"They are not swiped by any of our bunch," SAFETY LEAGUE NEEDS said the accused ring-leader in the juvenile court yesterday, and also denied having broken the light. The culprits were dealt with according to their various stages as law-breakers. Some were put on probation, being first offenders, while those of questionable records were handed over to the Children's Aid Contributions Are Coming in Too Society for various terms.

Boy Given Chance. Because he is a well-meaning boy and much liked by the officials of the juvenile court, Tommy saved himself and a younger delinquent from serious punishment. The boys had repeatedly gone to a great deal of trouble to rain enterpole to the premises of to gain entrance to the premises of Robinson and Boyd, where they had stolen money on several occasions. Mr. Ross, who is taking an interest in the lad, and Mr. Robinson, put in a plea for the youthful offender, and as he has improved wonderfully since his first visit to the court, he was allowed to go on probation. A large number of firms and cor-porations in the city have been ap-proached, and while they were in syming Commissioner Graham, "you will have to quit going together or you will be sure to get into trouble again."

Young Couple Disagreed.

A young couple who have only been married a few months, have begun to think they are not affinities after all. The husband says "it is up to her," and the wife says "it is up to him." Acting Commissioner Graham said it was up to them both. The trouble seems to have originated in the fact that the girl was obliged to live with her mother-in-law, who did not take kindly to the new daughter. The husband has promised to make a home for his wife and in the meantime he will pay $8 a week into court towards her support at her own mother's home.

Vicious Life to Blame.

The members of the board of education are co-operating to a certain extent in the safety movement in the schools but the members of the board of education apparently have not yet grasped fully what may be accomplished in the way of accident prevention.
