FERNIE IS QUICKLY BECOMING NORMAL

Superintendent Hussey Returns With Favorable Reports of Burnt Town.

(From Monday's Daily).

"Although the fires are still smouldering in all directions around Fernie, and will do so until the rain comes to put them out, there is no further danger to the town, and everything is peaceful and activity has once more commenced. The Merchants Bank of Hamilton re-opened on Saturday and the Bank of Commerce will re-open during this week in temporary quarters," said Superintendent of Provincial Police G. F. Hussey this morning upon his return from the scene of the recent fire.

Mr. Hussey went to Fernie directly the facts became known and remained there until things commenced to regain their normal condition. As far as has been ascertained, the loss of life numbered sixteen persons, and all buildings were consumed with the exception of the concrete buildings of the coal company and the concrete house of Rev. Father Tavernier and a few others. The fire started from an incident, bush fire which had been smouldering for some time. On the Saturday a terrific hurricane commenced and swept the fire in all directions. The first place to catch was the brewery, which occupied wooden premises. Very soon the whole town was ablaze. Immediately things quietened down there were a large number of families who left the town at once and went to surrounding towns for work. Cranbrook, the nearest town, formed a relief committee instantly, and took care of some 1,500 people, to whom they rendered very valuable aid. Supplies were rushed in from all directions. Temporary quarters were erected as soon as possible to replace the 1,000 buildings that were destroyed.

The mines are all intact and quiet in them will shortly be resumed. At the time of leaving, the town was quiet and peaceful and there had been scarcely any looting. The mines, says Mr. Hussey, are not at all that way disposed, and any hopes with looting intentions that drifted in were invited by the police to walk on instantly.

Mr. Hussey remarked that the "Black Hand" idea as being the cause of the outbreak was without foundation and there was nothing to lead to establishing a theory of the kind at all. The fire from which the outbreak commenced was known to be burning for some time and the sudden wind was as the cause of the fire spreading. The health department is now taking steps to look after the sanitary arrangements of Fernie, from which the only danger to the town remains. Mr. Hussey says that those in charge of this are working well and there is little thought but that the arrangements will result satisfactorily. Supplies and money have continued to go in up till the time Mr. Hussey left, but he says it is hard to say what sum will be required to keep the residents of the ill-fated town from poverty and

JAMES DEAN DIED HERE THIS MORNING

After a Lingerin Illness, He Passed Away in This City.

(From Monday's Daily).

The death occurred in this city yesterday morning of James A. Dean, surviving brother of Rev. G. W. Dean, of this city. The late Mr. Dean was born at Brockville, Ont., 65 years ago, but spent the most of his life in the United States, having come here two months ago from Los Angeles, where he had been taken ill. His condition did not improve as his friends expected it would after his arrival here, and yesterday morning he succumbed to a hemorrhage of the brain. The late Mr. Dean leaves no family, his wife having died at Los Angeles some years ago. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. German, Baronet street, to-morrow afternoon.

MUSICAL EVENING.

A talented young vocalist is to make her first public appearance in her own home city at the Victoria theatre on Friday evening, September 11th. Miss Jessie McKinnigan, of Rockland, Ontario, has arranged to give a grand concert under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Damselus and Hon. Richard McBride, premier and Mrs. McBride. Although this will be Miss McKinnigan's first public appearance in Victoria, she has taken part in various public concerts in Seattle where she has been studying for the past eighteen months. She has met with enthusiastic praise from the musical critics there who prophesy for her a great future. She has a rich mezzo-soprano voice of great power and range and on this occasion she will be heard in several numbers.

Several eminent artists of well known ability have volunteered their support and assistance, amongst whom are Herr Moritz Rosen, the Polish Violinist, who lately held the position of concert master in the Royal orchestra at Warsaw, and afterwards at the Stern conservatory in Berlin. To him the violin is like a living being expressing the subtle intricacies of the human mind and illustrating its feelings and passions. Herr Heinrich R. Rosse, the famous German pianist, will act as accompanist, in which he excels, and as a soloist he is powerful and brilliant. Both these artists appeared at the Victoria theatre on January 17th last, on which occasion they received great applause. Another well known artist will also assist, namely, Herr Karl Schwerdtfeger, baritone, late with the Danrosch Opera Company, and with Meiba. He has a voice of fine musical quality, good range and a style that is dramatic without effort.

