

CONTENTS.

MAHOMET.

PART I.		PAGE		PAGE
PREFACE,	3		his retreat and makes converts during the month of pilgrimage.—Legend of the conversion of Habib the Wise,	21
CHAPTER I.			CHAPTER XI.
Preliminary notice of Arabia and the Arabs,	5		The ban of non-intercourse mysteriously destroyed.—Mahomet enabled to return to Mecca.—Death of Abu Taleb; of Cadijah.—Mahomet betroths himself to Ayesha.—Marries Sawda.—The Koreishites renew their persecution.—Mahomet seeks an asylum in Tayef.—His expulsion thence.—Visited by genii in the desert of Naklah,	23
CHAPTER II.			CHAPTER XII.
Birth and parentage of Mahomet.—His infancy and childhood,	8		Night journey of the prophet from Mecca to Jerusalem; and thence to the seventh heaven,	26
CHAPTER III.			CHAPTER XIII.
Traditions concerning Mecca and the Caaba,	10		Mahomet makes converts of pilgrims from Medina.—Determines to fly to that city.—A plot to slay him.—His miraculous escape.—His Hegira, or flight.—His reception at Medina,	29
CHAPTER IV.			CHAPTER XIV.
First journey of Mahomet with the caravan to Syria,	11		Moslems 'n Medina, Mohadjerins and Ansarians.—The party of Abdallah Ibn Obba and the Hypocrites.—Mahomet builds a mosque; preaches; makes converts among the Christians.—The Jews slow to believe.—Brotherhood established between fugitives and allies,	31
CHAPTER V.			CHAPTER XV.
Commercial occupations of Mahomet.—His marriage with Cadijah,	12		Marriage of Mahomet with Ayesha.—Of his daughter Fatima with Ali.—Their household arrangements,	33
CHAPTER VI.			CHAPTER XVI.
Conduct of Mahomet after his marriage.—Becomes anxious for religious reform.—His habits of solitary abstraction.—The vision of the cave.—His annunciation as a prophet,	13		The sword announced as the instrument of faith.—First foray against the Koreishites.—Surprise of a caravan,	34
CHAPTER VII.			CHAPTER XVII.
Mahomet inculcates his doctrines secretly and slowly.—Receives further revelations and commands.—Announces it to his kindred.—Manner in which it was received.—Enthusiastic devotion of Ail.—Christian portents,	15		The battle of Beder,	35
CHAPTER VIII.			CHAPTER XVIII.
Outlines of the Mahometian faith,	17		Death of the prophet's daughter Rokaia.—Restoration of his daughter Zeinab.—Effect of the prophet's malediction on Abu Lahab and his family.—Frantic rage of Henda, the wife of Abu Sofian.—Mahomet narrowly escapes assassination.—Embassy of the Koreishites.—The King of Abyssinia,	38
CHAPTER IX.			CHAPTER XIX.
Ridicule cast on Mahomet and his doctrines.—Demand for miracles.—Conduct of Abu Taleb.—Violence of the Koreishites.—Mahomet's daughter Rokaia, with her uncle Othman and a number of disciples, take refuge in Abyssinia.—Mahomet in the house of Orkham.—Hostility of Abu Jahl; his punishment,	19		Growing power of Mahomet.—His resentment against the Jews.—Insult to an Arab damsel
CHAPTER X.
Omar Ibn al Kattâb, nephew of Abu Jahl, undertakes to revenge his uncle by slaying Mahomet.—His wonderful conversion to the faith.—Mahomet takes refuge in a castle of Abu Taleb.—Abu Sofian, at the head of the rival branch of the Koreishites, persecutes Mahomet and his followers.—Obtains a decree of non-intercourse with them.—Mahomet leaves				