Studebaker
Established 1908

For Your Convenience

A feature of the new Series 18 Studebaker cars which has attracted motorists everywhere, is the reversible front seat.

While both front seats are individual and built to conform to the contour of the passenger's back—the seat next to driver's may be turned over quickly and easily. This enables the occupant to sit facing forward or facing the tonneau.

No other car on the market offers you this convenience—it is an original idea, exclusive with Studebaker.

Both front seats are adjustable to all lengths. When necessary, one or both may be lifted out of the car entirely. Many people on tours do this and sleep in the car itself.

Come in and see these new Studebaker cars—note the many improvements and refinements.

MORE ARRESTS AT SAND POINT

Three Men Charged With Theft from Steamers

Two Sent Up for Trial and Case of Third is Yet to Come Up—Officials Give Evidence

Two men were committed for trial by Justice Magistrate Ritchie in the police court this morning for theft of goods from steamers of the Canadian Pacific ocean service. John LeBlanc was charged with theft of a hat from a steamer now at West St. John.

C. F. R. Policeman Harry L. Dryden said that he noticed the defendant about the hold of the steamer last evening with his old working cap on. Later he saw him come out of one of the sheds with a new hat on. LeBlanc said that he had bought the hat in a store in King street. Later on he said he bought it from a man in one of the sheds for $2. The witness produced the defendant's old hat, which he said he found in the hold of the steamer.

Inspector Henry Catalow, of the C. P. R. police, said that he had a written statement from the accused admitting to the witness that he had been working down the hold of the steamer from 7 p.m. until midnight on April 10.

C. F. R. Constable Oscar J. Johnson said that he saw the accused at hatch No 5 last week. He then was wearing the old hat produced in court.

George R. Carleton, freight inspector, testified to hats in the cargo being tampered with. They were consigned to A. A. Allen Company, Toronto. He said that one carton of hats was empty. The cartons usually contained six hats.

Following the evidence, the accused said that he had nothing to say. He was committed to stand trial.

William Richard, of West St. John, was charged with theft of coconut butter and glue from one of the C. P. R. steamers. Investigator C. R. Prout said that he visited the defendant's house in Ludlow street and searched the premises. He found two pieces of silk dress goods, one straw hat, one French book, two linen table centres, two suits of linen and one skein of wool. Similar goods were missing from steamers.

The investigator submitted to the court a statement made to him by the accused in which he admitted taking the coconut butter and glue from a steamer on which he was working. He said he had bought the two table centres and the wool. He also said that he thought the coconut butter would be thrown away, as the case in which he got it was all broken.

John Walters, import wharfinger, said that packages of glue were found to be opened. An entire case of coconut butter was missing.

The accused was also committed to stand trial. Fred R. Taylor, K.C., conducted the case in the interests of the C. P. R.

A little after noon today Hector Robichaud was arrested by the C. P. R. police on charge of theft of crockery from a steamer at West St. John, in the Canadian Pacific ocean service. This makes three arrests by the C. P. R. police at West St. John since yesterday.

TWO YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Ottawa Records Show Chas. McDonald, Sentenced Here, to be Old Offender

Charles McDonald, found guilty under the Speedy Trials Act on a charge of stealing a uniform coat and a pair of navy boots, was sentenced to serve two years in Dorchester Penitentiary by His Honor Judge Armstrong. At the trial last week McDonald pleaded guilty to stealing the coat, but denied the theft of the boots. Subsequently, he admitted stealing both. His Honor remanded the prisoner for sentence, and word recently came from Ottawa to the effect that McDonald's finger prints proved him to be an old offender.

According to the records in Ottawa, he served four terms in Dorchester Penitentiary, on having been convicted on many counts. McDonald also has several aliases, having traveled under the name of Atkinson, Attles and Morrison. It was in view of his past criminal record that His Honor meted out the present sentence of two years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS ON ENTRY OF UNITED STATES INTO THE WAR

Gives Final Stamp and Seal to the Character of the Conflict

London, April 12.—Addressing the American Club luncheon today Premier Lloyd George said the advent of the United States into the war had given the final stamp and seal to the character of the conflict, which was a struggle against military autocracy.

The premier said he was not surprised that the United States had taken time to make up her mind as to the character of the struggle, having regard to the fact that most of the great wars in Europe in the past had been waged for dynastic aggrandizement and conquest.

Early in the war, Mr. Lloyd George continued, the United States did not comprehend what had been endured in Europe for years from the military caste in Prussia. Saying that Prussia was not a democracy but that Emperor William had promised it would be after the war, he added: "I think the Kaiser is right."

The luncheon, held to celebrate the entrance of the United States into the war, brought together the most distinguished gathering in the history of the club. The guests included Chancellor Bonar Law, Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill, Lord Reading, General Smuts, Lord Derby, Lord Bryce, Walter Hume Long, the Italian ambassador, Marquis Imperiali Di Francavilla and the Cuban minister, Garcia Y. Velez.

Premier Lloyd George, the guest of honor, delivered the principal speech, after a brief introduction by Ambassador Page.

The premier received a tremendous ovation when he entered the room. Toasts were drunk to President Wilson and King George.

LABOR PROBLEM AND BUILDING OF SHIPS

Skilled St. John Men, Sons of Those of Clipper Days Here, Said to be Numerous in Maine

When shipbuilding plans for St. John are discussed, one of the difficulties raised is the lack of workmen and the statement has been made frequently that there are now no St. John men who are familiar with the trade that once made St. John famous. The older generation of shipbuilders has pretty well died out and those who are left of the men who formerly helped to build the clipper ships which sailed to every port on every sea are now past active service.

That is one side of the situation, but there is another. The difficulties raised are the situation remarked the other day that there are plenty of St. John men who are thoroughly skilled shipbuilders and who might be available to aid in reestablishing the industry here.

In explanation of his statement he added that they are to be found in the shipyards of Maine. For the most part they are the sons of men who had worked in the old shipyards of this city.

As the business fell off here, many St. John men drifted away to other yards to find the work to which they were accustomed, and their boys are now following the same trade. Other St. John men of this generation with whom the family traditions were strong also have gone to Maine to find work in the same line their fathers had followed.

It is said that there is now a large number of men working in the various shipyards across the border who still regard St. John as their home and who would welcome the opportunity to return to this city if the opportunity to engage in the same line of work was offered to them.

SIX C. P. R. STEAMSHIP MEN BROUGHT HERE ON CHARGES OF DESERTION

That the C. P. R. police are active in rounding up all alleged deserters from the Canadian Pacific Ocean Service was in evidence today when a little after noon six men were brought to the central police station all the way from Montreal and charged with desertion from steamers that have visited this port within a comparatively short time.

The men now under arrest are David Brazier, William Bennett, Joseph Bennett, Edmund Lant, James F. Butler, and John Gilde. All belong to the other side of the ocean. The men were rounded up in Montreal and were brought back here to be dealt with. The action demonstrates the difficulty the C. P. O. S. are meeting in keeping men aboard their mercantile steamers and also brings out the fact of their determination to put a stop to the practice of signing articles with them and then deserting.

We Have The Stock

Notwithstanding the great quantities of Furniture which we have put away for customers who were wise enough to order in advance of their requirements, we still have a full stock, as well as a large reserve, and are prepared to show you in every department a great variety from which to choose.

This fact is of the utmost importance to those who want new Furniture for the use this spring, as it is out of the question to order goods from the factories now and have them here for May delivery.

In fact, even shipments already on the way are not to be relied upon under present freight conditions, so that you will be wise to come where you will find the largest stock to choose from, and where you can have your purchases put away for you and delivered when required.

It is never a trouble for us to show our goods.
