The tiny hamlet of Lennoxville, Quebec, nestled in the foothills of the Eastern Townships is still searching for an answer among the tattered rabble of its once proud University rugby team.

On Saturday, October 11th, the Ironmen played two games against Acadia and the Bishop's "B" side in order to reach to final match against the Bishop's Harlequins "A" side for the prestigious Caledonia Cup.

Acadia fell to UNB 66-0 in a rout that left the meek Acadicians in awe of the utterly merciless Ironmen. UNB forwards and backs ran in try after try at an alarming rate. Wingprop Hammer Davidson scored no less than twice, as did eight-man Mike Parent. John Appleby led the backs with three tries, Randy Ketterling had one, and Tony Dolan with another. A.J. DuPlessis scored last for UNB late in the game. The remaining 26 points came from the kicking foot of the dashing scrum-half Doug Stewart who went on to score an astounding 44 points in the tournament.

Later that Saturday UNB met the Bishop's "B" side in a hard fought 28-0 win. The Harlequins were seemingly determined to see that several UNB players did not see another game that weekend. In a match fraught with excessive violence, UNB emerged tired but victorious, confident of a spot in Sunday's final. John Appleby scored twice in this game bringing his total scoring drive to 20 points, fullback Ian Wilson scored once. Lock forward Mike McClare placed one over for the final try. It was to be once again UNB vs Bishops in the deciding game.

The Bishops Harlequins were sporting a revamped scrum with several European players, and was by far the toughest pack the Ironmen have faced thus far.

Doug Stewart opened the scoring with a penalty goal eight minutes into the game, and Bishops answered with a try four minutes later.

The UNB back ran into tough opposition from the Harlequin centers and were beat for significant gains several times early in the half. It took the back line thirty minutes before they could shut down the Bishops' South African stand-off, and sufficiently batter the halfbacks into making crucial late-game mistakes.

As the front row forwards, Willy Scott, Chris Davidson, and John Carr busied themselves with controlling their formidable opposites, Mike McClare and Howard Constable had a running battle going with the huge French locks that lasted for the entire eighty minutes.

Scoring late in the 1st half for UNB was winger Scott Bringloe, on a well-executed sideline run.

Bishops regrouped in the second half and pressured the Ironmen into giving up one more try before the final whistle would blow. Bringloe scored once again in the second half and Stewart added another three point field goal to give the Ironmen a 5 point lead (18-13).

Tim Doherty, Ian Wilson and Mike Hopper covered the Harlequin overlaps with decisive speed as the final moments of the game were played out in the UNB end.

The score stood at 18-13 for UNB giving them the undisputed reign over Eastern University Varsity rugby and the Caledonia Cup.

UNB plays next on Saturday Oct. 18 at College Field vs the Saint John Trojans at 3 pm.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Strong performances over the weekend at the Codfish Bowl in Boston have earned two cross country runners athlete-of-the-week honors for the week ending Oct. 11.

On the women's side, Cathy White turned in her best performance of the season by placing 13th out of approximately 150 runners from throughout the New England states.

Cathy was UNB's third finisher and helping the Lady Harriers win the Codfish Bowl for the third consecutive year. Cathy is a first year science student from Fredericton and her time of 19:20 over the 5000 meter course was her best time this year. UNB won the competition with 97 points to the second place Quinipiac's 101 points.

For the men, captain of the Red Harriers Bill MacMackin takes the weekly honor. His 10th place finish at the Codfish Bowl was a marked improvement over his 46th place finish one year ago. His performance also helped the Harriers to a 6th place overall finish. Bill, who is a 4th year business administration student from Hampden, was UNB's top finisher at the meet.

The UNB Red Sticks chalked up 2 more victories on the Holiday Weekend to up their league record to 8 wins and 0 losses.

On Friday Université de Moncton hit Chapman Field a much more determined team after losing on their home turf by a 6-1 score a week ago. Needless to say the Blue Angels tightened up their defense to a point of getting physical.

Cathy Whalen opened the scoring at the nine minute mark of the first half on a rebound from a previous shot. A hot U de M goalkeeper kept the Red Sticks at bay for the rest of the first half.

Anne Campbell scored on a scramble in front of the net late in the second half and Pam Gallant followed less than a minute later with a high booming drive into the top corner of the net - again on a scramble in the circle. Sheila Bell got the shutout but was really tested. Susan Grady and Carol Cooper, the UNB captains successfully double teamed All Canadian Danielle Audet not allowing her a shot on goal.

Saturday the Red Sticks hopped onto the van to visit the swampies, too much turkey expectations kept the Sticks playing rather lethargically for very much of the game and again Mt. A. were not to be humiliated again after their 8-0 loss 2 weeks ago. To quote the Mt. A. coach "This was our best game this year" and to quote the UNB coach "Our worst." The Red Sticks struggled through on a goal by Michelle Ives on a penalty stroke. UNB dominated the play but couldn't find the killer instinct. Carol Ann Jones got the shutout but again had a fairly easy day.

The field hockey team has played better but team members ensured the coach "remember last year we had a slump and were great at Nationals". Time will tell.

The play over the weekend was less than brilliant but there were a couple of bright spots. In the U de M game 3 players scored who haven't been putting the ball in the net lots this year. That is encouraging. Anne Campbell also had a good 2 games playing very steadily in her halfback role. As a result Anne was nominated as player of the week for the Sticks.
