CRETE AND ITS NATIVES.

The peculiarly favorable position of the island, situated at the junction of three continents, as it were, and commanding the coasts of all three, has invested it from the earliest times with an importance such as neither Sicily, Sardinia, nor Cyprus, although much larger in area, ever attained. While forming in prehistoric times a stepping stone for Egyptian and Asiatic civilization in its progress toward the shores of Greece, Crete remained throughout antiquity singularly free from any close political connection with Egypt, Asia, or Greece. This insularity is to this day one of the marked characteristics of the Cretan people; and without accepting the view that they are the purest descendents extant of the Hellenes of the eighth century B.C., we must regard them nevertheless as one of the most interesting branches of the Greek race. Unfortunately, the gravest defects of the ancient Greek character were nowhere so pronounced as in Crete; and we are told that its history throughout antiquity was one continuous chain of civil strife, carried on with a savageness and bitterness of animosity exceeding all that was known in the rest of Greece. This political depravity was attended by such a degeneracy of morals as to render the name of "Cretan" a synonym for nearly every vice.—"Crete, the Island of discord," by Demetrius Kalapothakes, in the May century.

RELIGION AND LANGUAGE OF THE ROYAL FAMILY OF GREECE.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler writes of "The Royal Family of Greece" in the May "Century." Prof. Wheeler says: The Queen is a Russian, and a Russian with heart and soul. She never fails to show the warmth of her allegiance, whether it be to individuals, to political interests, or to religion. She is a most devoted adherent to the Russian Church. The ministrations of the church she generally receives at a little Russian chapel specially constructed for her use in the palace, but on the great feast days she attends the Russian Church in the city. The King regularly attends a Lutheran service held in the royal chapel and conducted by the court chaplains in German. The princes and princesses, however, are all adherents to the national Greek Church.

Almost as diverse are the linguistic conditions. The Queen does not speak Danish freely, nor the King Russian. Hence when by themselves they converse in German. Both speak English and French freely. In the family of the Crown Prince English is the established language. When the whole family is together it is made the rule that Greek shall be used at table, but at other times English or German is the usual language.

A THOUGHT THAT KILLED A MAN!

HE thought that he could trifle with disease. He was run down in health, felt tired and worn out, complained of dizziness, biliousness, backaches and headaches. His liver and kidneys were out of order. He thought to get well by dosing himself with cheap remedies. And then came the ending. He fell a victim to Bright's disease! The money he ought to have invested in a safe, reliable remedy went for a tombstone.

is the only standard remedy in the world for kidney and liver complaints. It is the only remedy which physicians universally prescribe. It is the only remedy that is backed by the testimony of thousands whom it has relieved and cured.
