LIGHTER SIDE OF A SOLDIER'S LIFE

Seeing London Town and British
Notables and Places of Historic
Interest While on Short Leave
From Camp

A letter from Signaller Elmer A. Belding, of the 6th Mounted Rifles, dated Sept. 23, said that they expected to be away from England within a few days. Sept. 23, said that they expected to visit London. On a Saturday morning he went to Whitehall to see the Life Guards, then to the Victoria and Albert Museum and the Natural History Museum. He returned to the Hippodrome, and later enjoyed a "bus ride" to Camden Town in the evening, returning by the tubes to Charing Cross on Sunday he visited Regent's Park in the afternoon and Hyde Park in the evening. In the latter there were meetings of suffragettes, socialists, police reformers and also recruiting speeches. There was also a concert by the band of the Irish Guards. On Monday morning he went to Buckingham Palace to see the guard changed, and as King George was present it was a notable ceremony, with many prominent people present. Signaller Belding's guide pointed out the Duchess of Somerset, Countess of Warwick, and Mrs. Winston Spencer Churchill. The last named was on horse-back, but the other two were in their carriages with wounded Australian soldiers who were minus a limb or an eye. There was also the Earl of Londale, the noted sportsman, mounted. Others pointed out were Sir Edward Carson, the Marquis of Bath, and Sir Philip O'Connor, the diplomat.

"On the way back toward Trafalgar Square," writes Signaller Belding, "I passed the Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, who was walking alone and unpretentiously as any ordinary citizen. He is not impressive when you walk behind him, but when you look in his face you see the reason he is where he is today. It is a most impressive face, of remarkable intelligence."

Signaller Belding also visited the Chapel at St. James Palace, where royal marriages are performed, and where U. S. Ambassador Reed's daughter was lately married, by special permission of the King. He was also shown the house where three prime ministers and lived, the Earl of Chatham, the Earl of Derby and Mr. Gladstone. Side by side not far away are the homes of the Bishop of London and the Duke of Norfolk, the two great representatives respectively of the Anglican and Roman Catholic faith. As the St. John soldier passed, the Duchess of Norfolk, a young and very beautiful woman, attired in white, alighted from her car and entered her house.

A visit was made to the Parliament Buildings, the Bank of England, the Old Bailey, and the National Gallery. There was a recruiting meeting in Trafalgar Square, with the speakers' platform around the base of the Nelson Monument, and the writer says—"I was certainly proud to stand there in my khaki, with Canadian badges on my shoulders."

Major March was also in the crowd that day, being in London on business. Before returning to Dilgate Camp, Signaller Belding saw a Chaplin performance and several other entertainments. It was his last leave before quitting the shores of England. He reported that letters, papers and parcels were being received all right, and the Nova Scotia boys were particularly proud of the recruiting record from their province and those from New Brunswick were hoping to have soon a similar source of satisfaction. The boys of the 6th saw the King, Kitchener and the Prince of Teck at one of the reviews.

One night Signaller Belding and Holman of St. John, and Norman Rogers of Amherst, spent an hour or two at an English public house where the farmers and dandies were assembled and singing old English ballads, and they joined in the entertainment and were given a great reception.

Bank Clearings Are Better

Toronto, Oct. 8.—There is evidence that the money from the new crop is beginning to get into circulation, to be found in the bank clearings for the week ended Thursday, as reported to the Financial Post. Not only is there an increase shown for the week, as compared with a year ago for the whole of Canada, but the western group of cities is ahead for the first time in a long period. This improvement in the west is significant and centres largely in Winnipeg, where there is an increase of nearly $4,000,000, or over 9 per cent. Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat also have increases varying from 4 to 31.7 per cent.

