

Under-Table Rebellion Brews

Campus Drinkers Ignore Regulations

Canadian students' attitude towards university liquor regulations is generally one of overt acceptance or "bottle-under-the-table" rebellion, a nationwide survey showed this month.

The survey indicated most students show utter indifference or contempt for university liquor regulations; regulations are ignored on almost all Canadian campuses; and students usually get away with it.

Disciplinary action by campus or city and provincial police usually occurs only when drinking is accompanied by rowdy and disorderly public behavior, notably at football games. For example, a student's court at the University of Western Ontario recently fined four students $50 each for "conduct unbecoming students" and illegal drinking at a football game between the McGill Redmen and the Western Mustangs.

Queens University reported liquor regulations have been strongly enforced on campus after a bottle was thrown from the football stadium injuring a passer-by on the street last year.

But, in most cases, campus police and university authorities turn a blind eye to breaches of university liquor rules.

A probe of disciplinary problems associated with university liquor regulations, the survey asked the editors of campus newspapers to assess student attitudes toward regulations, enforcement by campus police, fraternity practices toward provincial regulations.

A majority of universities reported a total ban on liquor on campus but only one of the dry universities, Sir George Williams, said rules were fully accepted and respected. Of the others, three blamed enforced teetotaling on religious tradition.

"The university was started by a lot of Presbyterians who had queer ideas about drink and the other good things of life," chided the University of Manitoba, Acadia University and McMaster University concurred, suggesting Baptist abstention had a hand in banning liquor on campus.

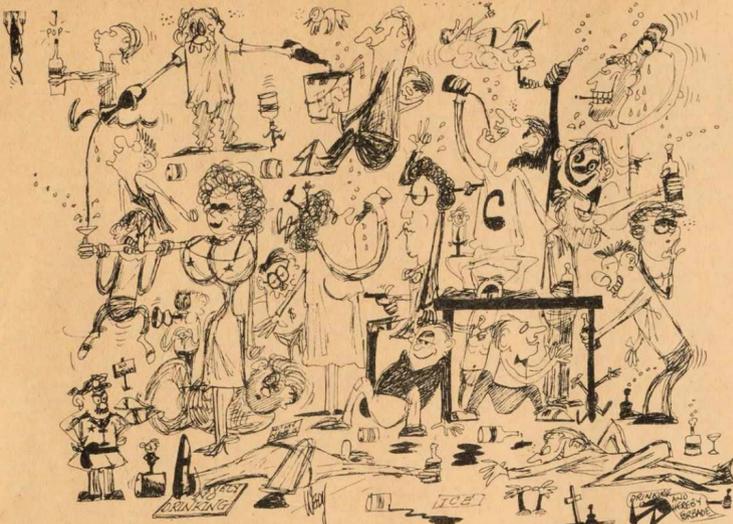

Some universities reported liquor regulations are strictly enforced and students are at least careful to obey in the open.

The University of Western Ontario reported students "wouldn't bring a bottle with them" to university functions, but frequently drink before-hand. Liquor is sold to students, frequently minors, at off-campus dances at Newfoundland's Memorial University.

The University of Alberta reported students bow to university regulations but often snub their noses at provincial liquor laws.

On the other hand, at the University of Guelph, liquor regulations are reportedly disregarded. Bottles are openly brandished at football games, although theoretically the penalty for drinking on campus is expulsion.

Three universities said drinks are permitted in designated locations on campus, or at official off-campus university functions. At Bishop's University, where students are allowed a "quiet drink" in residence rooms, and at Carleton University, where alcohol is allowed in residence and in the official student lounge, few problems concerning liquor were reported.

At McGill University, where liquor is banned on campus but allowed at university functions in the off-campus Students' Union, student drinking is apparently no problem.

Of all the universities in the survey, only the University of Waterloo reported no campus liquor regulations. Provincial regulations, however, are strictly enforced. Student drinking on campus is treated as a responsibility of the provincial and campus police.

The survey showed that while city and provincial police strictly enforce provincial liquor laws, most campus police act only when offences cannot be ignored.

The minimum drinking age is 21 in all provinces except Quebec. Two Ottawa universities said many students cross the river from Ottawa to Hull, Quebec, to obtain liquor. In all provinces, liquor is allowed in place of residence or licensed establishments.

Fraternities often avoid bowing to university and provincial regulations, the survey showed.

"The fratman's attitudes to liquor are much like the engineer's - largely vocal and not very mature," said the University of Manitoba, adding that periodic police raids on off-campus fraternities are often followed by charges under provincial law. The University of British Columbia said though fraternities serve alcohol to minors they "do not get in trouble with the RCMP if they restrict drinking to the fraternity house."

"Some fraternity members drink a great deal, but fraternities here are in so precarious a position that no campus and few provincial regulations are broken," observed Newfoundland's Memorial University.

