

MEMORANDUM RE SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS.

Macdonald College, December 16, 1925.

I also discussed with Dean Laird some matters with reference to our Arts course and the course which should be taken by teachers in training for High School diplomas.

As it is now the ordinary Arts degree in which the subject of Education is compulsory in the 3rd and 4th years, is accepted. The difficulty about this is that a teacher may expect to receive a High School Diploma and be employed as a teacher in French who in our Arts course took very little French. This applies to other subjects as mathematics and History, etc. It would seem, therefore, to be practically imperative that those who are going on for High School Diplomas should be obliged to take a particular course and that a fairly rigid one. This is a matter which a deputation of the Protestant Committee are likely to discuss with McGill.