Accept, then, I beseech you beloved brethren and friends, this token of gratitude and love on my part. It is indeed your own "memorial" in heart and hand, consecrated by its use; nor can any virtue in man impart an attribute of holiness to the physical elements of worship, seeing that there is nothing holy in the church but the worshipers themselves even those who are only through their faith.

Rev. T. W. Gladstone, in his sermon, made reference also to the gift of the Holy Spirit, and to the work of the one whose memory it commemorated. He said in part: "I will not spend many words in eulogy of the brave and loving woman whose labors by the side of her husband through so many years did so much for him and so much for this church, and going beyond this church, so much for this city and its neighborhood.

"Anyone of us may well esteem himself or herself highly honored if he or she is enabled by His Grace to do one-half of what Mrs. Cridge did in her day, for the good of the generation which she served and of succeeding generations who will be blessed in consequence. And it is fitting that a permanent memorial should exist of so noble and so useful a life, while it is also fitting that this church which was so dear to her should enshrine that memory, and what more graceful and what more appropriate memorial could such a memorial take than the desk from which the word of God is read to the congregation."

He said he would honor the lectern.

LADY AUTO VICTIM.

Machine Wrecked on Torn Up Road Near San Francisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Anna Clemens was killed last night in an automobile accident near the Fourteen-Mile road south of this city, and her only son Harry was slightly injured. Clarence N. Wolfe, the owner of the car, who was driving it, was not injured and was repaired in the road and Wolfe did not notice it was torn up.

NEW LECTERN USED YESTERDAY

REFERENCES MADE TO LATE MRS. CRIDGE

Desk in Her Memory Adorns Reformed Episcopal Church.

(From Monday's Daily).

Yesterday morning there was a very large attendance at the Reformed Episcopal church when the beautiful lectern presented by Bishop Cridge in memory of the late Mrs. Cridge was first used. The Bishop himself was the first to use the lectern reading the lessons from it yesterday morning.

Before doing so he made brief reference to the installation of it and the noble work which the late Mrs. Cridge had done for the church which recalled to the minds of the congregation the many acts of devotion performed by her.

The lectern is a pretty one and adds to the interior of the church. Bishop Cridge before reading the lesson said: "In my grateful reflections on the generous and loving gift contributed by members of the congregation and friends and presented to me on my birthday last December, I felt I could not put it to a more worthy use, nor, as I had good reason to believe, one more acceptable to the donors, than placing in the church a memorial of my wife who had left us for the better home

SIX DRUNKS AND TWO MEN WHO DRINKING PROVICIOUSLY HAD ALSO GOT THEM INTO TROUBLE, TOOK UP PRACTICALLY ALL THE TIME OF GEORGE A. MORPHY, ACTING MAGISTRATE, IN THE POLICE COURT THIS MORNING.

Of the two latter, one, Hector Macdonald, was charged with breaking a window in an electric car last evening and fined $10 and ordered to make good the damage done, while the second, John Handley, was fined $20 or one month in jail for pelting Robert Murray, bartender at the Princess of Wales, with beer mugs.

The first one of the drunks class called upon to plead was A. A. Stanley, the man who has just come in for some time through the death of his father in the old country. He replied in a voice that left no room for doubt, "Guilty, your honor." Five dollars fine or ten days in jail was the punishment meted out to him. T. Barchus, who is living up to his name, also contributed $5 to the civic exchequer, and so did "Ambrose, an Indian."

St. Flood, whose eye bore eloquent evidence to his having been in a mix-up of some kind, was most repentant. When his name was called he replied, "I guess that's me."

Chief Langley, sotto voce—He must have come in from the food table at the Princess—Are you guilty or not guilty?

