'clock.

Mr. Robichaud: Pass the bill.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Robichaud: Will the minister give us the business for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday?

Mr. Nowlan: Mr. Speaker, last night the house leader gave the order of business for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, possibly subject to some slight change. That has been the usual procedure, and there is no change from the order of business which he announced last night.

At six o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.
