QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

CALK.

Horse calked himself four weeks ago. The wound did well for a time, but now there appears to be proud flesh. H. H.

Ans.—Apply butter of antimony with a feather once daily until the proud flesh disappears. Then keep clean and dress three times daily with carbolic acid 1 part, water 25 parts. V.

PIGS COUGH AND PANT.

For several years I have been troubled with sickness in my pigs. They usually cough for two or three days, and then begin to pant, and will cough and pant for five days and then die. In some cases they cough, but do not pant, in which cases they recover. G. H.

Ans.—The symptoms indicate infectious bronchitis, which is very hard to control. Lung worms cause very similar symptoms, and this is also very hard to treat. I think it would be wise for you to get your veterinarian to hold a careful post-mortem in order to diagnose. In case of either trouble, it is often necessary to get rid of the lot, and thoroughly disinfect the premises before introducing fresh stock. The treatment recommended for either trouble is to cause the "inhalation of sulphurous acid by placing pigs in a pen, closing all windows, etc., and burning sulphur so long as you can stand the fumes, then open windows, etc., to admit air. The treatment can be repeated about every ten days. V.

COW FAILS TO CONCEIVE.

Cow aborted in August. She was bred again in three months, but did not conceive, and is not yet in calf. I have some other cows that I cannot get to conceive. J. G.

Ans.—There are many causes of sterility. If it is due to disease of the ovaries, nothing can be done. The most common removable cause is closure of the opening through the neck of the womb. It is also claimed that bacteria in the vagina is a common cause, and that "the yeast treatment" will have the desired effect. This consists in pouring a little warm water on an ordinary yeast cake, allowing it to stand for about 24 hours, and then adding water to make a quart, allowing this to stand another 24 hours, and injecting this into the vagina about an hour before service. When the cow shows oestrus, have the neck of the womb examined. The operator oils his hand and arm, inserts hand through vulva and vagina until the fingers meet the neck of the womb. If it be closed, he dilates the passage with his finger, or, if necessary, uses a sound or some instrument (perfectly smooth hardwood has been used) about 1/4-inch in diameter. Having dilated the opening, inject the above solution into the vagina, and breed her in about an hour. V.

SCIRRHOUS CORD, ETC.

1. Colt rising three was castrated last June and has not done well since going into the stable last fall. Each side of the scrotum contains a lump larger than a testicle. About six weeks ago one side swelled, burst and discharged a quantity of bloody matter. Both of the old scars opened up.

2. Another colt of the same age was castrated at the same time. He has done well, but there is still a discharge of matter from one side.

3. State the best age to have colts castrated. W. P.

Ans.—1. This is called scirrhus cord, and is due to a germ acting upon the cord. He will have to be operated on again by a veterinarian. If the scrotum is still discharging, it would be well to syringe out the openings once or twice daily with a 3-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid, until healed, and wait for mild weather, probably about the middle of May, to operate.

2. This is a fistula, and it would be well to have it operated upon at the same time as No. 1.

3. Some prefer operating when the colt is about two weeks old. Others at about one year. I don't consider it wise to wait longer than a year, unless the colt is abnormal. V.
