

and Mississippi, the distance from Fort Pitt to the junction of those rivers is 1164, and from thence to New Orleans, where it should be shipped, is about 1300 miles. The carriage down might be effected; but it is almost impracticable for the persons employed to return against a strong current of near 2500 miles.

THE END.