At McGill University, fraternity "rushing" is dry, but parties at which alcohol is served are held at private homes. Fraternity open house were recently banned on campus, but tickets are now readily available for "closed parties" at which liquor is available.

In spite of reported dissatisfaction with campus liquor regulations, the survey showed students are making little effort to change existing rules.

Some university newspapers are forbidden by provincial law or university regulations to accept liquor advertisements.

Queen's University and the University of British Columbia both reported attempts to get a pub on campus. "We'll never get a pub but everybody drinks both on and off campus anyway," said UBC. No liquor licence is granted within five miles of the university.

Urge Stronger Ties With French Press

HAMILTON - English-language Canadian university journalists are seeking closer relations with their French-Canadian colleagues and with professional journalists.

At the annual conference last week of the Canadian University Press delegates approved several resolutions aimed at closer relations between CUP and La Presse Etudiante Nationale, the association of French-language student newspapers in Canada.

Among proposals turned down by the delegates were:

That CUP co-operate with the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament in a study of the Canadian daily press;

That CUP try to send a participant to a World University Service seminar in Chile; and

That CUP send a reporter on a study-tour of Cuba to be organized by the Cuba '65 Committee, a non-partisan organization currently in the formative stages.

Mr. Day was elected president of the Atlantic Region of C.U.P. and Editor Michel Guite was nominated for national presidency, but later withdrew.

The Gazette piloted several motions through the convention, and presented a national advertising report, which will be reviewed during the spring by a national C.U.P. committee. Varsity News Service.

They also voted to seek closer relations with the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association and the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference, two organizations serving the professional press.

But delegates turned thumbs down on several proposals which, many of them believed, would have taken CUP into fields which might conflict with CUP's journalistic traditions.

Delegates approved an exchange of news, features and file information between CUP and PEN.

But they turned down a proposal from the McGill Daily that CUP and PEN set up a regular exchange of editorial comment. (The Daily and The Varsity later agreed privately to undertake such an exchange with French-language papers.) CUP and PEN are each to send delegates to various functions of the other.

Delegates approved change in the CUP fees structure which will have the effect of raising the fees charged to the biggest members of the organization, such as The Varsity, from $450 to $500.

They moved to exchange information being supplied by The Varsity and the Dalhousie Gazette, Dalhousie University, Halifax, concerning advertising.

They referred back to committee proposals aimed at adding to CUP's recommended rules for dealings of student newspapers with their respective student governments and university administrations.

Forecasts Tiger's Win vs. S.M.U.

By J.F.R. SMU at DALHOUSIE - The Bengals should average their pre-Xmas loss to the Huskies who are presently fifth ranked in the nation. SMU looked extremely sloppy in downing MTA last week while the Bengals put on an impressive performance in also downing the Hawks. Defence should be the difference with the Huskies coming out on its short end in a squeaker.

SDU at MTA - This will be the Saints first start of the season but they will find the going rough against the home town Hawks. Neither team will be a powerhouse in the conference this season but MTA with two games under their belts should emerge victorious.

ST. F. X. at U.N.B. - The X-men dumped U.N.B. 81-72 in Antigonish last weekend and should again emerge victorious. The Red Raiders are winless in two starts so far this year and just haven't the height to stop eight ranked St. Francis.

DALHOUSIE at ACADIA - The Stu Aberdeen coached Acadia squad should remain undefeated in conference play this year as they will down the Tigers. The Axmen presently second ranked in Canada have the advantage of the home court and with the height of Dave Rode and the scoring of Steve Konchalski should defeat Dal by ten points or less in a low scoring game.

ST. F. X. at MTA - Once again X will have just too much height for the Hawks. X will simply overpower and outdefence MTA while walking off with a convincing win by at least 25 points.

S.D.U. at U.N.B. - In their second home contest of the weekend U.N.B. should notch their first win in four starts. The Saints from Charlottetown should have a long hard season ahead of them and will drop their second game in as many starts.

ST. THOMAS at MTA - Mt. A. after losing to Dal last week 5-4 in overtime should bounce back and hand the Tomies their second loss in an many starts. St. Thomas who dropped a pre-Xmas game to U.N.B. will be outskated and outplayed by the Mounties.

MT. A. at U.N.B. - In the first meeting of the season between these traditional rivals U.N.B. presently ranked fifth nationally should down the Mounties. Roland Belliveau, Jack Drover and company, who showed well in the Dal Invitational Tournament should be too much for MTA.

ST. U. at ACADIA - The Axmen should lose their fourth game in five starts and drop into the conference cellar. Acadia just don't have the horses this year and should be downed easily by the hard skating N.B. team.

ST. D. U. at U. of MONCTON - With an impressive two wins with as many starts the powerful Saints should continue atop the conference and move up from their present ninth position in national rankings. Led by high scoring Billy MacMillan the Saints should notch a convincing victory.

