SANITARY STATE OF CITY SAID TO BE IMPROVED

Many Betterments Noted in Survey by Health Board Official

A great many improvements in sanitary conditions have been made in the city and county of Saint John under the direction of the sub-district Board of Health during the last 12 months. The secretary of the board, T. M. Burns, in speaking to The Telegram-Journal yesterday of the 12 month period ended Oct. 31, said there had been 945 plumbing fixtures installed in 20 new and 127 old houses. The plumbing inspector made in all 843 special inspections, 230 inspections on complaint and 173 advisory visits. During the same period seven houses, five flats in houses and rooms in two flats were all closed by order of the board as being unfit for habitation.

OFFICIALS VIGILANT
The board and its officials are ever vigilant in the interests of public welfare and Mr. Burns spoke of many different aspects of the work. The chief sanitary inspector made 186 special inspections, investigated and reported on 283 cases of notifiable diseases, disinfected 215 houses, inspected 29 hotels, 38 poultry houses and made 822 miscellaneous calls. He also ordered destroyed 486 pounds of meat unfit for human consumption. His assistant made 1,719 inspections of houses and yards, 837 residential and had 80 manure bins built and covered.

There was one matter in which the board believed some definite and decided action must be taken before long and that was in the matter of water supply. The city's water supply, which has been several cases of typhoid in a summer resort not far from the city, is supplying the city with water. This fact brought again special attention to the source of danger found in the increasing number of camps and cottages on the shores of the lakes and many picnic parties in the locality from the viewpoint of pollution of the drinking water. As it is a matter of vital importance to the city, it is felt that something practical should be done to ensure the safety of the water.

OUTSTANDING EFFORT
One of the outstanding efforts of the 12 month period Mr. Burns spoke of as the employing of two child welfare nurses to work directly under the Board of Health. The two nurses entered on their duties on May 1 and in six months had supervised 1,200 infants, made 8,321 home visits, conducted 72 well baby clinics, which had an attendance of 1,926 and also made 69 calls at boarding homes for infants.

The supervision of these boarding homes was also a matter in which it is believed that an appreciable reduction in the infant death rate will be noted at the end of the calendar year when these statistics are compiled.

MILK SUPPLY
Closely associated with infant welfare is the city milk supply and Mr. Burns spoke of the board's efforts to secure the high quality safety of the milk supply. He pointed out that the reduction in some notifiable diseases and the lowering of the infant mortality were evidence that the milk supply was essentially safe. There had been nearly one-third less infant deaths from acute gastro-intestinal disease for the three years, following the introduction of pasteurization of milk over the preceding three-year period and nearly 70 per cent reduction in the number of infant deaths from convulsions.

The dairy and food inspector's work was one of the forces which safeguarded the milk supply. He had made 411 inspections of cattle stables and milking utensils in Kings and Saint John counties, had taken 2,021 sediment tests of milk and ordered any dirty milk destroyed. He had also taken samples of milk for butter fat and bacterial content tests, made daily inspections of the milk plants and the milk train, as well as of the city market and the slaughter houses.

For the protection of the public in guarding against contamination of food, the assistant food inspector made 4,282 inspections of shops, dairies, bakeries, restaurants and similar premises and also issued 485 licenses to sell milk to those whose premises were found to fulfill health requirements.

FOLLOW-UP WORK
Protecting the health of children of the district the board has maintained two nurses to assist the medical inspector in the city schools and in the 12 month period, Mr. Burns said, the follow-up work calls had been more numerous than in the previous year. An improvement was seen in the cleanliness of school pupils since 137 pupils were found to have pediculosis, as compared with the 484 of the previous year. In connection with the school work, 12 children were provided with eyeglasses without charge. A nurse was also maintained for the dental clinic, where 271 individual school children were treated and made a total attendance of 1,321 at the various clinics having 814 extractions, 677 fillings and 166 prophylactic treatments.

The notifiable disease records for the 12 month period, Mr. Burns said, showed an increase in the number of cases of scarlet fever and measles. In all other notifiable diseases the number of cases showed a decrease. The number of deaths from tuberculosis had been the same as the previous year, 51, but the average number of deaths from this disease over a five-year period had been 61, showing an appreciable decrease.

TUBERCULOSIS
With regard to tuberculosis, Mr. Burns said that there was no slackening of effort on the part of the Tuberculosis Association and of the official health agencies in their drive against the disease. He pointed out that there were so many social and economic factors involved in the fight that it was essential that public opinion should be aroused and further still, that the public as a whole should get behind movements which aimed to remedy those social and economic faults.

As Hiram Sees It

"There's some more fellers goin' down river," says I to the town feller, pintin' to the patch of moonlight Mrs. Long Beach.

"Them," says he, "is the ghosts of Israel Perley an' his men from Massachusetts. They was sent out in 1761 an' come through by way of Machias an' down the Orontoct. The French was gone—an' retired officers from New England was encouraged to come to the Saint John river. Israel Perley an' twelve men come an' reported that they wasn't anything but Indians to make any trouble an' the land was all layin' waste—waitin' fer settlers. Some fellers tried to git grants of the hull place. One of 'em applied for 200,000 acres—an' a lot more wanted all they could git. Perley an' his friends didn't wait. They looked the country over an' got busy. They got the survey made an' the promise of a grant of twelve square miles from the government at Halifax. So the French was hardly gone afore Perley was on the scene. That was his ghost we jist seen in thine moonlight on the river."

ATTEND UNIQUE FLORIDA SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Flaglor Write of Thanksgiving Event

Something unique in Union Thanksgiving services was that held at Jacksonville, Fla., on the American Thanksgiving Day, November 25, when the Congregational, Unitarian, First Christian and Jewish congregations combined in an impressive service held in the Temple at Laura and Ashley streets.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Flaglor, of Saint John, who are wintering in Florida, attended that service and in writing to friends in the city, Mr. Flaglor makes special mention of that impressive event. He states that it was the first held in Jacksonville and to hold such a service twenty-five years ago would have been an impossibility. It is a very fine auditorium in which the service was held and on the wall behind the pulpit there is inscribed in Hebrew in gilt letters: "Hear, O Israel, God is One God." The invocation was made by Rev. A. E. Leonard, a Congregationalist. The Jewish Rabbi led in the responsive reading of the Psalms. The president of the Thanksgiving proclamation was read by Rev. J. T. Boone, the Christian church minister. Rev. J. C. Coleman, the Unitarian minister, read the special portion of Scripture and delivered the address, which Mr. Flaglor described as "inspired oratory."

The theme was "Twentieth Century Thanksgiving." The special offertory taken was in aid of a local tuberculosis institution. There were vocal solos and organ music during the service and all were of the highest musical standard, Mr. Flaglor said.

SOME INCONSISTENCY.
He pointed out some inconsistency in the congregational hymn which was sung at the opening of the service. Its last verse was as follows: "God of Justice, save the people From the strife of race and creed, From the strife of class and faction— Make our nation free indeed! Keep her faith in simple manhood Strong as when her life began Till it finds its full fruition In the Brotherhood of man."

Mr. Flaglor thought the last two lines of that verse were rather at variance with the actual history of the nation which had not entered the League of Nations.

Mr. and Mrs. Flaglor are enjoying their stay in Jacksonville and are having ideal weather. On the day previous to that on which he wrote the temperatures varied from 76 degrees to 86 degrees Mr. Flaglor stated.