FIELD COMFORTS
FOR OUR SOLDIERS
IN THE TRENCHES

1. Field comforts are not superfluous as the grateful acknowledgments from the officers abundantly prove.
2. The Canadian Field Comforts Commission is the organized government agency for the distribution of the same.
3. That the militia department in organizing this commission enabled the women of Canada to use the military organization for forwarding extra supplies to their soldiers.
4. The commission being in close touch with the officers and men as they go out to the field can carry on a more intelligent and personal distribution.
5. That we will soon have 40,000 men in the field.
6. The winter is coming on when extra comforts and little luxuries are more than ever wanted and appreciated.
7. That the commission has free government transport—packages should be sent marked "Charges collect."
8. That all supplies addressed to the commission care of their agent at Montreal or Halifax will be forwarded by ship or by air.
9. Address: Canadian Field Comforts Commission, Moore Barracks, Sherburne, Ont. (summer), F. McCourt, Esq., Dominion Iron & Steel Co. Warehouse, Wellington Basin, Montreal, P. Q.; (winter), care Hector McInnes, Esq., Red Cross Warehouse, Halifax, N. S.
10. The requirements are as follows: Socks, underwear, shirts, small towels, handkerchiefs, leather boots, jackets, books, candles, sweets, cocoa, soap, tablets, toilet paper, pencils, games, cards, tobacco, gum, etc.
11. The purchasable articles in above list are bought to good advantage in England, the commission having very satisfactory arrangements with different wholesale houses.
12. That regular monthly contributions, either of money or supplies, are a great assistance to the commission in keeping up their supplies.
13. Everything sent to the troops from the depot is addressed to the company battery or section commander as this is the officer who knows what is and is not in his men's kit and who will see to immediate distribution.
14. That supplies going out of the depot

in such quantities freedom from wastage is assured. Only the men requiring replenishment will get them.
15. Parcels sent through the commission to special designated regiments are forwarded direct to those regiments. Great care is taken in this matter.
16. It is not advisable to send parcels for individual soldiers through the commission. They go quicker and more directly posted to the individual.

CANADIAN FIELD COMFORTS.

The Canadian Field Comforts Commission wish to send Christmas gifts this year to every Canadian in the field which may mean to 50,000 men or more. Everything must be in before the end of October in order to have packing and dispatching done in good time. These are to be for general distribution, and quite distinct from anything we may be asked to forward to special units. Fifteen dollars would cover 100 welcome articles, and it is hoped that different societies or individuals will undertake to collect enough to provide one or more hundred gifts, in addition to regular supplies they may be sending. The intention is to send a bale containing packages of cigarettes and tobacco, pipes, handkerchiefs, small books, stationery, wallets, playing cards, mouth-organs, cocoa, soap, sweets or other little luxuries in sufficient numbers to provide at least one gift for every man in every unit. Packages containing 100 pipes, 100 packets of cards, or 100 of any little thing suitable for such gifts would be very helpful. The commission will be very grateful for help with this, and especially grateful for an immediate response. Address money to Miss Arnold, Canadian Field Comforts Commission, Moore Barracks, Sherburne, Ont. Shipping address to November 1: c/o F. McCourt, Esq., Dominion Iron & Steel Co. Warehouse, Wellington Basin, Montreal, P. Q.

TENDERS SHOWER
At her home, Bloomfield Station, N. B., on Thursday evening, Miss Minnie T. Theall was tendered a kitchen and linen shower by about fifty friends in anticipation of an approaching nuptial event. She received many useful and handsome remembrances. Refreshments were served and games and music were enjoyed by all present.

FORMERLY OF ST. ANDREWS
New Freeman—Congratulations to Dean O'Neill of Elizabeth, New Jersey, on the occasion of his golden jubilee. Father O'Neill is a native of St. Andrews and was formerly a priest of this diocese. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he has rounded out fifty golden years of priestly service and will wish him ad nunciamos.

The Doctor Knows

No one better than he understands the value of insurance to those who are fortunate enough to be carrying it at the supreme moment. Experience has told him what a consolation it is at the time of sorrow. He knows, too, how prone to accident and to sudden, unexpected illness we mortals are.

Armed with this knowledge is it any wonder the medical profession is one of the occupations having the highest percentage of insured amongst its members?

In the face of his special knowledge, the doctor who neglected to protect his life by adequate insurance would be unusually careless of the welfare of those dependent upon him. Medical men have been particularly attracted by the Canada Life Monthly Income Policy. It is the form of policy best suited to the professional man. It is a sure protection plus satisfactory investment and it is issued by the

The Unbearable Question.

Man of bromides, when we meet
On the red-hot sun-baked street,
And the mercury has clung
In a style most frolicsome,
Do not say, whatever you do,
Is this hot enough for you?
By my collar's wilted wreck,
As it wrinkles round my neck—
By the rivulets which race
Down my pale and sticky face,
I advise you to eschew
Is this hot enough for you?
By that soft, bromidic smirk
Which upon your face doth lurk—
By that vacuum in your head
(Vacuum, sir, is what I said),
These are words which you will rue
Is this hot enough for you?

Take my money, if you will;
Swear at me in accents shrill;
Make yourself a dreary pest
With the stale and mossy jest;
But, I beg of you, taboo
Is this hot enough for you?
Man of bromides, I shall curse
You and yours, and what is worse,
Brand you as the sort of goat
Who, for fun, would rock the boat.
If you look at me and coo,
Is this hot enough for you?

—K. L. Roberts, in Judge
