P. W. A. Officials Claim Membership of 3,000 — Say a Strike Would Not Cripple the Mines.

GLACE BAY, N. S., April 24-There are no new developments in the labor situation here today. The president of situation here today. The president of the United Mine Workers, Mr. Daniel McDougall, is now in Springhill on important business, the nature of which could not be learned. Messrs. Bonsfield and Patterson are absent from town today attending meetings of the locals at Number Six and Lingan, and could not be seen. Speaking to members of the United Mine Workers on the street this morning it was stataction on the part of the company was but adding "fuel to the flames," and which but intensified the difficulty and as a result the men would pro-lieries. They are confident that their members and non-union men to the number of at least 3,000, would remain at work, and this number would probably be augmented by several hundred other miners, who would be returning to the collieries, at the opening of the busy season. The United Mine Workers men claim they have over 3,000 members. No effort as yet has been made by the United Mine Workers officials to interview Mr. Duggan, but it is possible that they will endeavor to see the manager early next week.

the advancing Constitutional army and with the troops of the Constantinople garrison say that both sides used artillery and machine guns and that the combatants gradually swarmed into the town, fighting in the streets. The Loyalists sought shelter in the French Hospital after having been pursued by the Constitutionolists, whose superior distipline was effective. Two onlookers were killed during the struggle, one of whom is believed to be a British subject. The fight raged almost in the heart of the European quarter.

Frederick Moore, correspondent of the New York Sun, was seriously wounded, according to special despatches received here this morning. Mr. Moore was taking snapshots of the fighting soldiers who, evidently mistaking his camera for a weapon, fired upon him.