Jurists Win, 49-37

The 1965 interfaculty basketball league began last Saturday afternoon with four games being played.

In the league opener the defending champion Law team came on strong in the second half to down the Pharmacy Education squad 49-37. Trailing 17-16 at half the Lawyers led by Bob Napolitano rallied early in the second half to coast to the win. For the Lawyers, Napolitano fired 20 points while Terry Donahoe and Bill West each added nine. Joe O'Leary with 16 and Don Rutledge with 10 were the scoring leaders for the Pharm-Ed team.

A couple of clutch last minute baskets were the margin of victory in the second game of the day as Engineers edged Commerce 36-31. With the score tied 26-26 with five minutes remaining Murray Wolfe and Doug Skinner scored the baskets which put the Engineers ahead to stay. Wolfe was the individual standout of the game as he hooped 13 points while Skinner and Cy Nyon each netted eight. Howie Lilienfeld swished 12 for Commerce with Keith Lawes and Jack Weatherhead helped out with 9 and 6 respectively.

In a rather loosely played low scoring third game Arts eked out an 18-17 victory over Medicine. With the score tied 7-7 at half time the freely substituting doctors fell behind early in the second half and were unable to pull the game out. The Meds' team a powerhouse in recent interfaculty seasons dressed 16 players but were just not able to get on track. Joe O'Leary played on the second game of the afternoon scored 6 for Arts while John Tilly added 4. For Meds Bill McCormick had 6 points.

In the final game of the afternoon Science with a strong second half performance downed Dents 38-18. Leading 16-14 at half time the Sciencemen came on strong outscoring the Dentists 22-4 in the final twenty minutes to post the win. For the winners Rick Smith had 8 while Mike Prendergast and Marty Rosen each had three field goals for 6 points. Richard Guy did most of the scoring for the losing Dentists as he scored 11 of their 18 points.

Hoop Tournament Varsity Ladies In

By PAT BALLOCH Women's Sports Editor

All the Dalhousie athletes (feminine for athletes) came back for another term of active sports. There has been a lot planned for this term, so it would be best that even more enthusiasm was seen in such D.G.A.C. activities as the Keep Fit classes.

BASKETBALL practices started again last Tuesday with the noon practice. Although everyone was a little out of shape, things began to run smoothly once again in preparation for the tournament held at Mt. A. last weekend. A great deal of progress had been shown throughout the term so everyone was very hopeful by the time Friday morning came around.

Early Friday morning, January 8, the Dalhousie Girl's Varsity Basketball Team left by chartered bus for Mount Allison to compete in the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament. Five teams took part in the tournament: Mt. A., Dalhousie, Mt. St. Bernard, U.N.B., and the St. John Alpines.

The tournament started Friday evening with Mount Allison defeating Mount St. Bernard. Dalhousie girls were reversed in the second game by the St. John Alpines, 38-13. A key player on the Dal. roster Margie Muir was lost to the team when she was injured in the game.

The second encounter Friday night was delayed after four minutes of play. However, the Varsity ladies lost again to Mount St. Bernard, 41-23. Margie Muir returned to the line-up to score 6 points. Other scorers: Susan Lane, 10, Wendy Stoker, 4, Estelle Wainer, 1. Miss Wainer withdrew early in the second game because of an injury.

KEEP FIT CLASSES Keep fit classes started last Thursday evening with a very poor attendance - three girls. The instructor, Joyce Smith (an Education student), was disappointed but she received assurance that more girls would turn up next week, so don't disappoint her again. These classes were started at the insistence of you girls, and if you want them to continue you will have to participate. A variety of exercises from the 5-BX and 10-BX plans, and also from the Y.W.C.A. program were offered, and while these may seem strenuous they're not really. Just remember "misery loves company". So, let's see you all next Thursday night from 6:30 to 7:30 in the lower gym! They only last an hour and it's worth it in the end".

Interesting Facts About GRADUATE STUDY AT McMASTER UNIVERSITY

One student in eight at McMaster is a graduate student, studying for a master's or Ph.D. degree in an Arts, Science or Engineering Department.

Most are receiving generous year-round Scholarship or Fellowship financial support.

Most of those holding National or Provincial awards have also been granted supplementary University Scholarships or Assistantships.

All are enjoying the many benefits of close individual guidance and regular personal consultation with their faculty supervisors, a situation made possible by a 1:2 Instructor-Student ratio.

Many are participating in exciting and challenging new programs of interdisciplinary research in fields such as Chemical Physics, as well as in Biochemistry, Biophysics and Molecular Biology.

Science and Engineering students have available to them the most advanced research facilities, such as the Nuclear Reactor.

Most are gaining university teaching experience by participating in an Assistantship program.

All have the rare opportunity of extending their cultural and intellectual boundaries as members of a graduate student body that is half Canadian and half from foreign countries.

Interested students should write for further information application forms to
