

The Budget

Mr. Loiselle: Madam Speaker, the hon gentleman said I do not understand. That is your problem. You have never understood this problem and you still do not understand it. To repay not a $100 billion debt but a $200 billion debt would mean $40 billion of repayment a year. The interest on the debt was $22 billion. In that current account there was a $16 billion deficit. You should revisit your numbers. This is the problem. To pay it back we would need to have $40 billion on top of our expenditures. This is the legacy you have left to this country and you should be ashamed of it.

The Acting Speaker (Mrs. Champagne): The period for questions and comments has now expired. I think the day should be coming close to an end when everything is going across the floor without coming through the Chair. I understand there is an agreement between the parties that the Chair should call it 6.26 p.m. Is there unanimous consent for that?

Some hon. members: Agreed.

The Acting Speaker (Mrs. Champagne): It being 6.26 p.m., the House will now adjourn until eleven o'clock tomorrow morning. Accordingly, this House stands adjourned until tomorrow at 11 a.m., pursuant to Standing Order 24(1).

The House adjourned at 6.19 p.m.
