

A CENTURY OF CONSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT UPON THE NORTH AMERICAN CONTINENT.

CONTENTS.

1. Introductory statement	2
2. Canadian Constitutional Act of 1791	2-3
3. Introduction of responsible government in England	4-5
4. Primary effect of American Revolution on English colonial policy	6-7
5. The connection between free trade and colonial self-government	7-13
6. Mr. Disraeli on Imperial consolidation	10
7. Lord Elgin's views	13
8. The period of doubt and distrust	13-14
9. The Confederation of the Dominion	14
10. Mr. Dicey's views	15
11. Comparison between Canada's present constitution and that of the United States	15-21
12. Canada's adherence to British principles	18-20
13. Responsible Ministries in Canada	21-22
14. Foundation principles of the United States constitution	23-28
15. Comments of Sir H. Maine, Mr. Bagehot, and others	23-25
16. The actual government of the United States	28-42
17. The President	28-30
18. The Committees of Congress	30-36
19. Comments of Mr. Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and others	30-33
20. The Canadian contrast	35-36
21. The Speaker of the House of Representatives	36-39
22. The political machine	40-41
23. Lord Elgin on the American system	41-42
24. Lord Brougham's dream of the British Colonial Empire, and its realization	42-43