Flood—I guess that's right.

Mr. Morphy—Do you plead guilty?

Flood—Yes, I do.

Mr. Morphy—Six dollars, or in default ten days in jail.

Bert Lawrence was the next man up and his reply to the magistrate was, "I was drinking."

"Seven dollars or in default ten days," said Mr. Morphy.

A Call contributed $5 to the expenses of running the civic machine.

This wound up the list of drunks and Hector Macdonald was called upon to answer a charge of having broken a window in an electric car during a drunken row last evening on the last trip citywards of an Esquimalt car. The other participant in the fight escaped from the car before the arrival of the patrol wagon but Macdonald was not wise enough to do so. When called upon to plead he replied, "I don't remember anything about it but I guess I did it," subsequently saying that he was guilty.

He was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and also to make good the value of the window, $150, or to go to jail to serve a term of one month in jail at hard labor.

Then John Handley, the hero of many a police court episode, was asked what he had to say in reply to a charge of assaulting Robert Murray, bartender of the Princess of Wales saloon, corner of Government and Herald streets, Saturday evening.

He pleaded not guilty, and Murray was called to the stand. He swore that Saturday evening Handley was in the bar singing at the top of his voice and had asked him to either moderate his transports or cease his noise altogether. Handley continued to sing, however, and while he was serving some customers threw a beer mug at him, following it by a second one. He had then made a break for the back Imprisoned Hunters Attacked Their Guards—Appeal Against Death Sentence.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—Six Japanese whom Russia condemned to death at Nikolavsk for attacking the guard have appealed to the supreme military tribunal at St. Petersburg. The appeal is now being considered. The condemned men were sailors on the Japanese schooner Miye Maru, which was recently captured by the Russians while seal poaching in the Kommandorski islands in the Behring sea.

While the troops were conveying the prisoners through the streets of Nikolavsk the Japanese sailors objected to walking in the middle of the road, which is in accordance with the Russian regulations, and Bishop Cridge with stones and wounded several of them. The town of Nikolavsk is under martial law and the Japanese, therefore were tried by a military district court, six prisoners being condemned to death.

The schooner Miye Maru was one of the two which took part in the fatal episode of June 16, 1905, at St. Paul Island, Behring sea, and was wounded by Alaskan special policemen, under command of Special Agent Lembeck.

Cordial Welcome is Extended to Battleships—News-paper Comment.

Auckland, N. Z., Aug. 10.—Sixteen white ships, comprising the battleship division of the United States Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, arrived at 8:40 yesterday morning and anchored in two columns in the roadstead abreast the city, after a voyage of thirty-three days from San Francisco, including a stop-over of six days at Honolulu. The vessels reported all well aboard.

Cordial Welcome.

Christchurch, N. Z., Aug. 10.—The newspapers here cordially welcomed the arrival in New Zealand waters of the United States Atlantic fleet. The Christchurch Press in an article on the visit of the fleet, declares that the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, "As only a temporary expedient" to secure peace, and predicts a struggle on the Pacific in the future in which the United States and Great Britain will be natural allies against the far-eastern forces.

English Comment.

London, Aug. 10.—Few of the morning newspapers comment on the arrival of the American fleet in New Zealand waters and these chiefly to express regret that no British fleet is present to join in welcoming the visitors. The Times, however, goes further saying: "There is a legitimate feeling of pleasure in this most remarkable display of naval force and naval skill from a nation which above all others is considered the natural ally of Great Britain in the United States and Great Britain will be natural allies against the far-eastern forces."

NEED OF CANADIAN PRESS SERVICE

The manner in which the Associated Press reported the recent Olympic games in London brings out more clearly than ever the need of a Canadian press service from Great Britain. All the A. P. dispatches are colored to pander to American eyes. If an American captured a third place he received more mention than a Briton or Canadian who finished first. It is a wonder that, with the daily reading of old country news fixed up by Americans, we have not lost our loyalty to the old country and become altogether Americanized.—Moncton Transcript.
