Jury Out Only an Hour-Noisy Spectators Arrested For Contempt of Court.

Hamilton, Oct. 11.-(Special.)-"Not guilty" was the verdict given by the jury in the Fieldhouse murder case this evening, and James Nealon, Michael O'Connor and Stanley Davis, the three young men accused of the crime, were discharged. The crowds in the courtroom gathered about to congratulate them. Nearly all joined in cheering, whistling and stamping their feet. Judge Meredith was indignant, but in spite of his remonstrances it was some minutes before order could be restored. The before order could be restored. The judge ordered the arrest of two of the crowd, John Wren and John Mullins. They were hustled into the prisoner's pen and the judge threatened to commit them to jail for contempt of court. He did not carry out his threat, however.

The trio were accused of murdering Fred Fieldhouse, a young Englishman, who met his death in a street row on June 16. There was little or no evidence against Davis, and there was nothing to show conclusively who had struck the blow that fractured Fieldhouse's skull. The judge's charge was rather against the accused but it took that they were not guilty. Company Wins.
